IS $2.8 MILLION TOO MUCH?

Federal Aid Plans Weighed

by BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

An administration proposal for $2,881,310 in federal funds was referred to committee Monday to determine whether High School District 214 should accept large scale federal aid.

The board voted 5-2 to submit the proposals to the U.S. Office of Education, but only as a tentative measure to help the office prepare guidelines for writing and evaluating of requests.

The proposals seek federal funds to establish a cultural center and demonstration centers for the fine and performing arts, a center for the producing of instructional materials, a planetarium, and to improve reading instruction.

The board also referred to committee a proposal to establish a Neighborhood Youth Corps project to help dropouts to remain in school.

William Griffith was appointed to head the committee, which will consist of all board members and meet sometime later this summer. He and Richard Bachhuber voted against tentatively submitting the proposals.

AFTER PRESIDENT Arthur Aronson suggesed forming the committee, Griffith seconded the idea, stating the board needed to develop a policy because the proposals were "much more far-reaching" than other aid programs. "Once we're in it, there's no return," he added.

When the committee was first mentioned, board member Frank Smith asked incredulously if it would study all federal aid programs in the district. District 214, like most school districts in the area, has for a number of years accepted national defense education funds for science and math instruction.

Bachhuber questioned if it were the schools' responsibility to guide culture. He later added that demonstration programs never work like they are proposed, always eventually costing more on the local level than one is led to believe at the outset.

He agreed that the district needs a program to aid dropouts, but suggested that it could be financed locally rather than with federal funds.

ASST. SUPT. E. H. Gilbert told the board that school districts which have progressed recently have done so because they sought foundation grants and federal funds.

He added that the districts can submit any kind of program, and that the actual direction comes from the local area. He said the only control exercised by the federal government is in determining requirements for aid.

The largest proposal is for $1.7 million to construct a cultural and performing arts center and also to conduct demonstration centers at three high schools. The cultural center, costing an estimated $1.5 million, would include areas for musical and dramatic performances and two art galleries. No site has been proposed.

A demonstration center would be established at Forest View High School for metal sculpture, at Arlington for ceramics, and at Prospect for printmaking. Demonstration centers are open to visitors from other districts.

THE PROPOSAL for a materials center asks for a three year budget of $888,664 to allow the district to produce, classify, and distribute any kind of instructional materials requested within the district. Included would be slides, filmstrips, taped audio materials, and taped or live television programs. The request includes $440,359 for equipment, including a closed circuit television system, and $270,000 for construction of a materials center at a still undetermined site.

The district requests $71,250 to construct a planetarium adjacent to the administration center. The administration has observed the planetarium at Elgin High School, and considered constructing one on its own.

Like the other federally financed programs, it would be open to students from any private, parochial, or public school in the district.

Another $206,423 is requested to improve reading instruction in the district. It would allow hiring an additional reading instructor at each high school, provide additional equipment and reading materials, and provide assistance for training programs to improve reading instruction.

GILBERT SAID the only local expenditures required would come after the duration of the federal contract, when the district might assure salaries and some minor costs. Most of the programs call for complete federal financing for the first three years.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer said the district has "one chance in 2,000" to receive its complete request. A line in the report submitted to the school board refers to "the scripture which indicates that he who asks for little gets accordingly."

Elk Grove Makes Big Impression

No, Arlington Heights hasn't been annexed to Elk Grove Village.

Some Herald readers had called, puzzled because mail posted in Arlington Heights is being canceled with an Elk Grove Village stamp.

The answer's simple, according to Robert Probstle, acting in the absence of Arlington Postmaster Mrs. Virginia Dodge. The Arlington Heights canceling die stamp broke several weeks ago.

THERE WAS NO extra on hand, so a die from the substation which serves Elk Grove Village was pressed into service here.

Probstle said the die has to be specially made. A new one reading "Arlington Heights, Ill." should be in use this week.

Letters stamped by businesses having postal meters, of course, were not affected, so Arlington Heights did not completely vanish during the interim.

It's Every-Other-Day

Full Sprinkling Ban Lifted

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

Arlington Heights has a week-old lawn sprinkling ordinanec.

And a village manager who's wondering when his problems, like the water supply, are going to dry up.

The village board last week approved the ordinance which limits lawn and garden sprinkling to odd and even numbered days, corresponding to house numbers. The regulations became effective last Thursday.

Three days later, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson had to send police cars and fire trucks through the streets, announcing a total ban on sprinkling. He ended the total ban late Monday, so Arlington residents are back on the every-other-day regulation.

An electrical "bug" 750 feet below Arlington Heights shorted out the comparatively mild sprinkling regulation, Hanson said.

Hanson had asked the village board to approve the permanent regulations, in order to end the nuisance — and uncertainty —of temporary bans when water pressure became low. He hoped the every-other-day regulation would even off water demand levels, ending the need to send out sound trucks.

HIS HOPES FOR the simple, orderly life under the new ordinance were inundated Saturday, when the bug developed at the well at Douglas Street and Northwest Highway.

The well pumps 1.6 million gallons a day and is vital to maintenance of pressures during heavy demand times.

Water department personnel checked the pump — from a distance — and learned it was shorted, Hanson said. But they could not determine the exact nature of the fault.

So Hanson ordered the ban.

LATE MONDAY, village personnel got the pump running again, still without learning what had gone wrong. Had it been necessary to raise the submersed pump and remove it, the operation would have taken three days. Replacement would have taken a similar period.

Add repair time, and you could almost see Arlington Heights lawns turning brown. Hanson had the Oklahoma-based manufacturer alerted to mail repair parts, in case.

Luckily, the pump gave Hanson and village water users a break.

Incidentally, for residents with questions about the permanent sprinkling regulations, Hanson plans to include a summary in an early village mailing. The regulations were printed on Page 1 and the Legal Page of last week's Herald.

INTENSE HEAT Monday brought crowds to Arlington Heights in record numbers for this 1965 season. Telephoto lens magnifies crowded conditions at Pioneer Park, where 3,391 attended. At Recreation Park, 2,680 used the pool. All time records for the pools are 4,581 at Recreation on July 18, 1963, and 3,932 at Pioneer on July 1, 1963.

Sherwood Plat Is Accepted

Approval of a new Sherwood subdivision plat, along lines set by court decree, was recommended by the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last Wednesday.

The reocmmendation will be acted upon by village trustees at their meeting Tuesday, July 6.

The new plat involves nowvacant land lying south of Thomas Street and west of the Lutheran Home for the Aged. Under terms of the court decree, arrived at after the owner of Sherwood property filed suit to dispute a village turndown two years ago of an earlier plat request, all lots will be 100 feet wide except for those fronting on Thomas. The Thomas lots will be 70 feet wide.

A fringe benefit of the plat approval, plan commission chairman Harold Carlson said, is expected to be better water pressure for present Sherwood homeowners. He said this would result from extension and cross-linking of water mains in that subdivision.

Paving Buckles On Wilke Road

It was just too hot Monday. Shortly after 5 p.m. the pavement of Wilke Road, just south of Campbell Street, buckeled under the strain. Police, who faced the strain of handling race track traffic with one lane of Wilke out-of-service, said the pavement lifted eight or nine inches.

Village, Township Discuss Thomas Street Improvement

Wheeling Township officials have been asked to consider what role they would play in the event Arlington Heights' Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) initiates a special assessment project to improve Thomas Street.

The street passes in and out of the village; in some areas the street's centerline forms the village boundary. Portions of the street are unimproved; portions of it inside the village are improved with a half street.

The village has designated Thomas improvement as a high priority project, but split jurisdiction with the township complicates the job legally.

THE THOMAS work, and village budgeting of township-distributed highway funds, occupied village and township officials at a special session Tuesday. Both groups have indicated a desire for closer working relationships.

Village Trustee John J. Walsh Jr. said two apparent options exist in improving the street by assessment: Arlington's local improvements board and the township could initiate cooperative assessment programs or the Arlington board could begin a project for both county and township areas.

Walsh said legislation providing for both methods is new and possibly untested. BOLI presently favors a dual assessment project, he said, while trustees favor a single project under BOLI's direction.

THE TRUSTEE said the village "wouldn't want to be at odds with you" and hoped for the township's reaction before approaching BOLI.

Town Supervisor Albert C. Peters, whose immediate reaction was that the township would take no official position, said the town board of auditors probably would discuss the proposal at its meeting next Tuesday and give the village an answer.

Noting the complexities of the assessment procedure, not previously available to townships, Town Auditor Ethel Kolerus said town officials "would not be particularly keen" about direct involvement in assessments — a point in favor of a BOLI-supervised improvement. Town officials have met previously with BOLI to discuss the assessment procedures.

IMPROVEMENT of Thomas is expected to cost $93,000 for areas inside the village, $91,000 outside. Much of the cost would be borne by abutting property owners, but a "public benefit" portion would be assigned to the village and possibly the township.

Village officials also noted their difficulty in budgeting for receipt of highway funds from the township.

A portion of the township roads and bridges tax levy is distributed to municipalities. With a stable township rate for the past four years, village receipts have been $40,000 annually, despite the relative growth of Arlington Heights.

VILLAGE officials inquired how village growth, and this year's increase in the township levy, would affect Arlington's receipts. Peters promised to supply Arlington with statutes on which the distribution formula is based and to cooperate with the village, at budgeting time, in developing a realistic projection of receipts.

He told Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson the township had no outstanding problems to clear up with the village and "we have received good cooperation."

Home Sellers Polled By Anti-Bias Group

A telephone survey of 90 Arlington Heights residents who have placed their homes on the market privately—not through real estate agency — indicates three would sell their homes to Negroes.

The survey was conducted by a subcommittee of the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee. It was described in a letter to committee members by Mrs. Norbert J. Hruby, membership chairman.

Callers were asked:

"Would you sell your home to any qualified buyer, regardless of race or religion?"

MRS. HRUBY SAID, "Many answers were too vague to classify, but the two most common responses were, 'If you mean Negroes, no, I couldn't do that to my neighbors,' and 'I haven't really thought about it much.'"

In their first response, Mrs. Hruby said, some indicated they felt in good conscience they should be willing to sell to Negroes but feared possible unpleasantness.

Thirteen of those surveyed said they would definitely not sell to persons of another race. Three said they would sell to any qualified buyer.

The subcommittee survey was headed by William Gallagher.

Activities of the human relations committee so far have focused on gathering information, Mrs. Hruby noted.

"It is the thinking of our board that to do an effective job of education it is not sufficient to just guess how Arlington Heights citizens think about racial issues."

THE GROUPS'S community affairs committee has started a survey to discover what is being taught in the schools in the area of human relations, Mrs. Hruby said in her letter.

And the projects committee, headed by the Rev. Richard McCarthy, will soon send out an eight-point questionnaire designed to discover local citizens' attitudes towards minority groups.

Four thousand of the questionnaires will be sent out.

The group's public relations and education committee, headed by Richard Frisbie, is planning to produce a series of tape-recorded programs to be used in discussion meetings or neighborhood coffees.

Closed Monday

Paddock Publications offices will be closed Monday in observance of the July 4 holiday. Deadline for organizational news, normally at noon Monday, will be at noon Friday (tomorrow).

Assessment Too High

Campbell High-Rise Plan May Be Dropped

Plans to construct a five-story apartment building in the 200 block of West Campbell Street may be cancelled.

The possibility became evident at an Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) meeting last Thursday.

Architect Robert Babbin appeared before BOLI seeking a reduction of future assessments against him should the apartment be built.

ASSESSMENTS against Babbin would be made for a Chestnut Avenue extension between Campbell and Wing Streets. If constructed, the apartment would front on the extension.

ORIGINAL PLANS called for a five-story apartment costing $475,000 which would be taxed at an estimated rate of $12,000 per year. When presented before the plan commission the project was greeted with praise.

Estimated assessment costs were set at $28,000 by Babbin. BOLI members agreed with that figure.

"In terms of dollars and cents," said the architect, "it just wouldn't be feasible for me to build the apartment and suffer that added expense. It would be a matter of good business to go elsewhere."

Continued Babbin, "The purpose for extending Chestnut is to relieve congestion on Wing." Again BOLI members agreed.

"THEN," STATED the architect, "the project will benefit everyone but I'll be the only one that pays. That doesn't seem fair."

Babbin is the contract-purchaser of three lots on Campbell and an adjoining lot on Wing. Rezoning of the property to R-6 (high rise apartment) has been approved by the plan commission to allow apartment construction.

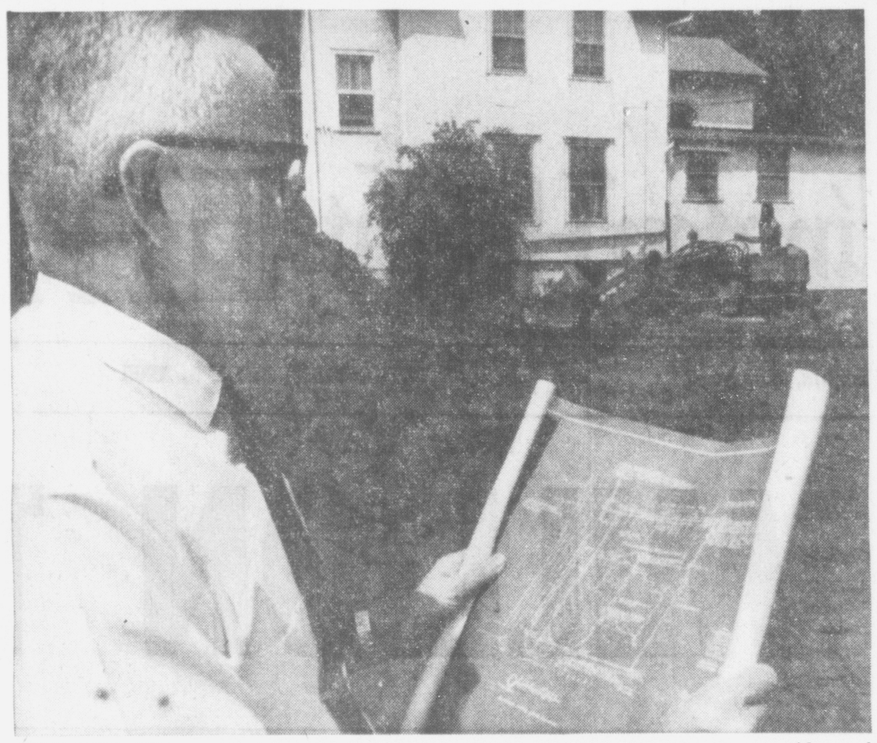
According to present plans, the Chestnut extension through that property would cut a strip 50 feet wide from the "front" of Babbin's lots. The resulting land loss was another factor cited by Babbin which influences any decision about construction.

The loss of 50 feet would cause a reduction in the number of apartments available in his building, Babbin indicated.

Geneal BOLI feelings in the matter were expressed by board member Harold Klingner, who told Babbin, "You certainly have a problem, but it's a problem we can't see any immediate or definite solution to."

One suggestion put forth by BOLI was that Babbin build all of the street himself by private contract and dedicate it to the village to escape assessment. Babbin countered by saying that the cost to him would not be reduced through that procedure.

Another suggestion outlined was that Babbin buy all the land needed for the street, build half the street himself, and dedicate land for the other half to the city. Babbin felt that that plan would cost just as much.



STEP TWO OF expansion plans for Paddock Publications was initiated Monday when the bulldozer of Harlan Yarke, Bensenville, started pushing back the dirt to make way for a parking lot at Chestnut and Campbell, Arlington Heights. That's Harlan driving the tractor as Bob Paddock, vice president of the publishing firm, studies the blueprint. J. C. Blacktop of Bensenville is contractor for the parking lot. Publishers hope to turn the first shovel for the building addition as soon as the new parking lot is completed.

One Sign Company To Fell Billboards

One sign comapny has indicated it will remove its billboards from the North Western Railway right-of-way.

Arlington Heights Building Commissioner H. C. Best early last month wrote four companies demanding a total of 13 billboards in the right-of-way be removed. He gave the firms until today (Thursday) to remove the signs, threatening to file complaints in circuit court if they did not comply.

The Foster & Kleiser firm of Chicago told Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel in a letter dated June 23 that its two signs would be down "by June 30 or as close to that date as possible."

FOSTER & Kleiser said they had been issued permits for the signs two years ago but wanted to cooperate with the village. The firm opined that Best "is receiving some pressure regarding the plethora of signs on this stretch of highway."

It offered to bring in experts to help rewrite the village sign control ordinance, which the firm indicated was antiquated.

Best said Monday he had not received replies from the other three companies: Briggs Outdoor Advertising, All-Sign Corp. and Diamond Outdoor Advertising. Involved are signs between the 1600 and 2000 blocks of East Northwest Highway, in the 600 and 800 blocks east and the 1700 block west.

BEST SAID he had not heard from the county building department, which he wrote at the same time complaining of extensive sign and zoning violations on the periphery of the village. (AF

Downtown Plan Implementation To Be Discussed

Implementation of Arlington Heights' plan for revitalization of downtown will be explored at a meeting tentatively scheduled for next Thursday by the village board and the executive committee of the Downtown Action Committee.

Village Pres. John G. Woods, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson and Trustee John J. Walsh Jr., chairman of Action, met Tuesday to lay groundwork for the session and to discuss future meetings with civic groups, property owners and others.

Extensive excerpts from the planners' recommendations for downtown redevelopment are printed inside today's Herald.

Plan Firm Okays Collector Tag for Kennicott, Ridge

Ridge and Kennicott Avenues should remain "collector streets" under any master thoroughfare plan revision, the Arlington Heights Plan Commission was told last Wednesday.

Rolf Campbell of Tec Search Inc., Evanston firm hired to resurvey the master traffic flow plan along with masterminding downtown redevelopment, said that both streets were logical north-south feeder streets between Palatine Road and Northwest Highway and should be paved 36 feet wide.

He said that while residents of the two streets "won't be too happy about it," the streets would get the same traffic whether they were widened or not and could carry the flow better if they are proper "collector street" width.

CAMPBELL AND Don Peto, also of Tec Search, gave the plan commission their preliminary recommendations on the village's master thoroughfare plan aat the end of a long evening's agenda. They wound up their presention at 12:15 a.m.

Their recommendations will be considered for a master traffic flow plan revision, on which a public hearing will be held Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Harold Carlson, plan commission chairman, set the hearing date for mid-September rather than August because, he said, "We want to make it possible for as many people as can to be able to attend." Many village residents take vacations in August, he pointed out.

The Tec Search people had been asked to make specific recommendations on the Kennicott and Ridge "collector street" designations because the board of local improvements is considering both for special assessment improvement projects—and both are being resisted by the two streets' homeowners.

TEC SEARCH'S other recommendations included:

—Designation of Euclid as a secondary arterial roadway throughout the village, paved four lanes wide. "I understand there has been some objection to this," said Campbell, but pointed out that Route 53 will have an interchange at Euclid that will "magnify its use."

—Curving of Wilke east to terminate at the Kennicott intersection with Palatine Road, south of Central to Golf Road.

—Extension of Hintz to join with Rand Road.

—Carrying the Ridge "collector street" across Northwest Highway and the tracks to link with Walnut, which would be the feeder street south of the highway in that area.

—Linking of Kensington with Sigwalt by going over or under Northwest Highway, to carry traffic to the central business district.

—Ultimate paving of Arlington Heights Road and Elmhurst Road six lanes wide.

—Use of Thomas and Oakton as major east-west collector streets. If this is done, Peto said, it would not be necessary to make Oakton wider than the 30 feet it is now, provided that on-street parking is limited.

WHILE THEY were not included in initial "collector streets" designations, it seemed Wednesday that both Park and Cleveland will be designated feeder streets for Scarsdale and Arlington Park Manor in final Tec Search thoroughfare plan recommendations for the Sept. 22 hearing.

Peto said Park was a logical "feeder street," particularly because of the signal light at State Road. So, too, is Cleveland, he was told by Sam Rudder, who serves on the board of local improvements in addition to being on the plan commission.

Carlson said that the commission's thoroughfare committee, headed by Fred Ainslie, will go over the Tec Search recommendations.

HE ASKED PETO and Campbell to consider recommending the extension of Waterman and Willow north to Palatine Road, to serve a proposed High School Distrrict 214 school site.

Closing of Walnut Street where it abuts another District 214 school, Arlington High, was suggested by Peto to a chorus of strong disapproval by the plan commission members. They said doing so could result in a cul de sac that would make it difficult to move traffic in and out of the area for school events.

Zoning Complaint In Circuit Court

A Circuit Court date was scheduled after Herald deadlines yesterday (Wednesday) on a zoning complaint in the first block of South Dunton Avenue, Arlington Heights.

Village Building Commissioner H. C. Best in April signed complaints against Robert Chamberlain, agent for Von Sydow's Allied Moving & Storage Co. He acted after expiration of a 90-day leave time granted by the zoning board of appeals for moving the storage operation.

AFTER BEST signed the complaints, the Von Sydow firm indicated it would "forthwith" remove the violation; Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said the complaints would be dropped if, indeed, the firm moved.

Von Sydow did move its storage operations. But it maintained its office in the structure at 31 S. Dunton Ave., apparently in violation of no ordinance.

Since then, the operation has been the subject of behind-the-scenes contention. While the storage operation is ended, trucks still stop frequently.

BUSINESSMAN Joe Schneller, whose furniture store occupies the back half of the building and faces Evergreen Avenue, expected to move his Colonial Shoppe to the Dunton location. The Colonial Shoppe has been virtually out of business since Schneller's lease ended in Arlington Market shopping center.

Schneller plans to develop a department store in the former garage which is owned by Nicholas M. Lattof.

Best's complaints had been scheduled in Circuit Court a week ago but were continued to yesterday when Von Sydow's attorney, Max M. Fleisher of Chicago, had to appear in a different court.

Knob Hill Duplexes Rejected by Planners

Knob hill duplexes 3-48

Citing "a number of grossly substandard lots," the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last Wednesday, June 23, recommended rejection of a 40-lot duplex development planned by Ben Pekin, Knob Hill builder.

The motion to turn down the plan was made by commission member Leo J. Mueller, and approved 6-1; member Charles C. Cronin cast the only vote in favor of the development.

HOWEVER, the plan commission told Pekin it would withhold the recommendation, rather than passing it on to the village board for final action, so that the Knob Hill builder can—if he chooses—redesign the planned development or submit some other design. Pekin and his attorney, Paul Homer, had brought sketches of a garden-apartment development with them Wednesday as a possible alternate but indicated a wish for a ruling on the duplex planned development under consideration since March.

Of the 40 lots in the duplex-type planned development submitted by Pekin, 18 had "substandard" rear or side yards. Some of the rear yards were only 8 feet deep, although these had above-minimum side yards ranging as wide as 22 feet.

Supporting the commission in its recommendation was Building Commissioner H. C. Best, who told the hearing audience that in his opinion the village would be "creating substandard lots."

PEKIN DEFENDED his proposed development by pointing out that the village had originally asked for duplexes in the space in question when the Knob Hill pre-annexation agreement was negotiated several years ago. He said he was bound to the lot arrangement because sewage connections had already been stubbed in. To change would mean wasting that investment, he argued.

Furthermore, his attorney told the commission, the planned development met the village's required over-all ratio between the square footage of the dwellings and the acreage involved.

A number of Knob Hill residents were in the audience but none of them spoke at the hearing. Their attorney, Allan C. Peters of Arlington Heights, commented briefly. He pointed out that the plan submitted by Pekin had two strings of five sub-standard lots separated by one larger than the minimum square footage requirements. He asked that the plan be rejected.

"There is no such thing as substandard lots in answering a planned development," Pekin's attorney argued in answering Peters. "You consider everything in the aggregate."

THE KNOB Hill tract in question is zoned R-5 multiple dwelling, but Pekin's planned development was submitted under R-4a duplex, permissible under village ordinance as a "higher use."

With apartments, the builder would be bound by an ordinance requirement that 50 per cent of the units be one-bedroom and the other 50 per cent two-bedroom or larger. There is no such requirement for duplexes in R-5 and Pekin's planned development called for 25 four-bedroom units and 15 three-bedroom units.

The garden - apartment alternate shown to the plan commission by Pekin had 152 units, half of them one-bedroom and the others two-bedroom. Apparently this plan, too, would present difficulties, for the units were drawn to the regular R-5 2,500 square foot size while Pekin's R-5 area has a special covenant requiring minimum unit size of 3,000 square feet.

PLAN COMMISSION Chairman, Harold Carlson answered "no" when asked by Pekin if he thought the board might recommend waiving of the covenant.

"I would personally recommend against it because it (the covenant) was part of a larger agreement," Carlson said. (A

4 Conditions Set for Ivy Hill Park Land

Four conditions must be met before the Arlington Heights Park District will accept land on MacDonald Creek as the park donation promised it by Meister-Neiberg, builders of Ivy Hill.

The conditions, outlined by Charles C. Cronin at a plan commission meeting last Wednesday, include:

—A professional opinion that the proposed park layout is a desirable one.

—Agreement by the village to maintain the flow of water, perhaps taking title itself to the bed of the stream.

—Agreement that the village will maintain storm sewer lines feeding into the creek along the proposed park area.

—Approval of Meister Neiberg's planned grading by the village engineering department.

Cronin, who serves on the park board as well as the plan commission, last Wednesday told park district conditions on acquiirng the creek land during the commission's discussion of the preliminary plat for Meister-Neiberg's Ivy Hill Unit 6.

The plan commission is delaying approval of Unit 6 until agreement is reached on donation of the park land.

Meister-Neiberg had originally promised to donate a six-acre plot adjacent to the Ivy Hill school site for a neighborhood park. But plats of the current unit showed only 3.72 acres set aside.

Now, Ivy Hill builder Jerry Meister told the plan commission, the revised plat sets aside 6.72 acres of land along the creek. The land, he said, would be separated from Ivy Hill homes by roadway, as the park district had requested.

Meister estimated that the revised donation offer would mean that 10 per cent of the gross area of Unit 6 would be dedicated park land. The cost of the streets around the park would be $104,000, he added.

Meister, who had not heard the park board's stipulations before the commission meeting, indicated that he would meet the requirement for approval of grading.

He told the plan commission that the plat revision, with the enlargement of park donation, did leave him with one problem. "We are supposed to meet a 10,000 square foot average lot size," said Meister. As a result, he said of the park dedication, "We are falling a little short."

He said he hoped that when the plan commission made its recommendations to the village trustees they would ask the board to overlook the slightly smaller lot sizes.

He said the density of the area would still remain the same, with the lots, smaller square footage due to public donation rather than from attempting to squeeze in more lots than allowed.

Plan commission Chairman Harold Carlson referred the Ivy Hill preliminary plat to a subdivision committee headed by Fred Ainslie.

The Ivy Hill matter is expected to be on the plan commission agenda again on July 14. By that time the park district expects to have acted on a feasibility report to be received from consultant Roy Layman of MacFadzean and Everly, Winnetka landscape architects. The next park board meeting will be Monday, July 12. (A

Bid Opening Set July 6

Bids will be opened at 10 a.m. July 6 in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building for the proposed widening and resurfacing of Douglas Avenue from Oakton to Olive Street.

The project includes an improved roadway, curbs and gutters. It will be paid by residents under a private contract arranged by the village.

THE ARLINGTON Heights Board of Local Improvements next Wednesday is to set a formal public hearing for a special assessment project in front of one home whose owner is not participating in the private contract. He is James T. Hill, 1130 N. Douglas Ave.

Fee Guarantee Asked by BOLI On Willow St.

The board of local improvements (BOLI) voted last week to request from the Arlington Heights trustees a 2½ per cent guarantee for preliminary engineering fees for the Willow Street project.

The estimates received by BOLI for the 660 feet of sewer and water construction along Willow totaled $42,150. Of that figure $36,000 was for construction, plus approximately 10 per cent for engineering and 4½ per cent for legal fees. The guarantee fund is set up in case a project is subsequently abandoned. 2 Plead in Vain On Assessments

No satisfaction was given by Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) last Thursday to two Grove Street property owners who asked that assessments against them be changed.

BOLI is considering possible extension and improvement of the street which ends east of State Road.

Appearing before BOLI were Edward Mayer and plan commission member Norval Stephens, a former trustee. Both wanted adjustments made in assessments against them for the Grove Street improvement project.

Mayer, owner of a shopping center in the 400 block of S. State Road, asked that consideration be given for 24 parking spaces the Grove improvements would delete from his establishment.

STEPHENS appeared to request that he be offered the same 10 to 12 per cent reduction in assessment given other objectors along Grove. The reduction offer was authorized by BOLI on June 12.

Present assessment against Stephens is $852.

Present assessment against Mayer property is $27,337 which, according to BOLI member Harold Klinger, already includes a $7,000 allowance for lost parking space. Mayer asked for an additional $9,000.

"The improvements on Grove won't benefit this man," said Mayer's attorney, Frederick Weber, "That's rot," retorted Klinger, "this will open up that chunk of property."

AFTER A 45 minute discussion neither Mayer nor BOLI had altered their positions.

"I'm sorry Fred," Klinger called as Attorney Weber and his client departed, "we worked on this a long time."

"Want any side bets?" yelled Weber. "Call me tomorrow!"

In making his objections, Stephens said he felt "justice is not being applied evenly in my case." Stephens wasn't offered the reduction in assessment due to what board spokesman Klinger termed a "conflict of interest."

Not all those present agreed with Klinger's estimation that conflict was involved due to Stephens' plan commission and former village board membership.

"For my own self," said BOLI president Sam Rudder, "I don't know which way is right." Commented BOLI Attorney Kenneth Stonesifer, "There is no conflict of interest in my opinion."

KLINGER later outlined three choices for Stephens. "You can accept the assessment," he said, " or you can fight in court, or you can resign from the plan commission."

"It would be folly to take this to court, and you know it," answered Stephens. He continued, "If necessary I will tender my resignation to avoid any conflict of interest."

"In any case," Stephens concluded, "I will advise my neighbors to accept the reduction offer made them and I will abide by the decisions of the board."

Further discussion of the matter was put over until the next BOLI meeting on July 13. (A

Indecency Reports Investigated

Arlington Heights police are investigating three reports of indecent exposure in the past week.

They are waiting for the family of one girl to decide whether to file a complaint against one suspect. The girl, 14, said a man exposed himself to her Sunday shortly before 4 p.m. at Recreation Park.

SHE DESCRIBED the man as wearing a straw hat and sunglasses, driving a red car. The description checked with that of a man police stopped earlier with his clothing apparently accidently open. They said he had a previous conviction for exposure, and the girl identified his photo.

The other cases occurred last Wednesday and Thursday, involving a youth of about 17, with dark hair, wearing a red and white striped shirt and white beach combers. Incidents were reported Wednesday by an 11-year-old girl on N. Haddow Avenue and Thursday by a 13-year-old girl on S. Evergreen Avenue. (A

'Grand Slam' Tops Playground Action

Joe Danna thrilled Greens Park summer playground fans Thursday by taking the grand slam of amateur playground surfing.

Joe edged out his competitors in the 100 yard dash, went on to score an upset in the skateboard slalom, and completed his slam by teaming with Ty Josetti in the three legged race.

In horseshoes, Bobby Hull, using the same slap motion he is famous for in the National Hockey League, slammed three perfect shots onto the open stake to post his first victory of the young season. Also placing in this event were Ty Josetti, second, and Joe Danna, third.

DUFFY PAPPAS took a first in the senior men's kangaroo race while LeAnn Morrisett dominated the competition in the women's division. John Lockhart overcame a poor start and went on to victory in the junior 100 yard dash.

In the three legged race, John Lockhart and Steve Danna took the junior men's title while Anita and Debra Weidinger demonstrated why sisters should work together by taking the girl's open title.

The day's final event was a handicap race.

Carrying a swimming bouy between their legs, Bobby Hull sped to victory in the senior men's event while Ray Schmidt broke the existing record for the junior division. Not to be outdone by the boys, Peggy Lockhart took a first in the senior girls race with Mary K. Plant setting a conference record in the junior circuit. (A

From Paddock Files

How Old Timers Celebrated July 4th

by MICHAEL HESS
Staff Writer

"Independence Day is not celebrated as it used to be . . ."

Thus mourned a reporter in Paddock's July 1, 1910, issue of the Cook County Herald.

Continued the troubled scribe, "Maybe the people of today have become tired of the simple wholesome observances we had 50 years ago."

The writer looked longingly back to the 1860's.

His eyes yearned for "unique street processions with their 'horrible's, the city firemen" and for "the Kalathumpians, those grotesquely attired individuals who caused undiluted joy to well up in the youthful heart. . ."

His ears missed "orators, electrifying with their spread eagle speeches" and his stomach ached for "small boys selling ginger beer and lemonade and crackers and cheese."

THAT REPORTER mourned and was troubled. His eyes yearned; his ears missed; and his stomach ached. He was in sad condition. Could there be similiar complaints today?

Hearkening back over 50 years, would there be anything to miss in past July 4th celebrations compared with those which will mark the day this year? An examination of that same July 1, 1910 issue might yield some answers.

Independence Day, 1910, in Roselle was highlighted by horse and mule races, a "tug of war between Cook and DuPage Counties," and "first class music by the Turick Band of 10 pieces." Also, the park club had purchased "$50 worth of fireworks to make a grand display at night."

For 1965 the Roselle features of the Fourth will be a fireworks display Sunday night at Lake Park High School and a tennis tournament which begins on Saturday with finals on Sunday.

BIG DOINGS were promised in an old ad directed at residents of Elk Grove and Mount Prospect. Stated the 1910 appeal:

"Hurray Boys and Girls! We'll make the eagle scream at the grand picnic and dance to be held in Schnell's Maple Grove. Games and all kinds of sports. Dance in evening with music by Elgin Orchestra (50 cents). Buses still run to the grounds."

This year Elk Grove Village will have fireworks, donkey baseball, and a water show on Sunday. In Mount Prospect there will be a Friday through Monday carnival with fireworks and a parade on Sunday and dancing in the evenings.

Wheeling's 4th in 1910 was centered on a "Presbyterian Sunday School Annual Picnic in Mrs. Mors' Grove east of the river." There the Prairie View Brass Band played and "good prizes" were awarded "for races of all kinds."

"Grand Celebration and Picnic" in Weidner's Grove was the special event of Buffalo Grove's Independence Day in 1910.

DURING THE DAY there were "games and pastimes for everybody . . . all kinds of fruits, candies and refreshments served" and in the evening a "first class Italian string orchestra." For those who wished to waltz there was the "finest new dance floor in the shade."

While no organized celebration is planned in Wheeling this year, residents there might travel to Buffalo Grove on the Fourth. For 1965 Buffalo Grove has planned fireworks, a concert, final competition in the Miss Teen Queen Pageant, and the presentation of sports awards.

Palatine this year offers a speech by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) plus a parade, concert and fireworks. At a more ancient July 4th in the same village, there were "special races at the Charles E. Dean Track," plus "special entertainers secured from Chicago" and a barn dance.

JULY FOURTH, 1910, could have been celebrated at Meyer's Pond. The site was located behind what is now the Arlington Municipal Building. On the pond and in the pavilion to the rear, local firemen held their Independance Day picnics while partaking of liquid spirits. The imbibing days lasted until prohibition at which time falling in the water and gently wooing a wondering lady seemed not the same without a hip flask. July Fourth festivities ceased at Meyer's Pond in the 1920's when the pond was filled in. (A15

FIREWORKS, concerts, parades and food seem to be the staples of most of the 1965 celebrations. Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows and Bensenville will feature all or a portion of that usual quartet of events.

Hoffman Estates will have a parade and fireworks along with an auction and horseshoe pitching.

Rolling Meadows will have fireworks and a concert along with a chicken barbecue. Fireworks, a band concert and possible Monday parade are on tap in Bensenville. At this writing Addison and Wood Dale had no definite preparations for the Fourth.

Probably the biggest time this year will be had by residents of Streamwood. With those from Bartlett and Hanover invited there will be a parade of 50 units, sky divers, waterfights, dancing, a choral performance, $1,000 in fireworks, and an appearance by Rudy Vallee in Streamwood's "old fashioned" celebration.

The finest and most extensive of all the 1910 festivities honoring Uncle Sam's Birthday took place in Arlington Heights. Events there were put on a tight schedule.

Everything started at 1:30 p.m. with a "grand parade led by the Concordia Band." Reviewing the parade were "Mayor Mors and others" who were stationed at the corner of Dunton Street and Railroad Boulevard.

SET FOR THE rest of the day were:

"2:10 Dancing. 3:30 Boy's horseshoe throwing. 3:45 Children's novelty races. 4:15 Young ladies' affinity races. 4:50 young men's dressing contest. 5:10 young ladies baseball throw. 5:20 married women felling four trees. 5:30 young men's foot race-50 yards."

Just exactly what a young ladies affinity race is or why the young men would be dressing are questions which probably shouldn't be asked. However, for those who succeeded in the contests there was an impressive array of prizes:

"A ladies' suit case, a silk umbrella, a safety razor, a high-grade rocker, a beautiful rug, and various other useful articles."

THIS YEAR in Arlington Heights? Nothing planned at this writing.

Of course it probably doesn't matter which Independence Day was better, that of 1910 or 1965. What does matter is the attitude toward the day. One attitude was expressed by a young man in a short story run on page two of the 1910 DuPage Register. Said he:

"I gathered in a little girlie that I'd been tagging around for some time and a bundle of condensed noise and we stepped over to the Fourth of July doings."

Shouldn't everyone today do the same? (A-15

Church Dissolved For Lack of Growth

The Church of Our Lord, Evangelical United Brethren, 1426 S. Roosevelt Rd., Arlington Heights, has been discontinued as a congregation.

The group's final worship service was held Sunday.

The Rev. L. Dean Miller, pastor, said the congregation had been dissolved owing to a lack of vigorous growth. The local conference, ruling body of the congregation, voted on May 20 to petition the Illinois Annual Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church to consider closing the church.

THE STATE body approved the action at Naperville last week.

According to the Rev. Mr. Miller, members will join congregations in surrounding areas. The pastor, who served here since Sept. 1, will move to his new assignment in Bonfield and Grand Prairie, west of Kankakee. (A

They are all local people, the eight men who direct the policies and shape the management of this Association.

These Federal Savings directors live in the northwest suburbs. Together they have invested over 200 years of their own lives here. Two of them are third-generation members of Arlington Heights families. Even the "newcomer" of this group will soon boast 20 years in this area.

The get-together began to take on the aspects of a family reunion with the arrival Sunday of a brother, James Jaffee with his wife and daughter from Whitefish Bay, Wis. The only regret was that the Jaffees could not have come Saturday for the party to celebrate the birthday of the Oravetz' oldest daughter, Karyl, now Mrs. Carl Brandon of Barrington.

YOU CAN CONQUER OLD AGE

There are a few people who live more than 100 years and many more could achieve this goal if they followed these good rules for healthier living. For, advancing age exposes everyone to certain dangers, many of which can be comfortably lived with.

SENIOR CITIZENS NEED MEDICAL HELP

They are more subject to rheumatism, arthritis, heart trouble, bronchial colds and falls or accidents. Men may develop a prostate ailment. Frequent urgency to empty the bladder is a warning to both sexes. Gradual breaking down of tissues can cause hardening of the arteries and liver.

CONSULT A PHYSICIAN QUICKLY

At the first sign of ageing troubles a physician should be asked for help. We now have many new, important drugs which can give some quick relief to most aches and pains. Sustaining medicines help stop sickness from worsening.

DENTAL PROBLEMS CAN CAUSE TROUBLE

Sensitive or poorly fitting dentures prevent proper food mastication, leading to digestive disturbances and constipation. Senior citizens should visit their Dentists regularly for attention.

TRY TO "THINK YOUNG"

Have some friends who are younger. Have a hobby, especially if you are retired. Do the amount of exercise your physician advises.

DO NOT FEAR OLD AGE

Modern research has proved that you can live longer than you think possible. With the help of your Physician, Dentist and the wonderful geriatric medicines, vitamins and tonics now available you can have a healthier and happier future.

Huge Adult Town Slated for Hoffman Estates

Village Officials See Similar Areas

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

Start a new northwest suburban Chicago community and fill it with 50,000 adults within the next decade!

Ross Cortese, largest home builder in the United States, has ambitions for doing just that.

Many Hoffman Estates village officials are convinced Cortese will succeed.

He spent nearly $10,000 this past weekend on a flight to California for a delegation of 25 Hoffman Estates public officials, newspaper reporters and civic leaders.

THE PURPOSE was to show the overwhelming success achieved by three communities started by Cortese, through his Rossmoor Corp., for men and women over 52 years of age.

Now Cortese is prepared to enter the Chicago community and has optioned 3,000 acres of land which he wants Hoffman Estates to annex.

Even if Cortese should fail to come to terms with Hoffman Estates on a pre-annexation agreement he is expected to go ahead with his new community.

Now farm land, the area is unincorporated, except for about 40 acres already in Hoffman Estates.

The 3,000 acres covers the northeast corner of Hanover Township, with another 90 acres in Schaumburg Township.

Exact boundaries of the development remained unsettled, with a few landowners holding out, but in general the land lies in the area enclosed on the north by Northwest Tollway, on the east by Barrington Road, on the south by Bode Road and on the west by Bartlett Road.

CORTESE TALKS, and acts, in big terms.

His new community would coast $500 million. It is the largest of six he has started to date. The others are the three in California, one near Washington, D. C., and one near Princeton, N. J.

The community would have about 30,000 living units, or "manors" as his organization calls them. In California, he has been averaging between 1.6 and 1.8 persons for each manor. Most purchases are made by married couples, but a manor also may be purchased by a single man or woman, or by two men or two women.

Cortese wants to get started on construction this fall with the hope of moving in the first couples in late summer of 1966.

HOW FAST WILL the homes fill up? Admittedly no one knows.

At Laguna Hills, south of Los Angeles, the Rossmoor is moving in 65 families or unrelated individuals every week. Since the project will have a total of 18,000 units, it could be filled in less than six years. The first move-in occurred less than a year ago.

Rossmoor's oldest development is at Seel Beach, slightly closer to Los Angeles. It was opened less than five years ago and now is filled with 11,000 adults in 6,500 manors.

The third adult community of the organization is at Walnut Creek, 20 miles northeast of San Francisco. It will range in size between the two southern California projects.

All three were visited by the Hoffman Estates delegation, although Seel Beach was seen only from the window of a bus.

CORTESE PLANS to use the same basic approach to his project in northwest Cook County that he has in California.

Architecture will be localized. He has hired the firm of Del Bianco & Associates, who have designed many of the schools in this part of suburban Chicago.

Preliminary drawings have been finished for the homes, with a colonial Williamsburg style. Each building will contain between three and eight manors. Some buildings are of one story, but most of two stories.

Buyers will pay about 10 per cent down on 40-year financing guaranteed by the Federal Housing Authority.

THE PROJECTS all are cooperative housing, which means purchasers are buying a share of stock in a mutual. Between 200 and 400 homes will make up each mutual.

The purchaser's monthly payment covers principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

But equally important to many buyers, medical and hospital insurance is included. The Hoffman Estates project probably will have its own hospital (which would be open for use by persons outside the development) and it definitely is to have a clinic.

Another benefit in a Rossmoor project is that recreation is furnished as part of the monthly payment. This may include golf, tennis, swimming, billiards, croquet, horseshoes, shuffleboard. Residents also parties, woodworking shops, sewing rooms, ceramic and lapidary facilities.

The residential community is fenced in, with guards at the gate 24 hours a day. This is to protect the residents from salesmen, joyriders or prowlers.

Rossmoor spokesmen say it's too early to estimate what the monthly payments would be in the Hoffman Estates project. They range from $179 to $239 a manor at Walnut Creek, but less for the two Los Angeles area projects.

ANY PROJECT OF the type proposed by Cortese for northwest Cook County arouses misgivings and criticisms.

The Cortese staff has a ready answer for all doubters.

Will an adult community take in a cold climate? Cortese predicts that it will because he is trying to attract persons who already live in the Midwest. He believes most of them will want to stay, even if they change their type of housing.

How about the failure of some "retirement villages"? Cortese agrees that many have failed, but points to his own success in California.

WON'T RESIDENTS of this "Leisure Worlds" (as he calls them) be isolated from the rest of society? He disagrees, saying many older persons already are more physically isolated than those in his projects. He also says they can easily travel outside.

Along with the housing and medical facilities, Cortese is planning to build a larger shopping center and two smaller ones in the Hoffman Estates project.

Should he be unable to come to terms with Hoffman Estates, Cortese has these possibilities:

—Annexation to Streamwood, which is directly to the south, and whose officials have expressed an interest in the project.

—Annexation to Elgin, now about two miles to the west.

—Annexation to Schaumburg, a close neighbor and competitor of Hoffman Estates.

—Remaining in unincorporated area and working with Cook County.

—Forming a new municipality (for which a population of 400 would be needed to the start).

ASSUMING HIS adult community is finished, it would be larger by 10,000 persons than Arlington Heights now is and larger than any other two area municipalities combined.

It would be three times larger than the present Hoffman Estates, which by a federal census this spring has 16,000, half of them children and few over 52. (A15

HOFFMAN ESTATES delegation, in California last Sunday, stands at a hillside northeast of San Francisco overlooking the Rossmoor "Leisure World" community arising in the valley at Walnut Creek. The same corporation has proposed an even larger all-adult community, of 50,000 population, for Hoffman Estates. (A-15

WOODWORKING SHOP at Laguna Hills, Calif., is one of a number of hobby and recreation facilities which the Rossmoor adult communities have used in developing their high sales volume, which they hope to equal in the Chicago area by the project proposed for 3,000 acres of land in northwest Hanover Township. Hot Heads Declare, 'Half Loaf Is Better Than None'

Loafing was everyone's favorite occupation as the first heat wave of the season hit, and local families with vacations still in the offing had only the weekend to spend at it. Half a loaf is better than none, though, and stay-at-home Arlington Heighters loafed with as much dedication to the task as their more fortunate vacationing friends. The heat didn't create much linage for the Sidelights, but it was wonderful for the corn striving to grow knee-high by the Fourth of July and a happy, safe holiday weekend to everyone.

The William McElroys, 122 N. Forrest, had a happy-hectic time last month and are beginning the new month today with more of the same. Mid-June they took Susan to a camp at Lake of the Woods near Decatur, Mich., where she will spend the summer as a camp counselor. McElroy's aunt, Mrs. Edwin Watkins of Youngstown, Ohio, came to visit at about the same time, and hellos and goodbyes briefly dominated all conversations.

Mrs. Watkins returned to Ohio Saturday. Today the McElroys welcome long-time friends, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Patton of Rosslyn Farms, Pittsburgh, Pa. They'll be here about a week, returning to the east after the holiday traffic is over.

Expected for a holiday weekend stay with the Keith Posselts, 302 W. Maple, is their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Berg of Napoleon, Mich.

JAMES WIST was 13 Sunday and celebrated with a local buddy, Charlie Schlaufman, who was his guest at Medinah's Adventureland and the adjacent "hot rod" park. Especially controlled and designed for the young teen not yet qualified to drive, the hot rod cars at the park kept Jim and Charlie happy most of the afternoon.

Birthday celebrating continued Sunday evening in the Wist home, 837 S. Vail, as the family was joined by neighbors, the Paul Kellers and little Paul, who had a birthday Sunday, too. Jim shared the happy birthday song as well as his cake with his small friend who was 3.

The Kellers came home to 843 S. Vail the day before Paul's birthday, ending a relaxing week at Kentucky Lake, Ky., where the head of the house still talked of his Canadian fishing trip of the previous week.

Keller, his father and several long-time friends roughed it for a week in Manitoba, at a lake where fishing was so good they still don't believe it. According to reports, they threw back more than they kept and they kept quite a few.

ANOTHER South Vail family just home from Kentucky are the Richard Ziekers, 831 S. Vail, who returned Sunday from four fine days in Louisville with long-time friends, the Roger Beaulieus.

It was also "long-time-friend-time" in Montague, Mich., over the weekend, as the Walter Meyer family, 1205 N. Dunton, visited relatives there and reunited with former schoolmates of Mrs. Meyer. Among the old friends were Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder, recently of Denver, and currently resettling in Muskegon, who suddenly said, "Say, do you know the Bill Bantas?" And the Walter Meyers came back here Sunday night with greetings from the William Snyders to former Muskegon residents, the William Bantas, now of 127 S. Dwyer.

Between the news-catching-up details of her mother and friends, Marilyn Meyer celebrated her 15th birthday all day Saturday.

Janice Pomerhn, 615 S. Ridge, was 12 last Tuesday and celebrated with a family party the Sunday before, sharing Father's Day fun with all the dads present. Besides her Dad, there was Janice's second most favorite fella, Grandpa Al Nelson, here from Lombard for the doubly festive party.

QUIET settled with a deafening roar at 608 S. Walnut Tuesday, following the hyperhectic days of getting two first-time campers ready to go, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clark, Kristin, Brent and quite a bit of gear left here Monday afternoon to meet in Chicago with other camper-parent families or a festive dinner party before train time.

Kristin and Brent will stay at camps across the lake from each other near Rhinelander, Kristin at Camp Bryn Afon for seven weeks and Brent at Camp Deerhorn for just half the full camp session.

The Edward Condon family, 505 W. Fairview, returned Friday night from a two-week vacation in the east that, unlike some vacations, went exactly as planned. They visited friends and former neighbors in Detroit, Cleveland and Philadelphia, visited Mrs. Condon's sister and brother-in-law, the Robert Kissels in Convent Station, N. J., and toured the New York World's Fair. The trip was perfect, they had a wonderful time and were back before the heat wilted anybody.

MR. AND MRS. Lewis Brown, 509 S. Chestnut, recently returned from 10 days in Jacksonville, Fla., and the Golden Isles of Georgia, combining business, pleasure, a shrimp cook-out and Mrs. Brown's birthday. The Arlington Heighters are frequent visitors to the Golden Isles and have several friends there: a pair of them, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith, celebrated their 18th wedding anniversary on Mrs. Brown's birthday and a happy dual-purpose party evolved. On another gay occasion, several couples enjoyed a nearly endless supply of shrimp, caught by the men in the party and immediately cleaned and cooked.

Mr. and Mrs. William Andres, 1145 N. Belmont, hosted a farewell party Moday night, honoring Rev. A. Piorkowski, who served nuptial mass at recent wedding of the hosts' daughter, Arlene. Father Piorkowski, Catholic chaplain at St. Joseph Hospital in Elgin, will be leaving the hospital and this area soon, and sharing the gaiety of Monday night's party as well as the sadness at the reason for it were two of the priest's fellow hospital workers, Sister Anacletus and Sister Lucy Anne. Coincidentally, the evening also marked the 59th anniversary of Sister Anacletus' entry into the sisterhood.

Others in the dinner party were the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Stewart, Dr. Royal Fitch and Mrs. Andres' mother, Mrs. Walter Jacobs, who makes her home with her daughter and son-in-law. Mrs. Jacobs leaves today for South Bend, Ind., to spend a week with her son, LeRoy and his family, former Rolling Meadows residents.

High point of Mrs. Jacobs' visit in South Bend will be witnessing the First Communion Sunday of her grandson, LeRoy Jr.

PACKING and unpacking has temporarily ended in the Marvin Brand household, 1002 N. Walnut, where a son, Christopher, recently unpacked after a week at Illinois State Normal University as his sister, Julie, packed for a month in Europe.

Chris, an Arlington High School freshman, was awarded an Arlington Heights Woman's Club scholarship to attend a conservation workshop in the university at Normal.

Julie completed her freshman year in Michigan State University last month, and is traveling this month with 34 fellow MSU students, who left for Europe from Detroit last week. They flew to London, toured that city, then went on to begin sightseeing tours that will take them through Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and the Netherlands. A final tour of Paris will end their travels, and then it will be back to London and home.

A Delta Zeta, Julie was recently received into the Alpha Lambda Delta society, the national scholastic honorary society for freshmen.

Mrs. Francis P. Van Wazer of Lake Forest was the guest of honor Father's Day at a surprise birthday party in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the G. W. Williams, 633 N. Highland. Mrs. VanWazer was 80, her party marked the first time in 20 years that she'd had all her children with her and none of the fathers present minded at all that the party was totally hers.

Besides her five children, every other one of the birthday girl's 43 relatives were present, including her first great-grandchild, expected in September.

Here from Minneapolis for the occasion was her son, F. P. Van Wazer Jr. with his family, joining her suburbanite children, Dr. and Mrs. Thad Bush of Wilmette, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Larkin of Lake Forest, Mr. and Mrs. William F. VanWazer of Arlington Heights and the Williamses. Although Francis Jr. came the greatest distance, it has not been the number of miles between Minneapolis and the Chicago area that's kept the family separated through the years. Most of those years he and Mrs. Williams have been closer to Mom than any of the rest. Dr. and Mrs. Bush lived for a time in Europe; Washington was the home of the Larkins, and William moved to Arlington Heights from Texas. Everyone, but most of all Mom, is glad that they have at last converged in the Midwest.

THREE RECENT pre-nuptial showers for the former Linda Burke, one of Saturday's brides, had surprise elements ranging from not at all to almost to total. Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Burke, 438 S. Vail, was feted first at a miscellaneous, non-surprise shower given in the River Forest home of her maid of honor, Miss Sue Norell. Bridesmaid-elect, Miss Judy Boak, assisted Miss Norell with the party that reunited the guesst of honor and 18 college friends, fellow Northwestern University alumnae.

Twenty friends of the bride's mother next toasted Miss Burke at a party that was a successful surprise right up to the hour of the shower — when the honor guest decided to go somewhere. Her mother had no choice but to say, "You can't," and to tell her why. Hostesses Mrs. Fred Martin and Mrs. Charles Hess were therefore a little more surprised than their intended "victim" when she arrived at the Martin home, 111 S. Walnut, fully aware of the evening's plot. It was a delightful occasion, nevertheless, and the telling of "How Linda Learned the Truth" only added to the gaiety.

Total surprise was finally achieved at the third shower, given by Miss Sharon Smith and Miss Joanne Hoad. Twenty long-time friends and former high schoolmates of the bride-elect awaited her in the Hoad home, 604 W. Campbell, and her reaction to their "Surprise!" shout left no doubt about their secret-keeping success.

Miss Burke and Stephen Massie of Mount Prospect were married Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

MR. AND MRS. Larry Kussow, 815 Burton, went to DePere, Wis., last week to visit her father, Rudolpf Vetter. They were the houseguests of her sister and brother-in-law, the Robert Dempskes.

Former Scarsdale residents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Steenow, who now live in St. Louis, were in Arlington Heights over the weekend, dividing their visit with former neighbors, the James Suttons and with the Larry Kussows.

Saturday they joined the Kussows and the Fred St. Johns of Arlington Heights and went to Madison, Wis., to attend the wedding of Miss Valerie Dwyer of Arlington Heights and John Essler in the Student Chapel of the University of Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clabaugh, 510 S. Beverly, arrived home Sunday from a month's tour of Europe. They spent 10-days in the Scandinavian countries and then flew to Amsterdam, from where they motored through the Netherlands to France, Switzerland, Austria and Germany. Favorite countries were the Scandinavian countries and Switzerland; favorite city was historic Rothenberg in Germany.

JIM OESTMANN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Oestmann, 320 Burton, spent the past week vacationing in New York City. He was accompanied by a young Arlington Heights friend, Jim Hanan with whom they visited many points of interest and went to the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Johnston Jr., 428 Banbury, went to University Park, Pa., June 12 to attend their daughter, Nancy's graduation from Pennsylvania State University. The following Saturday they attended the 25th reunion of Mr. Johnston's graduating class from the same university.

The Johnstons spent the week between the two events visiting friends and family in Pittsburgh, their former home. Miss Johnston plans to teach in the Forest View School in Elk Grove Village in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Neckar, 516 E. Mayfair, entertained Friday evening following the Dolores Eiler dance recital at St. Viator's, in which their daughter, Susan, took part as a member of the ballet. Guests included the William Housnechts and son, Bill, and Miss Elaine Davidheiser of Scarsdale, and Mrs. Lucille Kremer of Berwyn, and her daughter, Kathy.

The Carmen Duros, 510 Banbury, became grandparents for the sixth time, when the Joseph Engels of Chicago, she is the former Toni Duro, welcomed their first child, Joseph Frank, June 19.

MR. AND MRS. Delbert Miller, 411 E. Fairview, were in St. Louis over the weekend to attend the wedding of her niece, Miss Martha Firestone of Manchester, Mo., to David Miner of Kokomo, Ind.

Joining the Millers in St. Louis for the wedding were their son, Ray, who came in from Cedar Rapids, and his fiance, Miss Nancy Land of Clinton, Ind., and their daughter, Mrs. James Tippy who was one of the bridesmaids, and Mr. Tippy of North Aurora.

Ted and Fred Kleisner, elder twin sons of the Theodore W. Kleisners, 602 E. Park, are spending the summer in Washington, D.C., taking part in the hotel training program of the Albert Pick Hotels. The boys will be seniors this fall in their respective schools, the University of Michigan and the University of Denver.

The Kleisners' daughter, Maryjane, who has been teaching in Chicago since her graduation from the University of Illinois last year, will continue teaching during the summer, taking part in the Inner-city Head Start program.

Piera Maybee, daughter of the Robert Maybees, 400 E. Park, is spending two weeks at Camp Tawingo in Ontario, Canada.

MR. AND MRS. Victor Myer and a group of Scarsdale neighbors who had daughters graduating from South Junior High School June 14 gave a graduation party at the Myer home, 819 Bristol Lane, for friends of the graduates. Co-hosts included the Norman E. Johnsons, whose daughter Lynn graduated, the Richard Fruechtenichts and their daughter, Lynn, and the Edwin Gettings and their daughter, Pamela.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Jurco, 217 S. Windsor, gave a dinner party Sunday for the Rev. and Mrs. Martin Marty of Riverside, who are leaving soon to spend six weeks in New York City, where he will teach in the Union Theological Seminary.

Arlington Greens

The annual street dance sponsored by the Arlington Greens Community Assoc. will be held July 10 at the Beverly-Hickory corners, beginning at 7 p.m. especially for the younger set, including an hour of square dancing.

The adult portion of the evening will begin at 9 with square dancing until 11. All Greens residents and their friends are invited to attend.

Last Sunday ended a two-week vacation for the Dick Hoffman family of North Hickory. Summer cottaging on the Michigan side of the lake near Saugatuck was their choice for the holiday of boating, swimming and climbing sand hills.

Bill Morrisett of North Beverly Lane was among the 21 CYF members from the Christian Church who enjoyed an eight-day sightseeing bus trip. Bethany College in West Virginia, Transylvania College in Pennsylvania and College of the Bible at Lexington, Kentucky, were among the stops. Highlight of their two-day stay in Washington, D. C., was a visit with Senator Douglas. The group also visited the Gettysburg area.

Bill's arrival home on Saturday was in ample time to lend a hand in moving preparations. Greens residents for the past 12 years, the family will move to 6820 N. Loleta in Chicago this weekend.

ANOTHER family leaving the Greens this weekend are the Robert Lippens, residents at 707 E. Clarendon for the past 11 years. Their new home is in Allendale, N. J. On Monday morning, 10 neighborhood ladies attended the farewell gathering for Mrs. Lippens hosted by Mrs. McNamara in her East Clarendon home.

Mrs. David Matzke and daughter, Lynn, of Washington, D. C. arrived at the East Olive home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schick. On Sunday, the sisters and their families gathered at the Yorkville home of parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dickson, where the Matzkes will be visiting.

Houseguest in the Culpepper home on North Beverly Lane for the past three weeks has been her mother, Mrs. Blanche Martin, who made the return trip with the Culpeppers from her Sullivan, Ky. home, when they visited early in June. Also visiting the Culpeppers this past week is a 14-year-old nephew, Chris Polone of Beverly Hills, Calif. Both guests will end their stay this week.

NEW RESIDENTS are Harold and Virginia Klingner at 1123 N. Belmont. They and their children, Skip, 14, Tom, 13, Susan, 10, and 4½-year-old Caron moved in the first week of June from West Euclid, where they resided for the past 12 years. A get-acquainted coffee was given for the newcomer in the North Haddow Court home of Mrs. Harry Kushner. Co-hosting the affair last Wednesday evening were Mrs. Mark Jenkins and Mrs. William Gardner. Attending were several neighborhood ladies.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tomaso hosted a cocktail party in their East Clarendon home Friday evening for 40-some Elks Auxiliary board members and their spouses.

Home for a week's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes of North Hickory, is Ron from Cambridge, Mass. He plans to return east during the Fourth of July weekend.

A MORNING party in his East Oakton home Friday began the birthday celebrating for 3-year-old Ralph Sass. Joining him for the games and goodies were the Damiano brothers, Freddie and Angelo, Frankie Daletski, David Woehlck and Trudy Rateike. On Sunday, 30 relatives and friends were on hand for the cookout dinner also marking the occasion. Among them were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kurtzback of Chicago. A dinner party was planned for Tuesday evening with Grandmother Mrs. Louis Sass of Woodstock and several aunts and uncles invited.

Another birthday celebrant last week was 12-year-old Jeff Reed of North Hickory. Attending a performance of the Ringling Brothers Circus in Chicago with the family Thursday began the parties. It was followed on Saturday with a sleepout for his cousin, Robbie Petrillo of Wilmette, and former neighbor, Ti Josetti. On Sunday, 20 aunts, uncles and cousins were guests at the cookout. Arriving in time for the party were 10-year-old Sheri and 11-year-old Gregg Schramm of Chicago who will visit the Reeds for the next two weeks.

HICKORY MEADOWS

Newcomers to Hickory Meadows are George and Janice Oliver, 703 E. Jules, former North Kennicott residents, who moved in early in May. Their children are Edward, 8, Beth, 7, John, 4, Donna, 3, George, 2, and Francis, just a month old.

Francis was christened at St. James Catholic Church Sunday by Rev. Robert Hinterberger. Godparents were an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Oliver of Gas City, Ind. Also attending the buffet dinner later in the day were grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Husch of Elmhurst, great-grandfather Frank Skuble of Elmhurst, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver and Aunt Susan of Chicago and Tom Clark of Des Plaines.

Returning home in time for the christening was his brother, Edward, who was a guest in the Boca Raton, Fla. home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens, former neighbors. Sister Beth made the return trip with her aunt and uncle on Sunday for a vacation in their Indiana home. Dr. Oliver is a dentist, with offices in Des Plaines.(A

Two of the L. W. Bredehoft sons will be away from home this summer. Paul left Wednesday to spend eight weeks at Culver Military Summer Camp in Indiana and Carl will leave Friday for Calgary, in Alberta, where he will work on a ranch. Before starting work at the ranch, Carl will attend the annual Calgary rodeo and stampede.

MR. AND MRS. Edward Wilson, 304 S. Wilshire, recently returned from a 10-day cruise down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Their trip began in Cincinnati aboard the Delta Queen and went to Cairo and then to St. Louis. The trip was a new type of vacation and they said they enjoyed it very much.

Currently visiting the Wilsons are their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. Ronald Prater of Albuqueque, and their two children, Ricky and Beth.

Dr. and Mrs. William Jensen of East Lansing, Mich., are spending five days visiting his sister and family, the Arnice Basils, 427 S. Windsor. The Basils and their guests visited Old Town Saturday evening.

Vince Krekel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Krekel, 214 S. Gibbons, marked his 10th birthday Saturday, with a picnic in Deer Grove Park. His guests included Bob Lundstedt, Kevin Sullivan, John Kellin, Ted McKown and Michael Levan.

THE JOHN Lanzillo family, 1101 Mayfair, who moved here from Kentucky not too long ago, took their children to visit Santa's Village in Dundee on Saturday.

Mrs. Eugene Lukasik, 526 E. Central, provided the birthday cakes for two of their grandchildren who are celebrating birthdays this week. Kathy Deiker, daughter of the William Deikers of Bloomingdale was 2 Tuesday and Damien Lukasik, son of the Daniel Lukasiks of Lake Zurich, was 7 Wednesday.

Smoke Signals

Here's a safety suggestion from the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Your television set was manufactured with your safety in mind, yet it's well to remember these precautions:

Unless qualified, don't try to repair your TV set. It's much too complex for tinkering. Fire or severe shock could result. Call a trained repairman. Do nothing to obstruct the ventilation required for the set. Don't install it in a tight cubicle unless it is especially designed for such installation. TV sets generate heat which accumulates dangerously without required ventilation.

When buying a television set, look for the UL label. Have a UL-labeled lightning arrester installed. Your TV antenna may increase the danger of lightning striking your house.

New Popularity Today for Great Pyrenees Dog Breed

ENJOYING EACH other's company, Tammy Rolfs, 2, seated, and Dawn Olson, 4, are pictured with their dogs. The dogs are considered puppies and until they are two years old. Great Pyrenees — a unique breed of dogs — were used, possibly still are, for smuggling in the mountain countries of Europe. The breed has come into acceptance in this area in the past five years. By Lee Sechler
Staff Writer

Take four legs, attach them to a large snowdrift and add the reasoning and understanding of a human and you have a breed of dogs called Great Pyrenees.

Glen Olson, a Paddock employe, and his brother-in-l a w Wayne Rolfe of Rolling Meadows are owners of this unique breed of dogs.

"Glen saw a picture of the dog in a book and checked into its background," explained Mrs. Olson last week, as she discussed how the families came to own the nearly pure-white dogs.

"We've had five dogs in four years and Misty has been the best with children," Olson explained. His 4 - year - old daughter Dawn and her cousins, 2-year-old Tammy Rolfe and her 9 - month - old sister, romped through the Rolfes' family room.

MISTY WAS purchased by the Olsons in time for Christmas. She weighs 65 pounds but is still a "puppy."

"You cannot help but like the breed — even if you don't like dogs," explained Tip and Chip Kennel owner Mrs. Roy Peavey. Both families purchased their dogs from Mrs. Peavey whose registered kennel is one of the few in the county handling the dogs.

Great Pyrenees have been accepted in the northwest suburban area only in the last five years. Only since 1933 has the breed been recognized by the American Kennel Club.

But the Great Pyrenees is an old breed, can adapt to any surroundings, live as a house dog or tend flocks of animals, and is unequalled — according to its owners — as a dog to have around children.

REMAINS of the Pyrenees are found in the fossil deposits of the Bronze Age, dating his appearance in Europe between 1,800 and 1,000 B.C. although it is believed that he came originally from Central Asia or Siberia and followed the Aryan Migration into Europe.

It is a native of the Pyrenees Mountains in the Basque country which lies between Spain and France. And today, just as hundreds of years ago, the Pyrenees dogs guard sheep high on mountain slopes.

Louis XIV made the breed the official court dog. The first reference to the breed in the United States came in 1815, and in 1824 General Lafayette sent two males to a friend in the United States.

Great Pyrenees arrived in the United States for breeding in 1931 and in 1933 the American Kennel Club recognized the dogs as purebred, establishing the breed in America.

Mrs Francis V. Crane, who imported most of America's foundation stock, is given credit for keeping the bloodlines of the breed pure.

MANY OF the dogs were lost during World War II and in 1947 the first-American bred Grey Pyrenees won a best in show at an all-breed show in this country.

Mrs. Peavey, whose kennel is located in Barrington, said she became interested in the breed 18 years ago when her husband was stationed near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Crane.

The dogs are not cheap, with puppies selling from $160 to over $300. Most of the people who purchase the dogs, Mrs. Peavey explained, enter them in dog shows.

Mrs. Peavey's daughter, Mrs. Judy Bankus, handles the dogs. The kennel boasts two champions and six other dogs who have points toward their championship titles.

ROLFE explained that it costs only about $10 per month to feed the dog, despite its great size.

At first the dog eats four meals per day and then, as an adult, eats only once.

Both families kept the puppies in play pens when they were first brought home, and because of the dog's habits, had little trouble in housebreaking.

To quote from a book on the breed:

"The Pyrenees is naturally a very clean dog and is fastidious about himself and his home. Even a puppy will show concern with his muddy feet and will spend much time licking them clean on a wet day."

THE BREED is an excellent watch dog, but watches rather than attacking people who may come to the home. A mature male dog stands 27 to 32 inches at the shoulder and weighs from 100 to 125 pounds. A female is smaller.

Pyrenees sleep so that a door must be opened against it and uses its thick white coat as a bedding.

Church Criticizes Klingner Statement

A representative of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church appeared at last weeks Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements meeting to question statements attributed to board member Harold Klingner. Shortly afterwards final steps were taken to implement the Olive Street project.

Klingner was reported in the July 17 edition of the Herald as criticizing the church's reported unwillingness to agree to a private contract program for the project. He was quoted as saying that the church was not acting "as a good neighbor."

Howard Sorensen, the church representative, complained that the church body is still trying to agree on a private contract. He said the church would act out of consideration for its neighbors.

KLINGNER denied the statement, claiming he actually said that "the church should consider that they are neighbors to many people," and thus he hoped they would agree to the private contract. (The Herald reaffirms its original report of that meeting, covered by a staff reporter.)

When the exchange ended, BOLI passed and sent to the village board an engineering report estimating combined costs of all Olive Street improvements as $40,000.

A final vote by the trustees is all that is needed to start actual construction on Olive Street.

Expenses for the project were combined in the estimate received by the board. Formerly sewer - water main and street paving had been considered separately because of the possibility of doing the sewer - water work by private contract. (A

Coolest Place in Town? It's The Cellar!

Dream Come True

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Photo

The dream of a young Arlington Heights businessman has resulted in formation of one of Arlington's most successful new enterprises.

Paul Sampson opened The Cellar four months ago.

It has attracted up to 1,000 potential customers at a time.

The Cellar caters to teenagers.

They come to dance. Or to listen to music groups. Or to sit and talk.

The Cellar operates in the basement of the former St. Peter Church Activities Building at Highland Avenue and Eastman Street. On a typical Friday or Saturday night, long lines of teen agers wait their chance to get in.

FEATURED ARE A "house" band, the Shadows, as well as out of town groups.

Sampson, who formerly managed the Arlington Radio & Record Shop for his father and now owns it, also acts as business manager for the Shadows and owns the Cellar.

He spotted the vacant St. Peter property and began to dream.

"I used to walk by there peering in the windows and then go home and dream about the possibilities. Finally, I got up the courage and went to the village."

IT WAS SEVERAL months before the village agreed, he said.

"They were really hard on me. They investigated my public and private life thoroughly. They probably know more about me than I do.

"They deserve a lot of credit. They knew everything about this before they approved it. They're really tough."

The investigation, and Sampson's relations with the village, have paid off. There have been no serious incidents at the Cellar, despite its large following.

A regular contingent of four policemen is assigned to the Cellar, the village being reimbursed for their time by Sampson.

"That bunch of guys (the police) has a lot to do with the way this has operated. They have a lot of interest in the kids. We usually have one or two officers come down on their own time because they like the kids."

POLICE ARE equally happy with Sampson.

The Cellar has been open twice weekly — from 8 p.m. until midnight Fridays and Saturdays. The same hours will be maintained Wednesdays during the summer.

Sampson started the Cellar with two two-hour "shifts" on Saturday.

"We ran that for a month, but we couldn't accommodate two shifts. With daylight savings time, it was light during much of the first shift."

The Cellar has a full house every night, Sampson said. When it becomes full, the line forms outside for those waiting for others to leave.

CUSTOMERS are generally from the 14 to 19 age bracket, though there's no fixed restriction. "There are exceptions, if the police feel it is all right. They know most of the kids, they know the ones who are bad news."

The regular "group" is composed of men from the area. Lead guitar is Warren Rogers Jr. Rhythm guitar is Norm Gotsch. Electric guitar is played by Wayne Pursell.

Tom Schiffour is the drummer and Jim Sohns is lead singer. (A

Jeri Robbins to Stay With Columbian Family

By DOROTHY MEYER
Staff Writer

Arlington High School senior Jeri Robbins, 16, left yesterday (Wednesday) for Pittsburgh en the summer with a Colombian family in Medellin, the country's second largest city.

Jeri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Robbins of 130 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, will be a daughter "pro tem" in the Eduardo Gomez household under the International Fellowship program. As a member of the Gomez family, she has two younger brothers, Jorge, 14, and Carlos, 6; an elder brother, Luis Eduardo, 18, and three adult sisters, Rocio, Elsie and Gloria.

ELSIE recently toured the United States and visited the Robbins family to get acquainted with Jeri. Elsie's "very little Ingles" is the best in the Gomez family, and Jeri, a high school student, speaks almost no Spanish.

Jeri says of Elsie's visit, "We had a ball, trying to understand each other," but the international language of a smile plus a rich Gomez sense of humor bridged most of the gaps. Elsie's American sister admits, though, that she's cramming Spanish in every spare moment and hopes to be a better linguist by the time she reaches Medellin.

Jeri will go by chartered plane from Pittsburgh to Miami, where other International Fellowship students will join the flight, which will stop next at Panama before the last lap to Clolmbia.

DURING her summer stay Jeri will be as much good-will ambassador as student, her classes being limited to a few in music and art.

She will return here in September to begin the more serious work of maintaining her past honor roll status. She will also continue as a member of the student council which she served throughout high school.

JERI ROBBINS

PART OF International Fellowship participation is an agreement by applicants' parents that they will accept an overseas student in their home. To date Mr. and Mrs. Robbins do not know who their "son" or "daughter" will be, nor when the student will arrive, but apparently Jeri will be home again before the new family member joins the Robbins household.

Since Jeri's Colombian brother, Luis Eduardo plans to be an exchange student next year, her parents are hoping to be able to return the Gomez hospitality.

MR. AND MRS. Robbins are waiting to hear from their eldest son, Mike, who with his wife is en route to the United States from Stuttgart, Germany, where he has been studying for the past year on a Fulbright fellowship. He graduated from the Air Force Academy and was married a year ago.

Another son, John, is nearing the end of his first year at the Naval Academy in Annapolis, and a daughter, Rickie Ann, attends Colorado College. Their youngest son, Jim, is 12 and so far has not applied for overseas study nor joined a military academy. (A

Industrial Park Plan Nearly Ready

Plans for the first unit of the planned 400-acre Kenroy industrial park in north Arlington Heights will be announced in the near future, Kenroy Realty Inc. President Ken Tucker told members of Arlington Heights Progress last Thursday.

Tucker said plans for the development have been slow in getting started and the firm hopes to time the opening with the development of Route 53 in the area. Submitting a tentative plat for the first unit, Tucker said it would include 16 lots, one of them housing a 40,000-square-foot multiple - use building.

The proposed Unit 1 is at the southeast corner of the 400 acres Kenroy annexed to the village a year ago and faces Arlington Heights Road.

TUCKER said the firm intends to install utilities to Unit 1 in the near future. The large structure, e indicated, could house several reasearch or industrial uses under one roof.

Main body of the Kenroy property is bounded by Wilke and Arlington Heights Roads and extends north to Dundee Road. A 79-acre section stretches north of Dundee at Wilke. (A more and more people are moving up to total electric living

Every month

The reason? Simple. Electricity is so easy to live with.

With flameless electric heat, for example, each room can have its own thermostat. You can enjoy 80° in the bath, 72° in the living room and 65° in the bedroom. There's no burning fuel, nothing to make dirt . . . walls and furniture stay clean far longer. Come summer, electric air conditioning wrings heat and humidity from the air along with most of the annoying pollens.

Electric cooking takes the flame out of the kitchen. People stay cooler, and pans, walls and curtains stay cleaner. And, because electric heat is controlled heat, it takes the guesswork out of cooking. Foods cooked in an electric oven have a done-to-a-turn flavor that only radiant heat and insulation on all six sides can provide.

Electrically dried clothes come out sweet and fresh because there's no burning fuel to cause an odor. With no pilot light, power ignition or extra cost for tumbler drive, the average family's drying bill comes to only $1.25 a month.* And an electric dryer costs $20 to $40 less to buy.

See how easy it can be to move up to total electric living at your house. Call us for details, today.

You stay cool, calm and collected with flameless electricity. Precise, automatically controlled cooking, washing and drying—are at your fingertips.

Teaching Nun in Taiwan Visits Kin in Bensenville

by FRANK HERMES
Staff Writer

Sister Mary Liguori, a government instructor at Providence College in Taichung, Taiwan (Formosa), was a visitor to the Chicago area last week.

Formerly a Chicago resident, she is the sister of Cyril Hartigan, 903 S. York, Bensenville, and visited with the family while staying at St. Angela's in Chicago.

She was on her way to Harvard University and the Graduate School of Business Administration where she will take part in the International Teachers' Program.

Her trip is only the third time she has returned to the United States since leaving for China in the fall of 1936.

PROVIDENCE college, strictly a girls' school, grew out of a small English school, and then, a junior college specializing in Western languages. Now the college has a day and night school with classes in Western language (English, French, Spanish and German), business administration, Chinese literature, mathematics and chemistry.

Sister Mary holds the rank of full professor by the Chinese Ministry of Education, which is quite an accomplishment since the title is usually reserved for those with doctor's degrees, who have had a certain amount of experience, have recommendations of their ability by qualified authorities and some published articles.

In the case of Sister Mary, she has only a bachelor's degree. But she has letters of recommendation from the American Embassy, an American vice admiral, and many personnel managers whose office staffs are manned by Providence College graduates.

Her present position at the college is director of business administration and the evening school.

AS A PART of her research, she is writing a history of the Sisters of Providence College.

She relates that American aid has been very useful to the tiny island of Taiwan. American engineers have helped build dams, hydro-electric plants and many industries in the area.

There is no Peace Corps in Taiwan, but many college students act as a corps and go to the rural and mountain areas to help the people.

Talking about the American image abroad, Sister Mary said, "Some very bad stories, such as civil rights, have reached Taiwan, and they distort our image. It is very embarrassing to be asked about the Negro problem in the States.

"We are in the position the British were a number of years ago—we are on top—and everyone is trying to take a crack at us."

ASKED IF there was a visible sign of communism, she replied, "no outside sign, but the Chinese and Oriental hide their feelings very well. There is also no visible sign of tensions over the Southeast Asia situation."

The Americans think the Chinese are insincere, the Sister relates, and the Chinese think the American impolite.

"The Chinese would rather save face and go around the subject, but the Americans tackle it straightforward."

She recalls the incident of four or five people coming to the same door. They spent five minutes deciding who would enter first.

SISTER MARY thinks that Taiwan is a beautiful place, and that the inhabitants are very industrious.

The island is located in a tropical climate, but weather relief is a short distance away at the Ali-Shin Mountain.

Primarily an agricultural nation, the Taiwanese have solved the tropical weather problem by using the various levels of the mountain for milder-tempered crops.

The country deals in exporting, plastics and banking. The bank, says the sister, gives very excellent service. If you have a deposit to make, a banker comes, gives you a receipt and you don't have to worry about your money.

IN THE country three kinds of language are basically spoken: Mandarin-Chinese, Taiwanese and Japanese. The universal communicable language, however, is English. The Japanese claim that Sister Mary speaks her Chinese with an Irish brogue.

During World War II, she spent four years in concentration camps and under house guard, but was not treated badly. "The food was scarce, but we weren't treated badly."

The United Nations relief program sent shiploads of food to the Chinese after the war, but they never saw it. The food was kept in warehouses for the few.

She returned home on the Navy troop ship Lavaca for the first time in 11 years after the war. Asked her impressions, she said, "I was worried more of the traffic than I was of the Japanese."

She returned to the China mainland in December, 1946, but had to be evacuated in April, 1948 because of threat of Communist invasion. She finally went to Taiwan eight months later, and has been there since.

SISTER MARY made a second trip to the States in 1955, and she noticed a lot of affluence. Everyone had cars on the road, and merchants were free and easy with goods.

Due to the shortage of personnel in Taiwan, Sister Mary can only stay in the States two months at a time for both study and visits with her family.

She plans to leave for Taiwan late in July to renew her teaching efforts. (A-15

SISTER MARY LIGUORI, an ex-Chicagoan, presently a government instructor in Taiwan, was visiting her relatives in the Chicago area last week on her way to a Teacher's Institute at Harvard University. She was welcomed at the airport by her brothers and sisters and spent part of the week with Cyril Hartigan, 903 S. York, Bensenville. It is only the third time that she has been to the United States since leaving 29 years ago. (A-15

State Makes Grants for Mental Aid

The Illinois Department of Mental Health announced grants this week to three local mental health groups for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The Clearbrook School for Retarded Children, Arlington Heights, received $40,000; the DuPage County Mental Health Clinic, Wheaton, $40,000, and the Countryside Farm School for Retarded Children, Barrington, $2,775.

THE STATE announced other grants totaling $3,593,484 for mental health activities. Some $2,696,050 will go to 44 agencies for operation of 50 community mental health clinics.

Dr. Harold Visotsky, state mental health director, said the clinics will match the grants with $2,928,305 in local funds. He said the clinics served more than 25,560 patients last year, an increase of 4,500 over the preceding year. (A15

$1,950,000 Referendum

Pros, Cons Given on Swim Pool Issue

Voters Will Decide July 17

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

District 214's long-awaited referendum on swimming pools will be held July 17.

The board of education is asking $1,950,000 in bonding authority to build pools at five high schools — Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling and the new Elk Grove school.

Implicit in the request is the construction of five additional pools at future school sites, three of them planned in the next eight years.

Proponents see the swimming pools as an opportunity to provide all high school students with training in a healthful, important activity, to permit effective participation by District 214 in the interscholastic sport of swimming and to expand the recreational opportunities of the public.

Opponents see them as frills and an unnecessary tax burden in view of the district's other needs.

PSYCHOLOGICALLY, the referendum timing will favor the proponents: July's usual stifling heat brings standing-room-only conditions at park district pools.

The referendum was called on recommendation of a citizens committee which began studies on the proposal more than a year ago. The committee was not unanimous in its verdict favoring pools, however.

Proponents have stressed the pool's advantages:

A pool at each school would mean swimming could be incorporated into the physical education program of every youngster. Swimming is a healthy sport; it helps build the well rounded youngsters we want our physical education program to produce.

Further, there's the safety factor. Studies have indicated many children who do not have pools at their schools do not learn how to swim, even though they have park districts and other facilities available to them.

Swimming is one athletic sport available equally to boys and girls.

2) THE interscholastic swimming program suffers because pools are rented. Other schools cannot be invited for return visits. Swimmers must be transported various distances, and interest lags. Future arrangements for pool rental cannot be assured.

3) Park districts are interested in cooperating with the high school district to make the facilities available to the general public. The school district has pldged to make the pools available, year around, at times they are not needed by the schools themselves. At present, there are no public year-around pools in District 214.

In addition, several park districts expect to place future outdoor pools adjacent to the high schools' indoor facilities ing more intensive use for both. Most likely park [illegible] in the near future is the Arlington Heights Park District, which currently has only two pools, both heavily crowded in summer.

(Convertible indoor - outdoor pools were rejected on the advice of experts, who termed them expensive to maintain and difficult to keep clean.)

4) COST PER homeowner for the five pools will be small. On a home worth $20,000 with an assessed valuation of $8,400 the estimated first year's tax amounts to $2.27. As the assessed valuation of District 214 grows, and as bonds are retired, the sum will decrease.

On a $35,000 home, with an assessed valuation of $14,700,the first year tax increase will amount to $3.97.

Maintenance of the five pools would cost $100,000 annually, it is estimated, and the cost would be partially offset by fees of outside groups using the pools. The schools' administration does not feel construction and maintenance of the pools would seriously affect the district educational program.

DISADVANTAGES of the pools, as they saw them, were cited by two committee members who filed a minority report.

1) No evidence exists that a physical education program is dependent on swimming to "utilize activity drives that are inherent in each individual to develop a person organically, neuro-muscularly, intellectually and emotionally" — the criteria provided by the school administration for physical education.

In other words, existing physical education facilities are not proved inadequate; swimming for all students is not proved a necessity.

2) Interscholastic swimming use is limited to three or four months of the year. Three schools can use one pool for interscholastic swimming.

3) Adult and public usage of school pools "varies from community to community and neither use on its own showed any need for a pool. This would seem to be the same for miscellaneous use of a pool — grammar school, clubs, groups etc."

4) CITING the then-pending 21-cent education fund increase (approved by District 214 voters last October). "Won't it be difficult enough to get cake without also asking for frosting?"

5) Information supplied by the administration "shows that whereas the maximum number of schools in any district of the Inter - Suburban Association Schools, including new or anticipated, is three, District 214, will probably ultimately have 10 schools. To build two or three pools is one thing. To build 10 pools is quite another."

The schools last summer sent out a questionnaire to 1,800 residents of the district. Based on the returns, the referendum could easily be defeated.

FEWER THAN half of the 687 responses clearly favored the July 17 proposition for five pools though a substantial majority favored a combination of proposals: 1) five pools now, and 2) two now, three later. Here are the returns:

Build five now — 324
Two now, three later — 111
No pools — 246
"Yes" and "No" answers—6

Proponents themselves have cited three potential reasons for opposing the referendum:

1) People who want an opportunity to express dissatisfaction with generally rising taxes will vote "no" because the swimming program will raise taxes.

2) People feel there are other facilities that can handle swimming besides the high schools, and through these facilities people can learn how to swim.

3) Some feel swimming is not really part of an educational program; that it is not the school's responsibility to teach swimming; that it is the parents' responsibility to find a way for their children to learn to swim; that in fact it is possible to go through life not knowing how to swim.

Plans call for each of the five pools to have a minimum size of 42 feet by 75 feet 1 inch to insure their meeting interscholastic regulations. They would include filter rooms, dressing rooms, lockers for boys and girls, gallery seating space, decks surrounding pools and two spring boards. Depths would range from 3½ to 12 feet.

COST ESTIMATES range from $345,000 at Elk Grove to $480,500 at Prospect High School. The Prospect and Forest View projections include $14,500 each for accommodation of park district needs. And the Prospect total includes $140,000 for other facilities — field house lobby and wrestling area.

Tallies developed in the citizens committee study show that of the 36 schools which are either in the Inter-Suburban or Association or with which District 214 competes, 22 have pools.

WHEN THIS MAN WAS PRESIDENT

we opened our First Savings Account

June 27, 1926 was quite a day at Investors Savings. That was the day that Jerry Voves opened a savings account with us. Especially quite a day — because it was our first account . . . we had just received our charter . . . had two employees.

Calvin Coolidge was then President of the United States — and that was forty years ago. Twice every year since then . . . every six months for forty years . . . dividends have been paid to every Investor's saver, including of course that first one to Mr. Voves. This was done as no demonstration . . . no "record" was contemplated . . . we were out to prove nothing. Yet these simple, straightforward dividend actions, more than anything else, are responsible for our growth to the more than forty million dollar institution we are today. This past performance gives real meaning to the major copy line of this ad . . .

Paddock Publications

Suburbanite Emergency Protection Personal Accident Policy

ISSUED EXCLUSIVELY TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS AND THEIR FAMILY HOUSEHOLD MEMBERS

- The number of travel accidents is frightening. Practically everyone uses public or private conveyances such as automobiles, trucks, buses, taxis, trains, airplanes, boats and elevators. Pedestrians while walking or standing on public streets and highways are often struck, knocked down or run over by vehicles. Crowded and outmoded streets and highways, speeding, reckless drivers, blowouts and bad weather conditions cause accidents that kill or injure people every minute. If for no other reason, everyone should have protection for travel accidents when you think how much time is spent each day on transportation. At vacation time no one should be without the protection of this policy.
- The entire family should have this protection—man, woman and children.
- Policy will help pay those expenses resulting from bodily injury—whether simple or serious—when accidents strike at home, while traveling, at work, on the farm, at school, or at play.
- Subject to its provisions, the policy includes indemnity for: Loss of Life, from $500 to $10,000; Loss of Limb, $250 to $10,000; Loss of Sight, $175 to $10,000; Total Disability, up to $500, pro-rated on a daily basis; First Aid, up to $5 for non-disabling injury; Ambulance, up to $10 for this service; Hospital, up to $200, pro-rated on a daily basis; X-Ray, up to $10 for injury examination.

It's Great! It's Wonderful to picture your little boy's satisfaction when he masters his two-wheeler and is able to take off on his own. This happy father is already enjoying a sense of satisfaction, knowing how inexpensively he was able to provide this fun when he purchased the bicycle the easy way — through Paddock Publications Want Ads.

Happy, too, are the parents of the growing boy who is now riding a 26" bike. They were able to sell the smaller-sized bicycle for cash the easy way — through a Paddock Publications Want Ad.

District 301 Cool to New Association

A proposal to join an association of northern Illinois junior colleges made no progress with the District 301 junior college board last Thursday.

The district received the proposal from the administration of Blackhawk Junior College in Moline, which suggested forming an association by August.

The board decided it has too many other problems now. Board Member Richard Johnson said the proposed association would act mainly as a lobbying group and questioned if District 301 were interested in joining it on that basis. (B10

District 301 Gets Office, Phone Number

The District 301 junior college board signed a lease last Thursday to locate its temporary offices at 34 W. Chicago Ave., Palatine. Its telephone number will be 358-9100.

The district staff will begin answering calls at that number after July 1. Later, when furniture is purchased, the board will begin to hold its meetings there, and the president will have an office at the location.

BY LINDA NORRIS

For a jazzman who was suckled on a snare drum, preformed on more than 1,000 albums and recorded 25 of his own, who propriets one of the most successful jazz spots in Hollywood, it might sound anticlimactic to announce that Shelly Manne's coming out with a new album titled, My Fair Lady . . . But as far as Shelly's concerned, his first album for Capitol is the Greatest I've ever recorded . . . Why? I've always wanted to record a Broadway show with a jazz concept using the tunes in the order they were intended to be used, stated the veteran jazz drummer who was born in New York City on June 11, 1920.

My Fair Lady was my first opportunity to do this, he said. It's a single composition all the way through and contains all the elements of jazz: big band, small combo and vocal . . . He feels it could become a classic album, without prejudice on his part . . . Like you build a house, he pointed out. When it's completed, you stand back and look. It's an emotional thing. You know exactly what you've got — whether it's a monstrosity or a castle. My Fair Lady is my castle.

Shelly's jazz version of the Lerner and Loewe musical with the Un-original cast, stars vocalists Irene Kral and Jack Sheldon with arrangements by Johnny Williams . . . Sheldon, incidentally, stars on CBS-TV's new Cara Williams Show . . . They share Shelly's wax castle with an 18-piece band and a quintet comprised of some of the nation's top jazz musicians . . . Shelly's nightclub, The Manne-Hole, located on Cahuenga near Hollywood Blvd., has been a successful enterprise since the auburn-haired drummer established it for four years ago.

From A. J. Karraker, Venango, Nebraska: "I was born near Dongola, Union County, Illinois, and the item by Iva B. Stephenson, Paradise, California, doesn't seem to have much respect for our age, and neither of us can be considered teenagers. Yet, she failed to show how we produced the lye with which the homemade soap was made. The following is a partial explanation of the "ash hopper."

Using a log about six feet long, hollowed out, leaving one end closed and one end open to form a trough. It was hollowed out with an ax to a depth of about six inches, depending on the size of the log. This trough constituted the bottom of the ash hopper. The hopper was a v-shaped bin the length of the trough and about five feet high supported by a frame. Both ends of the bin were boxed in, making a storage bin for ashes taken from the fire place or stove and stored in the hopper during the winter months.

With springtime, water was poured onto the ashes until a rivulate was started. This was tested day to day and when it became strong enough to float an eff, it was strong enough to dissolve or eat the cracklings. The cracklings and lye were placed in a cast iron kettle and boiled until all cracklings were consumed. Consequently, homemade soap, cut into pound-size bars took its place in the smoke house, usually in small sacks suspended from the rafters.

Center Has 'Haven' For Lost Children

By BEVERLY TUTTLE

They come in all shapes and sizes; that is, the lost children who are brought down to the Randhurst Corp. office, located on the Concourse Level.

The children's reactions to being lost are as varied as the children themselves. Some are shy, some are bold, some skeptical, some crying, some scared, some smiling but in all cases we find "mommy" for them.

Some respond to questions inquiring about their first name, second name, age, etc., as well as a 12-year-old would, which helps considerably in locating the parents. Others are not quite sure of their name, "how many fingers old," or who brought them to Randhurst.

When asked, "What's your name honey," they mumble something, then for the next 15 minutes everyone in the office tries to figure out what they said. "What did you say your name was again, honey?" "Randy. . .Sandy. . .Frannie . . . Danny????" All of these names are only answered with a negative nod of the head!

OH, SO YOU are not talking today, what about a nice sucker? In the receptionist's drawer is a big bag of multi-colored suckers. To be a recipient of one of these treats, you must be lost, crying, on the verge of crying, or else know the receptionist! Treats also help dry tears, calm down a crier, keeps some from crying altogether, and makes the job of finding mommy much easier and faster for all parties concerned. Many a mother has hurried down to our office to report her child missing. . .only to find him already found, sitting on the "lost children's chair next to the receptionist, happy, (in most cases), and sucking on his lollipop.

Sometimes it isn't all that easy. I would imagine some mothers just don't know where to begin looking in this big place for their child. Well, if mother doesn't show up immediately, or if the child is not at the Randhurst office, a set of procedures is put into effect. The security officers are notified, the large department stores are called, and the paging system is activated. ("Will the mother of Susie, age 3, wearing a red and white sundress and a white sweater, please report to the Randhurst Corp. office, located on the Concourse level!") This procedure has been found to be most effective. It usually returns the child to the parent in the least amount of time.

There may have been no tears at all during the waiting period, but wait, there's mother at the receptionust's window! Mother's first words fall into various categories. There's the. . . "Where did you go? Didn't I tell you to stay right next to me!" . . ."Johnny, I just can't understand how you got down here, why I left you playing on the horse statue!". . .or "Baby, I've been looking all over for you, .or. . ."This is the last time, absolutely the last time I'm going to take you shopping with me again-" . . .NO TEARS. . . because he's sure as I am that there'll be a next time, because Mommie loves him, and she knows everyone likes to go shopping at Randhurst! Net income of the nation's farmers in 1964 totaled $12.6 billion, up $1 million over 1963.

It's Full House at Randhurst

All rental space in the one-million square foot Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect is fully leased, it was announced last week by Robert J. Flynn, vice president and gereral manager of the Randhurst Corp.

A total of 70 businesses, including Carson Pirie Scott & Co., Wieboldt's and Montgomery Ward department stores, have space in the center at Rand and Elmhurst Roads.

After signing the final retail leases for the center, Flynn commented:

"WE ARE extremely pleased with the fine reception Randhurst has received not only from the retailers who have sought space in the center but more importantly from the consumers who have been responsible for our outstanding growth. We feel the covered aspect of the mall has been a factor in our widespread acceptance."

Expansion plans call for opening of the Randhurst Cinema Theatre in July of this year and a possible high rise office building in the future, Flynn said. (Rh

THE WORLD'S largest covered mall shopping center, Randhurst, has experienced what its management terms "spectacular growth" since its opening in 1961 and now has all rental space leased. The 70 businesses in the center include three major department stores, Carson's, Ward's and Wieboldt's. (Rh

Paul Simon Reviews Legislative Record

By SEN. PAUL SIMON

My final report for this legislative session is perhaps a good spot to try to evaluate the weaknesses and strengths of the current legislature.

As this is being written much remains to be done, as in the final days of almost all sessions. We appear to be drifting toward a final agreement on reapportionment, but the whole thing could easily blow up and stay unresolved. You probably know the answer as you read this. If reapportionment does blow up, this certainly could go down as our number one failure.

Really basic revenue reform has again not been faced up to. Until Illinois adopts a small state income tax of one or two per cent, and with it a substantial reduction in the property tax and personal property tax, our revenue structure will continue to be loaded with inequities. Until that time, patch-work will continue, labeled as "revenue reform," but being only a gesture toward it.

TO THE CREDIT of this session it must be said that it was the cleanest in moral tone of any session in decades. As a result, anticrime bills were passed which in past sessions have been killed. For the first time in many years, serious discussion was given to some basic reforms such as strengthening the conflict of interest laws. Unfortunately there has been much more talk than action on this latter type of measure.

A two-year study of the legislative processes was approved and hopefully should result in some major improvements in lawmaking in Illinois.

The large new class of "blue ribbon" legislators in the House resulted in some new faces and some fresh ideas. Despite a great deal of published talk about "faded blue ribbons," I believe their record was generally a good one, and that holds for both Democrats and Republicans. There were some outstanding exceptions, of course.

The session was a hard-working one, with longer hours and more days, caused in part by more problems. As our population grows, our problems will grow also, and demands on the legislature will increase.

IT WAS A typical session in that public interest tended to be centered on issues of relatively little importance. One of the three issues on which I received heavy mail, for example, was whether the state bird should be the cardinal or the purple martin. I appreciated getting the letters, but too often there was little interest in a host of other problems much more pressing.

The two presiding officers deserve a special word of praise: Speaker John Touhy and Lt. Governor Samuel Shapiro. Their jobs are not easy, and both handled them capably and fairly so that both parties have joined in praising them.

At this point I also want to thank those among the readers who have taken an interest in the problems our state government faces; your continued concern is essential to maintaining good government. The publisher of this newspaper also deserves thanks for donating space to try to stimulate an interest in state government.

If all of us maintain an alert watch on state government, Illinois will continue to move ahead, as we need to do. (A-15

Dr. Clark Named Dean At Elmhurst

A former northwest suburban minister has been named acting dean of Elmhurst College, President Donald C. Kleckner announced this week.

The new dean is Dr. Robert J. Clark, a former interim minister at St. John's Church in Arlington Heights, Immanuel Church in Bartlett and Pilgrim Congregational Church in Streamwood.

Clark has been on the faculty at Elmhurst since 1957. He is an associate professor of philosophy. Clark has received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago. He did his undergraduate work at Elmhurst. (A15

Library Research Centers Created

Immediate establishment of four library research centers in Illinois has saved $500,000 in federal library funds which would otherwise have been lost to the state.

Alphonse F. Trezza, chairman of the Illinois Library Association Library Development Committee, pointed out that total federal Library Services and Construction Act funds earmarked for the state for library services amounted to $1,207,382 of which $500,000 would have gone unused.

Quick action by the Illinois Library Association Library Development Committee and a newly established Committee for Illinois Research and Reference Centers in developing a program which earmarked $125.000 for each of these centers saved the funds.

THE RESEARCH centers are part of the Plan for Public Library Development in Illinois sponsored by the ILA and passed as new legislation by the Illinois General Assembly this session. The bill now awaits Gov. Otto Kerner's signature.

"We are confident Governor Kerner will sign our bill into law and thus enable Illinois citizens to have this most valuable research service," Trezza said.

The centers will be established at the Chicago Public Library, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, and the Illinois State Library in Springfield.

TREZZA said residents of Illinois will be able to obtain research and reference materials in their local libraries through inter-library loan service as provided for the American Library Association Inter-library Loan Code. Research materials can be sent to local libraries through the service anywhere in the state.

The federal funds are part of those earmarked for use in the state during fiscal 1966. Deadline for proposals for use of the funds is June 30, 1965.

College Tax Credit Backed by Rumsfeld

Cong. Donald Rumsfeld, R., 13th, has praised the action taken by a conference of all Republican House members calling for action on a bill to provide income tax credits for college education costs.

"I have long been aware of the problems created by the increasing costs of higher educ and the obvious need ationha cation and the obvious need for some relief for the American taxpayer in this area," Rumsfeld said.

"I fully support the action taken last week by the House Republican Conference."

IN THE 88TH Congress and again in the 89th, Rumsfeld introduced legislation providing for educational tax credits.

Now, with the unanimous agreement of the House GOP Conference and the House GOP Task Force on Education, the tax credit approach to ease the burden of higher education expenses has been introduced in the House by Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford as a Republican policy proposal.

"That educational costs are increasing is shown by the fact that both private and public higher educational institutions have increased their costs on an average of 25 per cent over the last five years," Rumsfeld pointed out.

"I feel that a tax credit against the Federal income tax would be a most appropriate and effective means of relieving individuals of some of the rising costs of higher education.

"MOREOVER, this approach is in line with the best principles of our tax law that Congress should not tax income which is being spent to achieve a high priority social purpose. This has long been the case with charitable contributions."

In pointing out that the Congress is controlled by the Democrats by the overwhelming margin of 2 to 1 (294 Democrats to 141 Republicans in the House) Rumsfeld said: "Help is needed now. It is time for the people of the nation to call upon President Johnson and the Democratic Party to provide this urgently needed tax relief."

Report from Washington

Water Pollution, Urban Bills Likely to Win Congress' Okay

by BRUCE LADD
Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Two matters of importance to residents of the nation's metropolitan centers — the suburbs and the big cites — are jelling nicely in Congress.

Chances for passage of a water pollution control bill have brightened considerably in the last two weeks, and it is hoped agreement on a compromise between House and Senate versions of the bill is imminent.

Also, prospects are bright for Senate approval of a bill creating a cabinet-level Department of Housing and Urban Development. The House approved the bill in mid-June by a vote of 217-184.

As recently as a month ago, it appeared that the Senate's insistence on inclusion in the water pollution control bill of tough federal standards would prevent passage in this session of Congress. The House opposed the standards.

LADD

The compromise now being worked out between House and Senate conferees will probably leave it up to the individual states to set standards for interstate waters, as specified in the House version of the bill.

THE SECRETARY of Health, Education and Welfare will likely be given the power to review state standards. In order to be able to do this, the Secretary will have to establish some form of basic (federal) standards to measure against state standards.

Key supporters of the water pollution control bill point out that the standards, whether federal or state, would vary from one river to another and even from one part of a waterway to another.

Should a state fail to set suitable standards, the Secretary would be empowered to establish federal standards. If the state ignored these, the federal government would be granted authority to enforce them.

Reconciliation of the two bills is expected to be announced by a House-Senate conference at any time now.

DEMOCRATS generally voted for and Republicans against establishing the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Both Paddock area congressmen, Rep. Donald Rumsfeld of the 13th District and Rep. John N. Erlenborn of the 14th District, voted no.

Rumsfeld favored a GOP-conceived bill to create an Office of Community Development to assist cities and suburbs in solving problems of planning and growth.

"I felt the Office of Community Development under the Executive Office of the President was a superior proposal to that offered by the administration," Rumsfeld explained.

"The Republican bill, which I introduced in the House, would not have discouraged local and state initiative nor directed the development of appropriate solutions, but would have provided state and local officials with a point of reference and a catalytic agent for making sense out of the more than 60 federal programs for aiding urban centers."

Erlenborn offered an amendment to the Administration bill. It provided that the Federal Housing Authority would be placed under a Presidentially appointed Federal Housing Commissioner responsible to the new Department Secretary.

"I believe that the transfer of FHA to the new Department should have been made in an independent way in order to protect the integrity of the FHA," Erlenborn said.

OPPONENTS TO Erlenborn's amendment argued that it would have detracted from the power and the responsibility of the Secretary in a cabinet-level Department. The amendment failed, 101-153.

Creation of the new Department will give the suburbs and cities a stronger voice in the Presidential cabinet, most members of Congress believe.

The Department will deal with problems of housing, mass transportation, urban redevelopment and similar programs.

4-H Emphasis Changing as Farms Disappear

Youth Group as Vigorous as Ever

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

The urban-suburban sprawl is affecting 4-H Clubs once considered a rural institution.

T.T. Martin, in a handbook for 4-H leaders, commented, "Further development of urban club work will be arrived at by trial and error, bearing in mind the needs of the local people, their equipment, skills, beliefs, and attitudes, and social organizations.

In the northwest suburban area the 4-H clubs still have rural orientation but leaders say this is changing. They point to the diminishing [illegible] which result in youngsters growing smaller gardens [illegible] raising smaller animals. The Arlington Heights 4-H club, for example, has specialized in horses. As the Equestrian Club, it has capitalized on the area interest in horse shows and training.

The Plum Grove 4-H Club included a horse show at Sundance as part of this year's activities. Roger Landmeier, Garfield Avenue, Palatine, the club leader, quite frankly is "horse and pony minded." When he started the club, he wanted the youngsters to work with animals of some kind. But as the club gained new members, some lived in Palatine where they could not have animals.

HE HAS CLUB members working on flower gardening and arrangements, photography, and electrical projects as well as agricultural ones.

In all the clubs the youngsters are allowed to choose the projects that most interest them. Mrs. Leonard Weise, who handles two clubs in Schaumburg, admits it would be easier on the leaders if everyone had the same project but this is not practical. The 4-H clubs are open to youngsters 10 to 20 years of age.

Mrs. Weise believes 4-H work would attract more suburban youngsters if they knew more about its activities. Her girls of Schaumburg, a 13-member club, concentrate on sewing and food projects. They also work on room improvement projects that include flower arrangement, table setting, and picture arranging.

MRS. WEISE, once a 4-Her herself, finds that parents often influence their children in joining the club. Experience shows that the youngsters who join at 10 years old are apt to become interested and stay in club work.

Richard Biddle, who lives on Roselle Road in Palatine Township, belongs to the Barrington Pioneers, a club that has rural and urban members. His brother got him interested and he joined when he was eligible. He and his brother have had grand champion sheep for four years and won in "Showmanship" for three years. They have a box of blue ribbons.

Many of the Barrington Pioneers are turning to raising poultry instead of larger animals, he said. His club also has members living in Barrington working on handicrafts and photography projects.

Richard, 15, who is in his sixth year of 4-H work says simply, "I get personal satisfaction out of 4-H." As an active 4-H member, he spent a week at the University of Illinois in an annual 4-H event this month. He got to know the campus and attended workshops on crops and soils and animal sciences.

STEVE LEVAN, 16, who belongs to the Roselle 4-H Club, says "I've always been interested and if I can I'll stay in" until the age limit. His project has been gardening and he has grown five kinds of vegetables. Though his garden is twice the required size of 750 feet, Steve said other members can have gardens fit to suburban backyards; a 200-foot garden category fits their needs.

Each club has a tour in which leaders and members see each other's projects. Many will show their work in the Achievement Days July 19 and 21 at Miner Junior High Scnool in Aslington Heights. Others will go the the Lake - Cook County fair at Grayslake July 28 to Aug. 1.

Mrs. Weise believes the chance to show their projects at events like these add incentives to the youngsters. Most clubs meet monthly but all the leaders usually have an "open door" policy for anyone needing help with his project at any other time.

LIKE ALL organizations, 4-H sometimes has difficulty in finding leaders. Mrs. Weise handles the Girls of Schaumburg and the Schaumborg Aggies rather than see one of them eliminated for lack of leadership.

The 4-H program is part of the national educational system of cooperative extension work which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the state land grant colleges and universities and the cities share. The Federal Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives national leadership.

The clubs grew out of a need in rural America and were given legal impetus when Congress passed the Smith Lever Act in 1914. This created the Agriculture Extension Service.

An extension office connected with the University of Illinois is located in Arlington Heights and headed by Merlin Heyen.

The four-leaf clover emblem of 4-H clubs was developed to symbolize "head, heart, hands, and health used to the best of a member's ability.

Four-H leaders point out their organization has 30 different programs to interest youngsters. The projects provide the 4-H way of developing leadership, skills, and confidence through demonstrations, exhibits, contests, and tours. (A15

Junior College to Draft Own President's Brochure

The District 301 junior college board last week decided to prepare its own job specification opening for college president after rejecting their consultants' efforts.

Board member Richard Johnson called the consultants' preliminary draft "very sterile."

"It doesn't convey any warmth, or suggest the opportunity available. I found it a very slipshod document."

The board decided to have member Paul O'Dea, an English instructor at Mundelein College, prepare a new brochure.

After some sentiment had developed for giving the consultants a second chance, O'Dea said he doubted if the board could depend on outsiders to convey the tone it wants.

THE CONSULTANTS are Dr. George Olson, former president of the junior college in Lyons Township, Dr. Frank Endicott, a member of the Northwestern University staff, and Dr. J. M. Slater, a member of the University of Illinois faculty.

Board member James Hamill objected that the document failed to emphasize the districts' growth potential in the first paragraph. "That must be emphasized to draw the type of man we want," he said.

Other board members said the preliminary draft failed to state the district's total commitment to education, the district's high assessed valuation, its large industrial development, and in general its "highly dynamic" nature.

The board met with a second frustration during the evening when it learned that State Supt. of Public Instruction Ray Page has failed to provide the district with temporary operating funds.

THE BOARD learned when it applied for an outright $100,000 grant which it is entitled to under state law that insufficient funds were appropriated in the 1964-65 budget. It hopes to receive those funds when the new budget takes effect after July 1.

As a temporary measure Page's office promised the board $5,000. The board made a formal application June 8 but still lacks funds.

Board President John Haas said the district has been able to operate on credit so far, but that such a situation has caused some inconvenience.

Members Bud Bernstein and Mrs. Fred Nicklas were appointed to prepare a budget based on anticipated tax returns and state aid.

The board indicated it will soon begin to interview architects for its proposed campus and held an executive session afterwards to discuss site selection. (B-10

Contraception: The Catholic Dialogue

Church Reassesses Its Traditional Views

Catholic Laity Is Confused by Issue

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer
(Last in a Series)

Will the Catholic Church liberalize or change its position of condemnation of contraceptives?

It would be foolish to give an absolutely affirmative answer.

The best than can be said is the use or non-use of contraceptives is still an "open question" within the Catholic Church —that means that change is possible.

Modification or change is possible by a re-evaluation and expansion of a new limited philosophy which depends on a interpratation of the Natural Law.

Such changes of philosophy have come about in the past based on new theological and sociological interpretations.

An example would be the question of the one-time condemnation of charging interest on money and goods which were loaned.

AT ONE TIME it was a sin to charge interest because in effect to do so was the same as robbing a person. But today in a capitalist society where our wealth patterns have changed, it is considered by the Church proper to charge a just interest.

Condemnation of contraceptives would only cease to be an open question if the Pope made a pronouncement "ex cathedra," that is, where the Pope invokes what Catholics believe to be his infallible power in matters of faith and morals.

Some conservative Catholic theologians argue that this declaration has already been made or at least implied in Pope Pius XI's encyclical Casti Connubii. This is a minority position amongst Catholic theologians, and certainly the recent Popes have given a much different impression.

Pope Paul has stated that the question would be "crystallized" before the next Vatican Council in the fall.

The crystallization is likely to mean the stating of the question for the third council with inclusion of its theological, philosophical, psychological and sociological ramifications.

ONLY AFTER the third council should people expect some sort of definitive declaration by Pope Paul.

In this period of ecumenical brotherhood, Pope Paul and his predecessor, Pope John XXIII, has sought on this question to incorporate the thinking of others besides theologians of the immediate Vatican magisterium.

Pope Paul established a commission on population and birth control to establish "in what form and according to what norms must married couples fulfill, in the exercise of their mutual love, the service to new life to which they are called by their vocation."

The Pope told the commission that it must pursue the solution of the problem "in all serenity and liberty of spirit."

And he specified, "Research to be wide so that various trends of ideological thought would be better represented, so that countries which experience grave difficulties on the sociological plane would make their voices heard, so that laymen and particularly married couples would have qualified representatives."

THIS COMMISSION was comprised of 52 leading Catholic men and women which included theologians, sociologists, medical doctors, college professors, psychiatrists, demograghers and economists.

Many topics were discussed including the use of the pill to regulate the menstrual cycle, dissatisfaction of the rhythm method, and new contraceptive devices.

The discussions of the commission were conducted behind closed doors and the commission members were sworn to secrecy. The Vatican has not issued any statement of results from this commission.

With the recent statements by Pope Paul about his concern, the calling of the commission, and the groundswell of protests by clergy and laity alike, it is certain things will come to a head shortly.

A married Catholic man from Palatine recently stated, "You can tell change is in the wind when you go to confession. The priest is more liberal."

THE MAN SAID it would be difficult for a reporter to get such information from people becaue then the people would have to admit they have been using contraceptives.

"If they hadn't used them, they couldn't tell the priest has gotten more liberal."

The Palatine man's experience might be an isolated case and not really representative of the local clergy.

But Louis Dupre, a Catholic lay philosopher, recently stated, "In their personal convictions, many moralists (Catholic theologians) are far more advanced than in their publications. It is regrettable that at least the technical publications do not reflect more of the doubts concerning the traditional position which are so widespread in theological circles."

Dupre, a leader in bringing into the open the differences amongst Catholic moralists, believes that the Catholic position regarding contraception will change.

He is a moderate in thinking and has argued that use of contraceptives in some instances may be permissible.

IN HIS BOOK "Contraception and Catholics" he states, " . . . ultimately it (the Church's position) might vary somewhat from what moral theologians teach publicly today; not because of a basic change in stance, but because of increasing insight into the complexities of the problem."

So many a Catholic might ask himself this:

With such thinking coming from eminent men, why should I not practice NOW what I believe to be right? Have I not freedom of conscience?

This aspect, freedom of conscience, has been a real knot in the whole problem. Catholics of good faith have for some time been tussling with their consciences on one hand and what the Church is ofifcially teaching on the other hand.

The result: confusion and some straying from the Church.

A Catholic from Mount Prospect recently wrote this newspaper a letter in which he stated that the Church position was all wrong and causing much hardship on married people.

He said that as a matter of conscience he could not follow the teaching. In the next breath, he explained that as a result he had not gone to confesssion in years because he could not receive absolution.

ONE MIGHT ask: if this man did not believe according to his conscience he was sinning, why did he feel compelled to confess his action and be told he could not receive absolution unless he stopped using contraceptives?

Searching around, one could be sure to find other examples of a moral and mental confusion over the Catholic Church's position on contraception.

Whether conservative, liberal or moderate, the Catholic writers of today do seem to reaffirm the Church's right to state what the "conscience" of its members should be.

Some liberals, perhaps would not accept this position as readily as the others and would allow persons to "make up their own minds" on this issue.

The conscience of the Catholic Church is drawn from the consensus of the moral theologians and then passed down to the people. With the increased prestige of the laity in the Catholic Church, they too will be expected to contribute to the dialogue which eventually forms this Catholic public conscience.

IT IS DOUBTFUL that many Catholics who are troubled by the issue of using or not using contraceptives have sought much philosophical information on the matter.

The simplistic reasoning offered them in Catholic elementary and high schools is certainly not sufficient, yet for the majority this is all the reasoning they have to fall back on unless they seek out more information.

Unfortunately for them, the parish priest often has neither the time nor is he necessarily equipped to deal with the questions of the laity, which in northwest suburbs constitutes at least 40 per cent of the population.

Most Catholics do accept and have faith in the teaching function of their Church.

These Catholics include not only the average but the highly intellectual philosophers and theologians. These eminent men —men like Louis Dupre who disagree with the Church at the moment—counsel that the people listen to their Church for guidance. (A15

Downtown Arlington Master Plan Unveiled

(Following are excerpts from the downtown Arlington Heights plan submitted last week by Tec Search municipal planning firm. The study was financed by a $20,000 federal grant and $10,000 in village funds. Implementation is now up to village and private groups.)

ACTION PROGRAM

Revitalization of the central business district of Arlington Heights requires action by business leaders and the community. This action program for improvement of downtown areas has been developed to best serve residents and the business community and thereby to serve the village.

The Downtown Action Committee and Tec Search Inc. coordinated their efforts and capabilities in this study. The plan as embraced within this report envisions a hub about which community life in Arlington Heights will revolve . . . a commercial center . . . a governmental center . . . a cultural and entertainment center . . . the heart of an exciting and dynamic urban environment.

The central business district of Arlington Heights consists of 60 acres strategically centered . . . boundaries are Fremont Street, Belmont Avenue, George Street extended and Highland and Chestnut Avenues.

Arlington's central business district problems are common to many urban areas: traffic congestion, auto-pedestrian conflict, unattractiveness and obsolete structures.

Most important is the district's inability in its present form to reach its economic potential. The area has developed heretofore on an independent basis without benefit of an officially adopted or fully accepted development plan. . .

EXISTING LAND USES

Activities in Arlington's central business district generally fit into one of three categories: commercial, residential or public. With few exceptions, retailing activity within the downtown area is bounded by Eastman Street, Arlington Heights (State) Road, Sigwalt Street and Vail Avenue. This "retail core" contains approximately 80 per cent of the total retail floor area in the district.

Interspersed among the retail uses of the "core" are numerous residential dwellings which in essence have produced a spread between its retail activities, thus tending to destroy the desirable assets of compactness and convenience. . .

The mixture of residential with commercial uses within the "retail core" dilutes the attractive power of concentrated business activity.

PLAN PREPARATION

The development of an orderly planning process is prerequisite to creating and maintaining a sound, healthy and dynamic downtown area. In the absence of such a process, it becomes increasingly difficult for the downtown to cope with the inevitable problems of change and growth.

The merchants and people of Arlington Heights must determine the kind of downtown area they want to develop. Its functions must be defined not only in terms of general land uses but also in terms of which activities have a place there and which should be shifted elsewhere or discouraged from locating there.

Following are statements of broad policies, general development principles and criteria adhered to in the development of the downtown plan:

ACCESSIBILITY — A central area easily reached from outlying areas served by a coordinated transportation route system.

PERIPHERAL "CORE" route — Emphasizing vehicle movements around the "retail core" with controlled access to off-street parking facilities.

PARKING FACILITIES — Off-street facilities located close to the compact "retail core" designed to meet the needs of commuter, employe and shopper parkers.

PEDESTRIAN PRIORITY — Increased pedestrian movements and reduced conflicts with vehicular traffic through de-emphasis of vehicular movement within the "retail core" and development of landscaped and covered pedestrian walkways.

CONSOLIDATED transportation center — A point of effective and convenient interchange between various modes of transportation.

COMPACT DOWNTOWN area — Designed for shopper convenience and maximum efficiency promoting cumulative attraction between product lines.

OFFICE USES — Construction of new office facilities to provide a diversity of uses in the downtown area and to provide additional purchasing power for the allied retail uses.

CIRCUMFERENTIAL apartments — Located in the margins of the district to accommodate a growing number of people who desire to live near their jobs as well as close to cultural, recreational, shopping, and transportation facilities.

REDEVELOPMENT — Encouraged removal of older and more obsolete commercial structures through private initiative.

ATTRACTIVENESS — Improved general appearance through coordinated public and private beautification programs.

ACCESSIBILITY

To provide for improved accessibility, it is recommended that the railway and (Northwest) highway be depressed in downtown area. This will permit free north-south movement of traffic and to some extent will separate through (highway) traffic from local traffic.

Other improvements recommended involve widening and extending Sigwalt Street to connect with Kensington Road; the construction of an access road parallel to the Chicago & North Western Railway to serve the proposed transportation center; and the widening and improvement of Arlington Heights Road, Campbell Street and Euclid Street.

VEHICULAR CIRCULATION

Establishment of a loop system (along Eastman, Vail, Sigwalt and Evergreen) and depression of the railway and Northwest Highway will provide easy and uninterrupted circulation between the now divided north and south business areas. Overpasses over the railway-highway depression should be constructed at Vail, Dunton and Evergreen, as well as Arlington Heights Road.

Traffic movements over Dunton Avenue should be discouraged so as not to defeat the purpose of the loop system. Dunton Avenue should remain the main corridor of the "core" but its primary circulation function should be focused upon pedestrian rather than vehicular movement.

PARKING

Traffic from the loop circulation system should flow directly to convenient parking facilities located for the most part on the perimeter of the principal traffic generating areas.

However, a substantial amount of parking is needed to satisfy the requirements of retail uses within the "retail core." In order to create a shopping center-like atmosphere, the parking in some instances has been provided in the center or heart of the "core."

Centrally oriented parking would be supplemented by ramped parking and additional street level lots located in surrounding blocks.

PEDESTRIAN CIRCULATION

The high concentration of pedestrians generated within a business district necessitates the development of a circulation system to move people on the interior of the "retail core." The objective is to separate conflicting modes of transportation — pedestrian and vehicular.

Other goals should be sought in developing a pedestrian circulation system:

1. Pedestrian movement should be encouraged between north and south business areas.
2. Pedestrian walkways should offer protection from the weather and. . .be aesthetically pleasing.
3. Pedestrian circulation routes should serve major peripheral facilities.

SPECIAL FEATURES

In addition to the functional improvements recommended throughout this report, the downtown plan proposes development of a number of special features: office buildings, a (multi-use) transportation center, a cultural center, apartment units, a motor hotel and ramped parking facilities. All of these generate retail traffic.

VISUAL ATTRACTIVENESS

The improvement of aesthetic features in the downtown area will encourage investments and new construction. . .

Tax incentives given to owners improving their properties would help to develop a uniform, agreed-upon design. Future planning should encourage homogeneity of architecture and design.

Open spaces should be developed within functional areas.

Other possible improvement measures include the removal or relocation of traffic signs and utility poles, clearance of obsolete buildings and the stimulation of new construction and rtion of new construction and remodeling projects, new store facades, and the design of street furniture — that is, litter receptacles, street and directional signs and lighting facilities.

Tree plantings along the proposed Dunton Avenue pedestrian walkway would greatly enhance and add interest of the avenue . . . Benches, canopies, kiosks, planter boxes, specially designed directional signs and display cases would transform Dunton Avenue into a place of unique interest.

Amenities such as plazas for relaxation and sidewalk cafes should be encouraged.

IMPLEMENTATION - PUBLIC

1. Adopt the downtown plan.
2. Establish improved development controls.
3. Provide design guides that go beyond the legal development controls.
4. Offer tax incentive.
5. Accomplish necessary public works.

IMPLEMENTATION — PRIVATE

1. Establishment of a downtown council either as a part of the Chamber of Commerce or as a separate entity. This would be a continuing agency with responsibilities to attract new investments, encourage new business facilities, coordinate activities between merchants, etc.
2. Establishment of a development corporation to buy land and assemble adequate sized sites for redevelopment.
3. Establishment of a review committee to comment on individual development proposals and work in cooperation with village officials as to project adherence to adopted design guides.
4. Creation of voluntary agreements between owners and tenants, adjacent merchants and private interests and the village to provide better sign control, display areas, Christmas decorations, special promoting events, flag and banner displays, window and building lighting, delivery service and landscaping.
5. Encouraging land owners to pool their holdings into large building sites for joint development. (B10

FOR MANY YEARS, the J. Fenz & Son general store on Roselle Road was a landmark in Schaumburg Township before it burned in 1925. The building also housed a saloon and second-floor meeting hall for political caucuses and social gatherings. The 1905 photo above also shows a blacksmith shop (at left) and living quarters for the Fenz family (right), Mrs. William A. Fenz, 37 S. Roselle Road, Roselle, is widow of the store founder's son. Four Cars Involved In Crash

Three persons were injured in a collision involving four cars at State Road and White Oak at 9:10 p.m. last Wednesday.

Arlington Heights police said three of the four cars were headed north; the fourth, driven by Jane K. Winther, 45, 1201 S. Prairie Ave., was southbound.

According to police, cars driven by Juan D. Torres Jr., 17, 1600 E. Algonquin Road, and Leo A. Cushing, 22 Audrey Lane, Mount Prospect, were driving in parallel lanes at a high rate of speed. The Torres car left its lane, striking the Winther vehicle.

TORRES' CAR traveled back into the northbound lane, striking a car driven by Laurie A. Ernst, 206 W. Willow St., before careening back across the road and through a school fence.

Torres and a passenger, Jose Villastrigo, 16, 2835 Higgins, Elk Grove Village, were treated at Northwest Community Hospital. Miss Ernst was treated at Holy Family Hospital.

Police ticketed Torres on charges of driving too fast for conditions and crossing the center line. They ticketed Cushing for driving too fast for conditions and negligent driving. The Cushing vehicle was not damaged. (A

Intruder Frightened

An Arlington Heights housewife early Tuesday flushed an intruder out of her home.

T. Merle Paul, 815 W. Oakton St., told police his wife heard a noise at about 3 a.m. and went to investigate. She saw someone with a flashlight in the entrance foyer.

The intruder fled through the breezeway, running east on Oakton. Entry was gained through an unlocked door.

Cigarette burns or other damage to the carpet doesn't necessarily mean a costly re-weaving job — if the carpet is the sponge-bonded type.

One manufacturer of sponge-bonded carpeting has developed a tool which cuts out the damaged area and a replacement piece the same size. The new piece is then cemented into place.

Sponge-bonded carpeting is suitable for kitchen use and costs no more than a good vinyl floor. It is made of high-density nylon yarn. The rug is cleaned by vacuuming or sweeping with an electric broom. High density yarn has great stain resistance and apillage — like grease or sauce — is removed by sponging it off.

Double Winners In Jamboree

Several double winners emerged from the Second Annual Buffalo Grove Junoir Sports Jamboree held last week.

All the victors in the jamboree, sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees, will go on to represent the community in a district meet at Mundelein July 10. Winners at Mundelein will compete in August at the state meet at Charleston, in competition sponsored by the Jaycees and the Illinois Youth Commission.

Richard Slezak was a double winner in the individual events in the Midget Boys class, acpturing the 75 yard dash and the broad jump.

Among the Junior Boys, Bob Sergot took both the 75 yard dash and the broad jump, while Dave Tonnancour won the 220 and the high jump.

The 220 and the broad jump went to Steve Holtz among the Intermediate Boys, and the 100 yard dash and baseball throw to Art Arendall.

Dawne Douglas led the Midget Girls by winning the 50 yard dash and baseball throw, while Janet Holtz claimed the baseball throw and 100 in Junior Girls competition.

Holly Jacobs was the one double winner in the Intermediate Girls class, with victories in the 50 yard dash and the high jump.

The alumnae of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows — which graduated its first class this spring — launched their first club activity Sunday with a benefit party at the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Upperclassmen were invited to join in an "adios" party; proceeds will be sent to the Rev. Raymond A. Cowell, former assistant pastor at Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights.

Fr. Cowell is a member of the Society of St. James the Apostle, composed of diocesan priests serving in South America under the sponsorship of Richard Cardinal Cushing.

During the past five years, Fr. Cowell has been establishing parishes in Santa Cruz and Buena Vista, Bolivia.

New Democratic Headquarters Dedicated by Sen. Douglas

The problems of people are those with which the Democratic party by "history and tradition" has concerned itself and works to rectify.

And the Democratic party will flourish in the tremendous suburban growth of this nation.

These were the statements of Sen. Paul Douglas, who visited the Village of Wheeling Saturday to dedicate the new Wheeling Township Democratic headquarters.

THERE ARE many problems common to the city and suburbs as well as problems peculiar to each, Douglas said. He cited preserving open space, supplying water, preventing air pollution, and the over-all problems of planning and zoning.

The suburbs pose a challenge to the Democratic party, he said, because the Republicans have well-developed organizations already entrenched there, while the Democrats have had to build from the bottom.

"But we're making great gains and will continue to do so," he added, and the opening of the new Democratic headquarters in Wheeling signals a new era for the party in the township.

AS DID DOUGLAS, Seymour Simon, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, pointed out that the urban population concentration is shifting from the city to the suburbs.

"We (the Democrats) must increase our activities in the suburban areas," Simon told the assembly present for the dedication ceremonies.

Democrats are electing village presidents and trustees in the suburban towns, Simon emphasized.

AND, "IF Democrats can win local elections, there is no reason why" Wheeling Township and others can't be carried for the party in national elections, Simon said. He predicted that the Democratic candidates will carry the suburbs in 1966.

He cited the organization of Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros as an example for other township party organizations.

Simon called for the Democrats to identify suburban needs and help the people to meet them.

The county president endorsed more home rule for Illinois municipalities, and noted that the Cook County Forest Preserves are meeting the open space needs of the community.

HALLMARKS of the Democratic party are "good ideas, good candidates, and good organization," stated Lynn Williams, 13th District candidate for Congress last year. He called upon the party members to continue this distinction.

The suburbs are on the move, Williams said, and the party must move with them.

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon wished "Stavros and his organization the greatest success in the Village of Wheeling."

He called for "unity" within the village, creation of a "new image" for Wheeling, and "moving ahead out of the horse and buggy days."

DOUGLAS WAS praised by Scanlon as a man of action respected by people of both parties as "a great asset to both the state and nation," as a man who acts from conviction for all of the people.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman sent a message welcoming the new headquarters — and also a report that the State Senate had just passed her bill to create a statewide system of junior colleges under a 75 per cent federal aid program.

Other village and party officials were also on hand for the ceremony.

The new headquarters is located at 735 W. Dundee Road, in Wheeling's Gaslight Shopping Center just east of Elmhurst Road.

Former party headquarters was in Arlington Heights. (B-10

Modern Etiquette

Q. My husband and I took house guests for an auto ride recently, and I sat in the front seat with my husband, our guests in the rear. I have since been told this was wrong. Was it?

A. Yes. You should have asked one of your guests to sit in front, while you sat in the back with the others.

Q. How does a newlywed couple extend invitations to a reception in their new home, after their return from their honeymoon trip?

A. These invitations may be of the engraved-and-mailed variety —or they may be extended by phone.

Indian Church

Indians formed the "First American" Church in 1918 at El Reno, Okla. Representatives of the Cheyennes, the Ottos, the Poncas, Kiowas, Comanches and Apaches took part in the organization.

New Democratic Headquarters Dedicated by Sen. Douglas

The problems of people are those with which the Democratic party by "history and tradition" has concerned itself and works to rectify.

And the Democratic party will flourish in the tremendous suburban growth of this nation.

These were the statements of Sen. Paul Douglas, who visited the Village of Wheeling Saturday to dedicate the new Wheeling Township Democratic headquarters.

THERE ARE many problems common to the city and suburbs as well as problems peculiar to each, Douglas said. He cited preserving open space, supplying water, preventing air pollution, and the over-all problems of planning and zoning.

The suburbs pose a challenge to the Democratic party, he said, because the Republicans have well-developed organizations already entrenched there, while the Democrats have had to build from the bottom.

"But we're making great gains and will continue to do so," he added, and the opening of the new Democratic headquarters in Wheeling signals a new era for the party in the township.

AS DID DOUGLAS, Seymour Simon, president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, pointed out that the urban population concentration is shifting from the city to the suburbs.

"We (the Democrats) must increase our activities in the suburban areas," Simon told the assembly present for the dedication ceremonies.

Democrats are electing village presidents and trustees in the suburban towns, Simon emphasized.

AND, "IF Democrats can win local elections, there is no reason why" Wheeling Township and others can't be carried for the party in national elections, Simon said. He predicted that the Democratic candidates will carry the suburbs in 1966.

He cited the organization of Wheeling Township Democratic Committeeman James Stavros as an example for other township party organizations.

Simon called for the Democrats to identify suburban needs and help the people to meet them.

The county president endorsed more home rule for Illinois municipalities, and noted that the Cook County Forest Preserves are meeting the open space needs of the community.

HALLMARKS of the Democratic party are "good ideas, good candidates, and good organization," stated Lynn Williams, 13th District candidate for Congress last year. He called upon the party members to continue this distinction.

The suburbs are on the move, Williams said, and the party must move with them.

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted Scanlon wished "Stavros and his organization the greatest success in the Village of Wheeling."

He called for "unity" within the village, creation of a "new image" for Wheeling, and "moving ahead out of the horse and buggy days."

DOUGLAS WAS praised by Scanlon as a man of action respected by people of both parties as "a great asset to both the state and nation," as a man who acts from conviction for all of the people.

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman sent a message welcoming the new headquarters — and also a report that the State Senate had just passed her bill to create a statewide system of junior colleges under a 75 per cent federal aid program.

Other village and party officials were also on hand for the ceremony.

The new headquarters is located at 735 W. Dundee Road, in Wheeling's Gaslight Shopping Center just east of Elmhurst Road.

Former party headquarters was in Arlington Heights. (B-10

Modern Etiquette

Q. My husband and I took house guests for an auto ride recently, and I sat in the front seat with my husband, our guests in the rear. I have since been told this was wrong. Was it?

A. Yes. You should have asked one of your guests to sit in front, while you sat in the back with the others.

Q. How does a newlywed couple extend invitations to a reception in their new home, after their return from their honeymoon trip?

A. These invitations may be of the engraved-and-mailed variety —or they may be extended by phone.

Indian Church

Indians formed the "First American" Church in 1918 at El Reno, Okla. Representatives of the Cheyennes, the Ottos, the Poncas, Kiowas, Comanches and Apaches took part in the organization.

A Comparison

The United States produced 7,752,000 cars in 1964. Russia produced 185,000.

Long Grove Church Marks World Fellowship Weekend

"Though man's habits, his food, his home differ the world over his basic wants and needs are much the same —." The comment was made by one of the participating hosts of Long Grove Church's World Fellowship Weekend June 26 and 27, an event which has through the years resulted in opening the community's eyes to people beyond our doorstep. Visitors were from Italy, Mexico, Israel, England, Brazil, Japan and Iran.

Plans having been made through Chicago University's International House, seven local families hosted a total of 14 visitors. Guests arrived Saturday afternoon, were dined that evening at group parties and after attending church the following morning with their hosts, shared in a potluck luncheon in the church social room. The luncheon and the program that followed climaxed the heartwarming occasion.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Rev. Williams led an informal discussion, hosts and guests sharing opinions on homes, habits and government. The period was lightened with a group of folk songs by Geri Kush and Claudia Klug of Lake Zurich.

ATTENDING THE worship service that morning were a group of students who were here in conjunction with their presence at the Youth Forum of the Illinois Conference held at Elmhurst College, the theme of which is "Youth and Ethics — Revolution in Morals." The minister's sermon, a heavy one dealing with "The New Morality and the Demons," became slightly difficult to follow when year-old Ahmjod Nezami from Iran kept vying for attention.

The Jack Schaums' guest was Francisco Rodreguez from Mexico. Staying at the Gale Livengoods' were the Jehuda Seitelsons and their two children of Israel; guests at the parsonage were the Bruce Smiths of England. The Arthur Reimers opened their home to Mr. and Mrs. Joao De-Carvallo of Brazil and Mrs. Bea Whitney and her sister, Mrs. Ann Sloscher of Chicago, hosted Miss Grace Arrighi of Italy. The Frank Hurleys' guest was Mr. N. Suda of Japan and the Orville Keilers hosted Mrs. Tohfah Nezami and Amjod of Iran.

The Women's Guild undertaking was chairmaned by Mrs. Arthur Reimers and Mrs. Orville Held. Assisting them on the kitchen committee were Mrs. Walter Gosswiller, Mrs. Bessie Geest and Mrs. Alfred Williams. Assisting with transportation were Gale Livengood, Mike Schell and Mrs. Ann Sloscher.

LONG GROVE'S good neighbors' ministry to its Spanish speaking residents began June 24 with Mrs. Leslie Schauffler and Mrs. Gale Livengood, the leaders, looking forward to a summer of recreational activity on the Herbert Didier settlement on Busch Road and possibly on one of the farms in the Buffalo Grove area.

An old "wind-it-type" phonograph, fed by a stack of records from local attics, kept the background gay and lively. Volunteers carried on a program of games, jump rope and story-telling. Mothers who were able to spare the time were helped with knitting and crocheting. The play period included time for punch and cookies.

Several young adults have signed up to help during the one afternoon a week gathering, Jeni Johnson serving as leader. Assisting her during Thursday's session were Janet Hurley and Bobbi Livengood. Others on the list are Sara Webster, Joan Schaum, Laura Hurley and Judy Calder.

Soon to be started is an evening program with movies, baseball and refreshments planned for one night a week. Keenie Schauffler and Donna Livergood called a meeting Monday at the church social room to keep the action rolling.

TAKING AN early look ahead into this autumn's bridge play, chairmen Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Howard Taylor are organizing the Long Grove Ladies' Benefit Bridge. Starting last season as a group who met on alternate Wednesdays at The Village Tavern, it is planned that members will meet in one another's homes, with assigned hostesses at the beginning of the season. Those desiring more information are asked to call Bernice Taylor or Marian Anderson, who urge registrations be made by Aug. 15.

Money left over at the end of the season will be divided, the contributions to go toward the Long Grove Committee for Family Guidance.

"Deep in December it's nice to remember the fire of September that made us mellow," sang Claudia Klug and Geri Kush of Lake Zurich when they entertained June 24 for 20 some residents of Bensenville Home who were invited to the Malcolm Shroyer home for a veranda picnic. Guild members also were present for the potluck luncheon affair. Mrs. Robert Loudon Sr. planned the entertainment.

Arrangements for the picnic, the third annual one of its kind to be held in this area, were made thru the Home's recreational cirector, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin. Picnickers were driven here by four volunteer workers.

KANSAS farmers were learning what it means to work together as they scurried to save their crops from the swelling Arkansas River, according to reports the William Ernstings brought back from their trip to visit home folks around Ellinwood.

Bill's brother, Henry, a nephew and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Louis Ernsting, their farm being only three fourths of a mile from the river, are among the inhabitants who have had to go through evacuation procedures against what they are calling the "100-year flood." Pooling their combines, farmers have harvested what crops were ready, have moved their sheep and cleaned out their freezers. Though their nephew and family remained home to be on watch, Henry and Mrs. Louis Ernsting made the trip home with them to stay awhile.

The James Mattson home in Prairie View was the scene of a reunion party Saturday evening in honor of the Kansas relatives.

A welcome is extended to the Leighton Wilkies who have moved into the house on Route 22 vacated by the William Andersons. The dwelling has undergone extensive remodeling, with an indoor swimming pool having been added.

THE FORMER Cathy Hoebel and her husband, the Philip Baines, arrived from Mount Carroll, where they've been teaching school, to spend some time with the William Hoebels. Both plan to attend summer school, Phil at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, and Cathy at National College of Education in Evanston. In fall they'll make their home in a Mundelein apartment while teaching in Libertyville.

Ford Harding, who graduated from Lake Forest Academy this spring, has left for Salzburg, Germany, to spend the summer studying German in preparation for his classes at Harvard in September.

Among local parties was the gathering recently hosted by the William Jensens so neighbors could meet their relatives vacationing here from Arizona.

The William Mells' 8-month-old grandson, Christopher, was the main delight of their week's flying holiday to Malibu, Calif., spent with their daughter, Judy, and husband, the Wesley Marxes. The Mells' son, Eric and family are becoming settled in their new home in Mound, Minn.

FROM FORMER Kildeer principal Mrs. Mabel Schoenke comes a card sent to Mrs. Walter Gosswiller saying the Schoenkes expect to stop in this area while en route to Minnesota this summer to exhibit at antique shows.

A four-day St. Louis holiday to attend the 80th birthday party for an aunt, Mrs. Ada Wynn, provided the senior Guy Edmunds with a touch of relaxation.

Native Massillonians, the Alfred Williams, brought Jean's sister, Beverly Blacka, home last week and spent a short breather with their parents in Ohio.

Among Long Grovers having luncheon at Countryside Friday were Mrs. Malcolm Shroyer, also Mrs. Betty Hetzler of Barrington, who preceded the meal with a round of golf.

Houseguest of the Stewart Richmonds are Lorrie's sister, Mrs. Walter Gibbs and son, David, of Danville, Calif. Last Tuesday Mrs. Richmond entertained at a luncheon for her sister, guests being Mrs. Frances Parker and Mrs. Louise Buchanan of Evanston.

RELATIVES from Bridgeton, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Roland Roots were weekend guests at the John C. Petersons. They stopped en route from a fishing trip to Pine River, Minn. Saturday dinner guests were Jack's sister and her husband, the John L. O'Connors of Chicago.

Mrs. Stewart Richmond, Mrs. Roris Dombrow, Mrs. Tom Hoyne, Mrs. Marshall Green and Mrs. Glenn Miller are working on the new Kildeer School District directory, to be out this fall. They will be calling all residents to verify addresses, phone numbers and other information for the new book. All classified listings are to be in by July 1.

The Jim Brays celebrated their 19th wedding anniversary June 22 by playing nine holes of golf at Sportsmen's and dining at Spero's on Rand Road. Sharing the fun were Dorothy's brother and his wife, the Ralph Magerkurths of Wheaton.

Making it a somber time at the Brays' is the disappearance June 11 of their year-old white poodle, Cherp, while accompanying Brian home on a walk from the Village Crossroads.

DRIVING home from Saugatuck, Mich., on a recent weekend with two crates of strawberries, the Fred Dahlbergs discovered that looking sideways while driving can certainly lead into involvement and responsibility. They came upon a mother skunk and two babies, the mother and one baby dead, the other still alive. Picking him up with a spare glove, they fed him milk with an eye dropper, named him Chanel and left him at Fred's brother's doorstep in Holland, Mich. Now the Dahlbergs are consulting the encyclopedias on the subject of deodorization.

Beau Buck's 10th birthday gave reason for his grandmother, Mrs. Albert Tippens of Winnetka, to fly him and his cousin, David Jordan, to Disneyland for a 10 day vacation.

The Charles Anstrands received first place, the William Salzmans second place award at the potluck wind-up the Eveing Couples Bridge group held at the Salzmans' June 19. The remainder of $28 was presented as a gift toward the library department of the new high school. Agate Martin and Doris Dombrow received awards for being the favorite and most popular substitutes.

ARNOLD LESCH of Fairmont, Minn., who many years ago worked for Alvin Pohlman, a local contractor, stopped with his wife and daughter, Peggy, at the George Umbdenstocks' Thursday, while en route on a 4500-mile cross country drive. The Umbdenstocks hosted a dinner in their nonor, inviting Mundelein relatives, Mrs. Elmina Schley and daughter, Mabel. Peggy remained here with the Umbdenstocks.

Tuesday was moving day for the Arthur Pottses and Harry Umbdenstock. May they enjoy good health and happiness in their new Mardan Woods home. Art will have ample time to become accustomed to the new surroundings, since he is on vacation from Bell and Gossett until the latter part of July.

On Tuesday of last week the Pottses were guests of relatives, the Harold Van Bergens of Libertyville, who have had their daughter and her husband, the Millard Proctors, vis-

Mrs. Arthur Edmunds, Bill, Ed, Bunny and Neva Ann are home from a two-week visit in Atlanta with Betty's mother, Mrs. Anne Sewell. They were present to take part in the Bible school activities of the home church, Bill serving as a leader of his group. The Atlanta train trip was preceded by a drive with Art to St. Louis, where they attended a reunion of former high school classmates.

KEEPING Art occupied while Betty was gone was the Independent Cash Register Dealers' Convention at the Palmer House, where the Cashere Corp. of Mount Prospect introduced a new discovery, a fluorescent key top.

Occupying the Long Grove Church pulpit in July will be Dr. Armin Haeussler, Rev. Clyde Miller and Dr. A. J. Munsterman. Dr. Haeussler needs no introduction. Rev. Clyde Miller has become known to us thru the Saturday morning group; he also spoke here on "Christian Faith and Contemporary Writers" in the fall of 1963, having been engaged by the Women's Guild. Rev. Munsterman, D. D., is the superintendent and executive director of Bensenville Home.

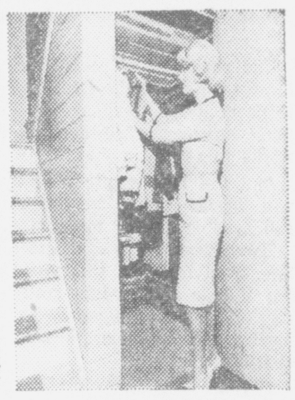
The celebration of Mrs. Charles Herschberger's March 1 birthday having been delayed until June 21 didn't seem to dampen the enthusiasm of her guests who gathered at her home for a potluck luncheon. Mrs. Bessie Geest baked the birthday cake, an angel food topped by red and white roses and Mrs. George Meyer brought her "prized meat loaf." Others sharing the event were Mrs. Bertha Ritzenthaler, Mrs. Martin Wulff, Mrs. Lora Heinsohn, Mrs. Alida Trumbull and the reporter.

GOOD HEALTH wishes go to Clifford Marx, who returned home from St. Therese Hospital last week.

Happy birthday wishes go to Charlie Wachs, July 1; Pearl Haseman, July 5; to Paula Dombrow, July 7.

Scarcely having settled back from its World Fellowship weekend, Long Grove, along with Lake Zurich, prepares to open its arms to a busload of AFS students who will arrive Friday to spend four days in the area before going on to Washington, D. C. (WP

HOME DECORATIONS IDEA



Seldom-used storage space such as this irregular-shaped closet beneath a stairway, can be transformed into moth-repellant storage areas by applying aromatic red cedar right over the old walls. The aroma of this attractive wood, which is pleasant to humans, is "death" to moths. Aromatic red cedar closet lining comes in pre-packaged bundles, and only ordinary carpenter's tools are needed to install the tongue and grooved pieces. No finishing is necessary. An occasional dusting is the only maintenance required.

Special cedar shelving and molding are also available, if needed.

THERE'S A CUP GIVEN annually in the West Suburban Conference to the school with the best overall record in league athletic competition at varsity and frosh-soph levels. It's called the President's Cup. It should be called the LaGrange Cup.

The recent annoucement from league sources that LaGrange had won the Cup for the 1964-65 school year didn't come as a great shock. It's old hat for LaGrange, a school of 4,000-plus students, to claim this award.

LaGrange has taken the President's Cup nineteen times since joining the West Suburban Conference in 1934. The Lions have won the trophy fifteen of the past seventeen years. Only Hinsdale tied LaGrange in 1952 and then copped the award in 1960 and last year to interrupt the LT string.

The point totals are based on league finishes at varsity and frosh-soph levels in football, cross country, basketball, wrestling, baseball, track, golf, and tennis. The best you could do — titles in both divisions in the eight recognized conference sports — would be 16 points, one for each first place.

LaGrange won the 1964-65 Cup with 42 points. Runnerup York had 50½. Hinsdale (66½) and Riverside-Brookfield (72½) rounded out the first division with Arlington heading up the second group with 74.

Here's the way the point totals looked for the 1964-65 school year:

1. LaGrange	42
2. York	50½
3. Hinsdale	66½
4. Riverside	72½
5. Arlington	74
6. Glenbard West	77½
7. Downers Grove	78
8. Maine East	115

We've always felt too much emphasis was placed on frosh-soph competition in the West Suburban, and the Presidents Cup was a case in point. Why not adjust the point totals to include only varsity sports?

There are some interesting changes in the conference totals when you exclude frosh-soph results. LaGrange, which showed five frosh-soph crowns but only two varsity flags, slipped to second in the new rankings behind York.

Hinsdale and Riverside-Brookfield each skidded two places. Arlington and Glenbard West climbed up two.

Arlington High didn't win any varsity titles in the West Suburban but did show balance, reaching the first division in six sports. The Cards' best showings came in varsity tennis with a second, varsity baseball with a tie for second, and varsity basketball with a tie for third.

Under the adjusted rankings, with only varsity sports included, the schools lined up like this:

1. York	26½
2. LaGrange	30½
3. Arlington	31½
4. Glenbard West	34
5. Hinsdale	34½
6. Riverside	35
7. Downers Grove	35½
8. Maine East	63½

THE BIG TEN CONFERENCE doesn't have to take a back seat to anyone in most sports, but the prestige league has slipped in track and field. The conference entries scored only 12 points in the NCAA track finals with one third place, a fourth and two sixths. By contrast seven of the eight Pacific Coast schools outscored the entire Big Ten, and the Big Eight tallied 54 points, the Mid-American 20 and the ACC 15½.

THE AMERICAN BOWLING CONGRESS passes along the information it withheld 90 scoring awards (for 300's, 299's, etc.) last season because of "doctored" alleys, a practice it constantly decries. They point out that alleys can be doctored for high scores a number of ways, but the favorite methods appear to be creating a shallow groove to the stripe pocket by sanding a lane, or producing a ball track with oil or polish.

ILLINOIS PREPS AREN'T very prominent on the list of the top schoolboy track and field marks in the United States for the 1965 outdoor season. Only one, Craig Grant of Proviso West, cracks the top ten in any event. Grant's 1:51.4 in the 880 yard run in district action was fourth best this spring, one-tenth of a second faster than the mark turned in by Jimmy Ryun of Wichita East (Kans.) High School, the youngster more noted for his brilliant mile efforts. The best 880 by a prep — and in history — was the 1:48.8 by Dick Joyce in the California state finals.

After the list was completed by the Track and Field News, Bruce Bowman of Proviso West ran a 4:08.7 in finishing third in the mile run at the Golden West Invitational, a meet for high school seniors. Grant was second in California with a 1:51.8 half and Alton quarter-miler Maurice Pittman was sixth (:48.7) in the 440 won in a sizzling :46.8.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

PLANS WERE COMPLETED for a meeting between Arlington's American Legion baseball team and the Arlington Redwings, a semi-pro nine. Slated to start on the hill in the diamond headliner were Johnny Sujack for the legion team and Dick Bokelmann for the Redwings. Sujack had allowed only three earned runs in 31 innings of legion pitching, striking out 39. Bokelmann had pitched in the Major Leagues with the St. Louis Cardinals and was a standout in semi-pro ranks.

On Arlington's Holiday Card

Laurance Armour Handicap, Stars & Stripes Scheduled

The $35,000 added Laurance Armour Handicap and the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes Handicap headline a gala holiday weekend at Arlington Park.

The Armour Saturday figures to draw a well-matched field of three-year-olds for the headliner over seven furlongs.

The Stars and Stripes will be staged Monday.

J. Graham Brown's Gallant Heritage, Gem State Stable's Flaming Gorge, Mrs. Mary Keim's Mr. Pak, Earl Allen's Swift Ruler, and F. W. Hooper's Louvre are but a few of the many being considered for the Armour.

Gallant Heritage, hero of the Sheridan Stakes May 29, will be making only his ninth career start. The son of Gallant Man out of Bornastar won his initial outing and also ran far back in two starts last year, and began his present campaign in Florida this winter.

COVERING six furlongs in a blazing 1:09 1/5, only three-fifths of a second off the track record, Gallant Heritage used his patented front-running style in the Sheridan, and barely held off the late rush of Mr. Pak. This was his second triumph of the year, the other coming on an allowance April 6 at Keeneland.

Jockey Kenny Knapp, the nation's leading stakes winning reinsman with 24 added-money triumphs to his credit, will again handle the assignment on Gallant Heritage, who has been training exceptionally well for his engagement here.

Late-comer Flaming Gorge, who went unraced as a two-year-old, and didn't even break his maiden until May 18, also rates healthy consideration.

THE STRETCH-running colt finished third in the Swaps Handicap June 12 in his first stakes start, but comes back off a bad performance in the Ohio Derby a week later.

Herby Hinojosa will ride the son of Barbizon, who has shown a strong liking for the Arlington dirt.

Back for a fifth appearance at Arlington is Mr. Pak, strapping son of Needles, whose best performance locally was the near-miss finish to Gallant Heritage in the Swaps, although he did close rapidly in the Swaps to capture fifth, only 4½ lengths in back of winner Gummo.

STILL ONLY a two-time winner in his career, Mr. Pak has competed against the best in his age bracket, and finished sixth in the Kentucky Derby, but has been short on each occasion since the last triumph March 6 at Gulfstream Park.

Possessor of the most class, but only a questionable starter in the Armour, is Swift Ruler, who is likewise returning from the Ohio Derby after a poor showing.

The well-traveled sophomore started on the road to success last summer at Arlington and won the Hyde Park States, finished second in the Joliet and

THE ACE IN ACTION. Southpaw Tom Lundgren delivers another pitch and teammate and first baseman Jerry Fink crouches in a defensive position during Arlington's 2-0 legion baseball victory over Mount Prospect Monday evening. Lundgren fanned 13 and allowed only three hits as Arlington posted its seventh straight league victory. The fast-balling lefty has been brilliant. He is 4-0 in Ninth District action with 53 strikeouts, nine walks, and a yield of only eight hits in 26 innings. Lundgren has yet to yield a run this summer in 44 innings of legion pitching. Arlington, Lundgren Top Mount Prospect

by BOB FRISK

Tommy Lundgren, the golden arm of Arlington's powerful legion baseball team, chalked up another one Monday evening.

The rangy southpaw with the sizzling fast ball, who has yet to be scored on in the legion campaign, set down a formidable Mount Prospect nine 2-0 with another masterful effort.

Lundgren scattered three hits and struck out 13 over seven innings in getting the best of a mound duel with Prospect's big right hander Greg Kowal.

The victory was Arlington's seventh straight in Ninth District legion baseball and 16th in 17 games during the summer. Coach Lloyd Meyer's outfit had suffered its first loss Sunday after 15 straight wins.

LUNDGREN, who was drafted by the Cleveland Indians, has been brilliant this summer. He hasn't yielded a run and in five league outings has fanned 53 hitters in 26 innings, allowing only eight hits.

He only needed one run Monday but received a pair.

Arlington didn't waste any time pushing a marker across. Thad Woodard got things started in the opening inning by beating out an infield tap and racing to second on a bad throw. Woodard moved to third as Howie Winkelhake rolled to the pitcher and scampered across when Mark Newman dropped a perfect bunt.

RICH HOPPE reached when nicked by a Kowal fast ball and Mike Frase ripped a single to right, but Hoppe was cut down on a perfect throw from right fielder John Alexander to third baseman Tom Lundstedt.

Alexander came up with another throwing gem in the second inning to cut down an Arlington runner. With one out John Loughman walked and Mark Frase punched a single to right.

Loughman was cut down from Kowal to catcher Rick Lytle for the second out when the hitter missed the bunt sign, but Frase took second. Lundgren, not known as a productive swinger, lined a shot to right for a single and Frase came around third.

Alexander needed a perfect throw to catch Frase at the plate, and he uncorked a beauty.

MOUNT PROSPECT didn't reach Lundgren for its first hit until the third when Bill Arnold lofted a double to right-center. Alexander followed Arnold with a walk, but the Arlington lefty got out of this jam by nailing Lytle on strikes.

The visitors had base runners in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh stanzas but couldn't score.

Ken Traversone was stranded after rapping a two-out single in the fourth, and Greg McLaughlin walked to lead off the fifth but the next three batters fanned. Tom Manderscheid got on via an error with one out in the sixth and stole second, but Lundgren fanned Kowal and got Traversone on an infield grounder.

IN THE SEVENTH McLaughlin slammed a double to right with one out, but Lundgren got Lundstedt on a liner to short and Arnold on a fly to center.

Arlington added its insurance run in the fifth with two outs. Woodard walked, stole second and came in on Winkelhake's line single to right-center.

Mike Frase had two of the seven hits off Kowal. Greg fanned three and walked three.

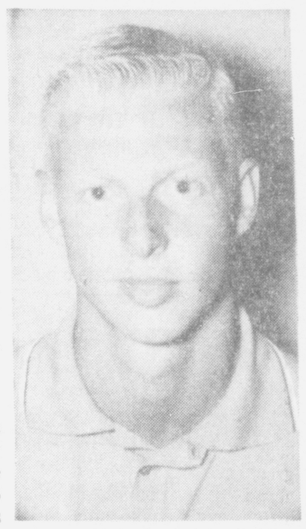
Tam to Host Golf Feature

67 Round Tops Field in Trials at Rolling Green

Golf's version of the Fourth of July fireworks will be displayed at Tam O'Shanter in Niles when the 1965 Western Open championship is held on the famed tournament site starting today (Thursday) for four days.

Juan (Chichi) Rodriguez is the defending champion. Rodriguez stripped 1963 winner Arnold Palmer of his crown by nipping Palmer in a dramatic last-nine duel on the same Tam O'Shanter layout last August.



ED MOEHLING

The sponsoring Western Golf Association has boosted the prize purse for professionals to $70,000, an all-time high for the Western Open. This will mark the 62nd staging of the historic championship which dates back to 1899 and is the second oldest tournament in this country.

First prize will be $11,000. The starting field will be approximately 145.

THE SECOND ROUND of 18 holes will be played tomorrow (Friday), and after 36 holes the field will be cut to the low 75 players and ties. After 54 holes the field will be cut to the low 60 players and ties.

The final round is set for Sunday, July 4, with a sudden-death playoff if necessary. The final two days of action will be televised nationally in color.

All proceeds from the Western Open go directly to the Western Golf Association's nationally-acclaimed Evans Scholars program. Last year more than $35,000 was raised for this cause, enabling the WGA to increase its number of Evans Scholars now in school to a record 494.

THIS WILL MARK the fourth straight year for the Western Open in the Chicago area since the WGA moved the championship here in a major policy move.

The tournament will return to Medinah Country Club in 1966.

In the qualifying round Monday at Rolling Green Country Club in Arlington Heights Roger Ginsberg of Alpine, N. J. fired a 67 to take top honors.

FORTY-FIVE professionals and five amateurs earned berths in the Western Open by their qualifying rounds Monday. Four cracked par at the challenging Arlington site.

Right behind Ginsberg were Howie Johnson of Palm Springs, Calif. (68), and Gene Mitchell of Lubbock, Tex. and Kermit Zarley of Yakima, Wash. with identical 69s. Johnson, who fired a brilliant 28 first nine in a practice round prior to the tourney, opened with a sizzling 32 Monday and came in at 36. He had a 66 in the practice round.

Two men were tied at 70, including Ed Moehling, the former Arlington High School standout who won two straight Illinois State Amateur titles. Moehling, who is the assistant pro at the Glenview Club, had two nines of 35 in earning a spot in the Western. Ed had spent some time on the pro tour before taking the Glenview job.

Miller Has Hole-in-One

Herbert Miller, 211 N. Haddow, Arlington Heights, fired a hole-in-one last week (Wednesday) at the Arlington Park Golf Club.

Miller used an eight-iron on the 125 yard 15th hole during an evening round.

Lions Fall in League Opener

The Lions of Arlington Heights blew a four-run lead and went down to defeat Monday evening in their first game in the Winnemac Park summer baseball league.

The locals jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first inning, but North Shore recovered with three in the second, five in the fourth, and a singleton in the fifth for a 9-4 victory.

Right hander Jerry Donahue had control problems and was lifted in the fourth inning by Lion Coach Larry Nomellini. Jerry walked seven in three and two-thirds innings. Tom Collins finished up.

The Lions appeared headed for a big game in the first when Dan Collins' single touched off a four-run uprising. Donahue also singled and with two outs Tom Collins, Tom McDonald, and Bill Aylward delivered base hits for the four runs.

That was the extent of the Lion scoring. They had two men on in the sixth with only one out but couldn't score and had the bases loaded in the seventh.

Dan Collins and McDonald paced the offensive attack with three hits each.

Score by innings:

North Shore	030 510 0-9-8

Mt. Prospect Records 16-4 District Win

Mount Prospect's American Legion baseball team went on a hitting rampage last week in Ninth District activity with a 16-4 rout of Northlake.

Coahc Ray Clow's entry pounded out 14 hits, four for extra bases, and had three big innings in burying the Northlake nine.

The victory came three days after a 3-1 loss to Des Plaines and served as the final league encounter before the big meeting with Arlington Heights to conclude first round competition.

Dave Kingman worked on the hill against Northlake and yielded six hits over six innings.

Mount Prospect exploded for four runs in the second and added seven in the fourth and five in the fifth.

GREG KOWAL touched off the fourth-inning uprising with an infield single, and Kingman helped his own cause with a triple that brought Kowal across. Tom Clow walked and Rick Lytle smashed a three-run homer.

John Alexander popped up for the first out, but Tom Manderscheid was hit by a pitched ball. Tom Lundstedt walked and a wild pitch sent the runners to second and third.

J. D. Thorne kept the rally alive with a single that sent Lundstedt and Manderscheid across. Greg MacLaughlin also singled, Thorne taking third, and J. D. tallied on a wild throw. Kowal and Kingman both grounded out to check the fireworks.

The locals added five more runs in the fifth.

Lundstedt joined Kingman in the triple department and Thorne had a double as part of the 14-hit attack.

EARLIER IN the week Des Plaines had avenged a first round loss to Mount Prospect with a 3-1 decision. Mike Salata was the starter and loser for Clow's outfit with Thorne coming on in relief.

Mount Prospect collected only three hits and Kowal had two of them, a home run to left field and single. Alexander rapped out the other base knock.

Leaders Meet in Showdown

The Demarets held first place Monday night in the Arlington V.F.W. Golf League but will be hard pressed to hold their position since their next opponent will be the second place Hagens who now trail the leaders by only one point.

Low net was also shared by two men with Duke Kopplin firing a 3-97-32 and Ralph Neal a 40-8-32.

Wheeling Girl Wins Bowl Title

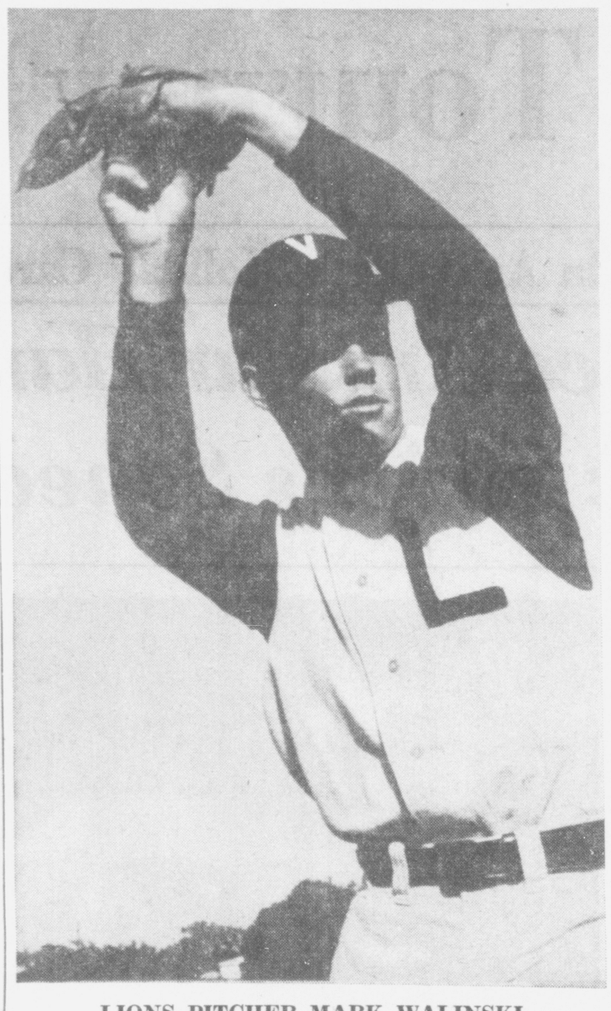
A Wheeling girl is a little richer in honor and financial reward for being a proficient bowler.

Bette Laurance, representing Jeffery Lanes of Wheeling, recently bowled her way to the Illinois Senior Girls' championship in the state finals at La Salle. She won with an actual three-game score of 571, and a handicap score of 643.

For winning the Illinois Youth Bowling Association tourney, she was given a trophy and a $250.00 scholarship to the college of her choice. Bette will be a senior at Wheeling High School this fall.

Because she was not a graduating senior, she couldn't qualify for the national youth bowling finals to be held in Washington, D.C.

Bette is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Laurance, 293 E. Center St., Wheeling.



LIONS PITCHER MARK WALINSKI
Seven Innings of No-Hit Baseball

Walinski No-Hits Glenbard West for Seven; Wins in 8th

An incoming freshman at St. Viator High School furnished the big headline last week as the Lions of Arlington Heights engaged in seven baseball contests.

Mark Walinski threw a no-hitter for seven innings Friday against the Glenbard West legion team and although yielding a line double in the eighth still emerged with an impressive 2-1 victory.

Walinski's mound gem gave Coach Larry Nomellini's summer entry its only victory in the seven non-league outings. The Lions lost to Glenview and Maine East in single games and to Maine South and Palatine in doubleheaders and now stand 3-10 for the summer.

WALINSKI, a right-hander who will be a freshman at St. Viator in the fall, got the decision against Glenbard when the Lions came up with two runs in the top half of the eighth inning.

Jerry Donahue, Tom McDonald, and Tom Collins singled and after a strikeout and walk Dick Aylward punched a single to bring in the decisive run.

Walinski ran into some trouble in the home half of the eighth. He walked the first hitter and then with two outs yielded his first hit, a line double down the left field line that drove in the only Glenbard run.

Score by innings:

Lions	000 000 02—2-10
Glenbard W.	000 000 01—1- 1

IN AN EARLIER game the Glenview legion team took care of the Lions 7-2, scoring in every inning. Walinski was the starter and loser this time with a yield of seven hits.

The Lions scored their only two runs in the first inning on walks to Bill Kaveney and Dan Collins and a triple to right by Donahue. The only other Lion hit was a single by Tom Epperly leading off the fourth.

Score by innings:

Glenview	112 111—7-7
Lions	200 000—2-2

MAINE EAST came up with a single run in the seventh inning to whip the Lions 3-2. Bill Miller was the Lion starter but Tom Collins absorbed the loss in relief.

Nomellini's nine scored a single run in the first on an error, stolen base, another error, and double steal and went ahead 2-0 in the fifth on an error, fielder's choice, and singles by Don Kulla and Donahue.

Maine pulled into a 2-2 tie in the sixth and won the game in the seventh on a walk, stolen base, and error.

The Lions had the tieing run on second base in the final inning but couldn't push it across.

Score by innings:

Maine East	000 002 1—3
Lions	100 010 0—2

IN A SATURDAY doubleheader the locals dropped two tough decisions to Maine South. Donahue fell 2-1 in the opener although yielding only three hits and Tom Collins was a 3-0 loser in the windup.

Donahue struck out five over the seven innings. Spiggos was the winner for Maine.

The locals scored their only run in the first on an error and single by Donahue.

Score by innings:

Maine South	100 001 0—2
Lions	100 000 0—1

TOM COLLINS was breezing along on a shutout until the fifth inning of the second game Saturday when Maine pushed over its three runs. A missed fly ball proved costly for the Lions.

The Arlington crew pushed men as far as second base on two occasions but couldn't score.

Collins yielded only four hits in the defeat.

Score by innings:

Maine South	000 030 0—3
Lions	000 000 0—0

SUNDAY WAS a disaster as the Lions dropped a doubleheader to Palatine.

Miller was the starter and loser in the opener as Palatine pounded out a 12-0 victory. The winners had a 10-0 lead after three frames.

The Lions collected only three hits over seven innings. Epperly had a double and Miller and Dan Collins connected for singles.

Score by innings:

Lions	000 000 0— 0
Palatine	442 011 0—12

IN THE SECOND game four walks, a wild pitch, and triple brought in the three decisive runs for Palatine in a 13-10 victory.

McDonald was the loser for the Lions although regular first baseman Kaveney started on the hill.

The Lions had three big innings in the second game. They scored three times in the second on singles by Tom Collins, McDonald, and Bill Aylward and a home run to right-center by Rich Loner; two times in the third on a single by Epperly and home run by Tom Collins; and five times in the sixth on a hit batsman singles by Loner and Kaveney, and successive home runs by Donahue and Epperly.

Major League All-Star Tilt In Elk Grove

A Major League all-star game will be staged at Lions Park July Fourth by the Elk Grove Boys Baseball Association as part of the day long Lions Club program.

The All-Star game at 1 p.m. will be followed by a Donkey softball contest and a softball game between the Lions and Jaycees.

The two Major divisions in the Elk Grove summer program remained tight last week with the Braves holding the upperhand in the National League and Yanks and Indians sharing the lead in the American.

The big news in the week's activity came in the form of a sparkling no-hitter by the Indians' Keith Michaels in a 17-0 rout of the Dodgers in Minor 'A' action. Keith walked only one man over six innings and was supported with a 13-hit attack, including a home run by Don Wickmann.

The Indians are now tied for first place in the American 'A' Minors with the Sox.

IN MAJOR League play the Dodgers edged the Cardinals 6-5 behind the pitching of Chen, and the Cubs slapped down the pace-setting Braves 10-7 with Larry Malinowski besting Sean Hannery. Nick Adams rapped a triple for the Cubs, and Scott Pruitt had a three-bagger for the Braves.

Louis Piermaini's single, double and triple paced the Yankees to a 4-3 victory over the Indians. He also had two runs-batted-in and scored a pair. DeHaven worked on the hill for the winners and allowed five hits.

The Braves had two big innings in a 13-5 whipping of the Dodgers. They scored four in the first and nine in the eighth of this extra inning contest. Mike Cavanaugh's grand slam homer highlighted the eighth inning explosion. Scott Pruitt pitched the seventh and eighth stanzas for the Braves and got the win.

THE WHITE Sox scored five runs in the first two innings, added two more in the fifth, and posted a 7-3 Major League win over the Tigers. Tomaselli was the winner with Klinger absorbing the loss.

Mike O'Dea was the winner in Minor 'A' competition as the Indians bumped the Tigers 14-9. Bill Jackson hit a home run in the third inning with a man on to break an 8-8 tie.

The White Sox scored two runs in the fourth and fifth and scored a 5-3 victory over the Tigers in the final Class 'A' report.

BURGER rapped out a homer and two doubles and Terry Mueller got the mound decision as the Cubs stopped the Tigers 8-4 in Class 'B' baseball. Johnny Consolazio had a homer for the Tigers.

Tom Spees was the winner as the Cubs nipped the Dodgers 5-4, scoring the winning runs in the sixth.

In Class 'C' competition the Giants topped the Senators 10-7 with Jim Henery slamming a bases-loaded triple; the Yankees blanked the Cardinals 3-0 with Richard Allen's triple the big blow; the Orioles nipped the Lions 9-7 with Jeff Rizzuto on the hill and Ken Werjerski cracking a single and triple; and the Tigers pounded the Cubs 12-4 with Matthews and Brunn sharing mound duties.

Bonnie, Dick Fox Head Husband-Wife Tournament

Forty-seven members of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League and their wives defied Sunday afternoon's heat and high winds to comepte in the league's annual 9-hole Husband and Wife Tournament at Mount Prospect Country Club Park.

Playing in threesomes with each husband and wife team hitting alternate shots at a single ball, the contestants competed for honor and for prizes with the winners determined by handicap basis.

First prize winners and champions of the Husband-Wife Tournament for the 1965 season with a gross 44 net 27 were Bonnie and Dick Fox. Second place went to Evie and Gene Goodman with a 41 gross 28 net, and third place winners were Jeanne and Hal Jauch with a 47 gross 30 net.

Low gross honors went to Evie and Gene Goodman for their 41.

This was the first of the special events scheduled for the league's 1965 Silver Anniversary Season. On July 25 the league is sponsoring the annual Father and Son or Daughter Tournament to be held also at Mount Prospect Country Club. All regular members and paid-up alternates are eligible to enter.

Officers in charge of the special events are league vice-presidents Bill Swanson and Jack Quint.

Indians Gain Two Pony League Wins

The Indians continued to dominate Pony League play in another week of activity in the Roling Meadows Boys' Baseball Association.

The Pony leaders picked up two wins, one against the Cubs, the other against the Yankees. Brian Rooney came through with another strong pitching performance, allowing six hits in a 6-3 decision over the Yankees.

Against the Cubs, in a 9-3 final, it was Bob Gaddini tossing a four-hitter. Rooney and Gaddini helped out at the plate in the contest, with Rooney going three for three and Gaddini two for four.

THE TIGERS continued to look tough in the American division of the Major League, getting back-to-back one-hitters from pitchers Ed Bansfield and Dan McCool, and solid hitting from Manual Martines and Bob Scott. The Tigers whipped the Athletics 15-1 and the Cubs 8-2.

Jim Miller went four for four to lead the Yankees to a 7-6 victory over the Senators. Russ Alt picked up his second win of the season in the game, and contributed a home run.

The Pirates, behind Peter Lind, beat the Yankees in a game called at the end of four innings. Alt hit another home run in the game.

THE ANNUAL Major League all-star game was played last Sunday, with the Nationals showing a stronger team and beating the American all-stars 7-4.

The Minor League all-star get-together is set for July 11.

In one of the highlights of Minor League play last week, the Sox outlasted the Cubs 16-10. The victory was due largely to the home run bats of Steve Eberhard, Jerry Sands and Gary Matzl, who hit his with the bases full.

Falcons Drop Two in Loop

Forest View began its first season in the high school summer baseball league with losses to Deerfield and Riverside-Brookfield.

Coach Hal Sprehe's Falcons, participating this summer for the first time in a high school program with 11 other squads, fell to Deerfield 5-1 and Riverside 10-0 in opening league encounters.

Bill King started against Deerfield and went four and two-thirds innings before he was lifted in favor of Marty Fontana.

Forest View scored its only run in the seventh when Gary Wellehan and Meiers singled and Bob Chudik doubled to left-center.

The Falcons had seven hits and stranded 11 base runners over seven innings. Bob Artemenko paced the attack with two singles.

Score by innings:

Deerfield	100	022	0—5
Forest View	000	000	1—1

The Falcons collected only one hit Monday in a 10-0 loss to Riverside. Wellehan singled in the first but was cut down trying to steal.

Pat Dunnigan, who lettered in football, basketball, and track at Forest View, tried his hand at pitching and went two innings, facing two hitters in the third. He gave up one earned run. Fontana finished up.

Score by innings:

Forest View	000	00—	0
Riverside	045	01—	10

The Falcons will host Riverside this Friday at the Forest View diamond with a 6:00 starting time. They'll entertain Highland Park at home next Wednesday.

Lions Only Outfit In Mount Prospect With Sizable Lead

The Lions have a solid grip on first place in their division of the Mount Prospect Bronco League, and they're the only outfit that can make that statement at this stage of the summer baseball activity.

Tight races are the rule rather than the exception in the extensive Mount Prospect program although the Lions currently enjoy a three game bulge in the National Majors.

Elsewhere in Mount Prospect there's nothing but drama. The Giants are a galf-game on top in the National "A"; the Braves are a half-game on top in the National "B"; the Yankees own a game lead in the American Majors; the Orioles show a galf-game advantage in the American "A"; the Indians have a half-game bulge in the American "B"; and the Sox and Yanks own uncomfortable leads in the Pony divisions.

The Sox of the American League "A" division made a big climb during the week, chalking up three wins and moving from the cellar to fourth. The Lions moved from last to a tie for third in the National "A," and the Tigers moved from fourth into a tie for second in the American League "B."

Here's the way another week unfolded in Mount Prospect:

BRONCO MAJORS

The Lions turned on the power and shelled the cardinals 17-5, scoring in every inning with seven markers in an explosive third. Becker had a triple and home run and Anderson and Schultz also cracked home runs. Gewartowski went 3-for-3 with three runs-batted-in.

Steve Kirchhoff was the winning pitcher and Steve Carley belted a three-run homer as the Giants whipped the Cubs 7-4, and the Braves rocked the Dodgers 14-2 with two five-run innings. Chuck Ayers was the winner for the Braves.

Nick Ryan got the decision on a nifty two-hitter as the Orioles blanked the Senators 8-0. Bruce Richardson slapped a home run and Ron Smoy batted in four runs.

Ryan Maly made news as he pitched a masterful no-hitter in the Yankees' 18-0 rout of the Sox. Ryan struck out 11 men and faced only 23 hitters in six innings. The Yanks pounded out 19 hits with Jim Dooley going 5-for-5.

The Indians had two three-run innings in a 6-2 victory over the Tigers with Don Anderson the winner. Dale Morgan rapped out a home run. Frantell was the winner as the Yanks blasted the Orioles 18-0, scoring 12 runs in the sixth inning.

In a replay of an earlier game the Tigers whipped the Senators 6-3. Tom Schrieber was the winner with Tim Carson tagged with the loss. This was a continuation of a 13-13 tie. In the two games Rick Barnes had a home run and triple, Terry Brown and Tom Schrieber had home runs, John Trandel had seven hits, and Scott Szala two home runs.

The Indians shaded the Sox 6-5 with a single run in the fifth inning deciding the contest. Good, Morgan, and Sedwick had home runs.

Korf was the winner, striking out nine, as the Cubs nipped the Cards 4-2. Carroll had three straight hits. The Lions ripped the Dodgers 18-5 with a 12-run explosion in the fifth inning. Hagg was the winner and O'Donnell blasted a home run. Mancini had a double and triple.

The Braves pushed across six runs in the first inning and went on to post a 10-3 victory over the Giants. Bill Campbell was the winner. Ayers had a double and homer for the Braves, and Neumann had a double and four-bagger for the Giants.

BRONCO "A" LEAGUE

The Sox scored the decisive run in the final inning in a 4-3 victory over the Dodgers. Upchurch was the winner on a yield of only two hits. He struck out 13. Dan Sennett got both Dodger hits.

Dick Sheppard and Steve Jackson teamed up to pitch a one-hitter as the Dodgers tripped the Yankees, 3-1, and the Lions nipped the Indians 8-7 with a seven-run blast in the sixth. Jim Prandini drove in the winning run, and Bob Nickol was the victorious pitcher.

The Braves scored seven runs in the opening inning and held on for an 11-6 victory over the Senators. Gary Anderson was the winner, picking up his fourth straight decision. Craig Graham made one of the fielding gems of the season with a back-handed catch in deep center of a drive with the bases loaded.

The Lions whipped the Orioles in Bronco "A" action with a five-spot in the second. Tim Bailey's double to drive in two runs ignited the five-run second. John Rohde was the winner.

The Tigers pounded out 11 hits and were aided by 13 errors in a 9-2 victory over the Cubs. Kevin Wineinger pitched a one-hitter.

Steingraber got the win as the Giants slapped down the Yankees 6-1. Kidd and McDonough each contributed a double and triple. The Senators ripped the Cardinals 11-6.

A strong relief stint by Tom Trandel was vital as the Tigers whipped the Cardinals 8-4 in eight innings. Trandel came on in the sixth and struck out five while not allowing any runs. Steve Klingaman homered.

The Giants scored two runs in the first and three in the third for a 5-4 victory over the Indians. Kidd was the winner. The Sox nipped the Senators 12-11 in a game that was continued from June 7. Chilton had two triples for the Sox.

The Sox posted a 5-4 victory over the Cubs in a game called after four innings because of darkness, and the Senators bombed the Tigers 13-5. The Senators also pulled out a 2-1 victory over the Cubs.

BRONCO "B" LEAGUE

Paul Kitzing was the winner and also delivered two triples as the Tigers decked the Senators 12-1, scoring eight runs in the third. The Dodgers whipped the Cubs 7-1 behind J. Brink with seven runs scoring in the fourth.

Lessman scored the winning run as the Yankees posted a 1-0 victory over the Sox, and the Giants slipped by the Senators in a free-swinging affair 14-12. Hermanson was the winner in the latter game.

The Sox edged the Cardinals 6-5, and the Indians showed a 6-3 win over the Braves in a replayed game. Bloomquist was the winner for the Indians and Hilt cracked a home run.

The Cubs pounded the Senators 23-10, and the Tigers posted an 11-10 victory over the Dodgers with Darrell Smith on the hill. Paul Kitzing homered.

PONY NATIONAL

The Sox scored six runs in the first inning but still had to come from behind for an 11-9 victory over the Orioles. Dave Murken rapped two home runs for the Sox.

A 10-run first inning was all the Yankees needed in a 10-3 victory over the Braves. Dave Peterson crashed a grand slam homer as a first inning highlight.

The Yankees tripped the Orioles 8-4, scoring six runs in the first two innings. Lesniak, the winning pitcher, had a double and triiple.

The Orioles came up with four runs in the seventh inning of their 10-9 victory over the Cubs. Drake had a double and triple. Kotowski was the winning pitcher.

Scoring in every inning with eight runs in the fourth, the Yankees shelled the Sox 14-5. Hoppe was the winning pitcher.

The Cardinals erupted with 16 hits in rolling past the Sox 16-4. Mike Berdell was the winner. Ken Mays and Jim Christopher cracked out triples.

PONY AMERICAN

The Cardinals came up with three runs in the top half of the seventh inning and nipped the Cubs 3-2. Marinelli was the winning pitcher. Gaffney had a double and triple for the Cards who outhit the losers 10-3.

The Sox scored four runs in the third inning and held on for a 4-1 victory over the Braves in a well-played game and the Yankees clubbed the Cubs 16-2 with two five-run stanzas. Graf was the winner for the Yanks.

Carter got the decision as the Orioles slipped by the Cardinals 11-10, and the Braves shaded the Cubs 8-7 in eight innings. Turner was the winner in relief for the Braves. Patzke had a home run.

The Cardinals clobbered the Sox 14-2 with Teichert going the distance. Marinelli slammed a home run.

Arlington's Winning Skein Stopped at 15

Arlington's powerful American Legion baseball team, the talk of the town again this summer, saw its winning streak snapped at 15 Sunday afternoon in the second game of a non-league doubleheader.

Coach Lloyd Meyer's classy crew, author of a snappy 26-5 record last summer, succumbed in the 90-degree heat to Morton West 12-3.

The loss was the first for Meyer's squad in 16 games, but no damage was done in the important Ninth District standings where Arlington remained unbeaten.

Morton pushed over four runs in the first inning — a barrage that could have been avoided except for one costly misplay — and went on from there for the easy victory. They scored four more runs in the second without the aid of a base hit.

John Loughman started on the hill for Arlington and was relieved by Mark Newman in the third. Loughman absorbed the loss.

The locals didn't create any commotion until the fourth when Newman rode around after reaching on a walk. Another walk, fielder's choice, and error sent Newman across.

Thad Woodard tallied in the fifth after rapping a single with one out. Howie Winkelhake tripled him home. They teamed up again in the seventh for another run with Woodard reaching on a single and Winkelhake delivering another triple.

Morton West	440	103	0—12
Arlington	000	110	1—3

IN THE OPENER Sunday at Pioneer Park Arlington kept its unbeaten record intact with a 12-2 drubbing of the visitors from Berwyn. Paul Splittorff, who wielded a big bat, started on the hill and was given a quick 2-0 lead in the first inning on a walk, single by Rich Hoppe, and triple by Mike Frase.

Arlington continued the explosion in the second with four more runs and coasted the rest of the way to its 15th straight victory of the 1965 season. The locals scored in every inning but the sixth.

Score by innings:

Morton West	010	010	0—2
Arlington	242	130	*—12

IN LEAGUE action prior to the doubleheader Arlington had dumped River Grove 3-0 behind another brilliant mount effort by lefty Tom Lundgren.

Lundgren allowed only one hit, a first inning single, and struck out 18 over seven frames. He ended the game with nine straight strikeouts.

Arlington opened the scoring in the first on a walk to Newman, singles by Mark and Mike Frase, and an error, and added another marker in the second without the aid of a base knock. Newman scored again in the fifth after reaching on a walk.

Score by innings:

River Grove	000	000	0—0
Arlington	110	010	*—3

JOHN FRIEDL, Lundgren, and Splittorff toiled Friday in a 2-0 league victory over Maine East.

Friedl started and worked for four and two-thirds innings. Lundgren faced two batters in the fifth and Splittorff finished up with two strong frames. Paul struck out four and got the two other hitters on infield blows in the sixth and seventh.

Arlington scored what proved to be the decisive run in the third on a single by Friedl, stolen base, and single by Newman and added a second in the sixth on walks to Mark and Mike Frase and Splittorff and a clutch single by Winkelhake.

Maine East threatened in the second and fifth but couldn't push anything across.

Score by innings:

Arlington	001	001	0—2
Maine East	000	000	0—0

Arlington will host Des Plaines this Friday at the St. Viator diamond and will entertain the Lions of Arlington Heights July Fourth at Pioneer Park in a 1:00 p.m. game. Dundee comes to town and Recreation Park Monday, July 5, for a 2:00 game, and the locals will journey to Lane Tech Tuesday. A league game at Palatine is set for Wednesday, July 7.

Liff's 293 Total Wins by Four in State Amateur Golf

The new, scenic and tough Prestwick Country Club at Frankfort was conquered last week by Earl Liff of Northbrook, who used the layout to claim the trophy in the 35th Illinois State Amateur golf tourney.

For Liff, 36 years old this week, the victory was his first golf championship. A printer by trade, playing out of Green Acres Country Club, Liff journeyed his four rounds in 293 strokes, five over par.

The best finish by a Paddock area entrant was provided by Mills Rendell of Palatine, who totaled 306, good for a three-way tie for seventh. He started with rounds of 78 and 75, a 153 total that was just good enough to survive the cut at the halfway mark. Six others had the same total. During the 36-hole play on Thursday, he carded a 79 and a 74.

Warren Luebcke of Mount Prospect came in in 21st place, putting together a 311 total. He had been one of the early leaders with a 75-74—149, but he ballooned with an 80 and an 82 on the last day.

Liff was the leader at the halfway point with 144, and he held the lead despite a scare from Wayne Etherton of St. Andrews Country Club of St. Charles. Etherton finished second in the tournament with 297, shooting rounds of 73, 75, 74 and 75, identical to Liff's, except the winner had a second round 71, the margin that held up for victory.

They played in the same threesome during the 36-hole final, and were still four strokes apart after the first 18. But Etherton, with a birdie and two pars, pulled even with Liff after three holes of the last 18, as Liff had a bogey, a par and a double bogey.

That's when Liff poured it on, picking up birdies at six, seven and eight to make the turn with a three-stroke margin. He cut another stroke in the last nine, and took the victory by four.

The best single round of the tournament was turned in by a golfer who didn't finish. Jim Jamieson of Short Hills Country Club, Moline, was the first round leader with a 70. But he lost a battle with the flu, rising to 76 the next day, then withdrawing.

JUST DOGS

By Dave Terrill

July 4th and noise . . .

Enjoy the Fourth of July, but remember that this is one holiday that most dogs would just as soon pass by. Even though in our state the sale of firecrackers and the like are not permitted, there always seems to be some individuals who get them, regardless of what the law has to say on the subject.

Noisemakers, firecrackers and the like are usually upsetting to a dog. Even hunting dogs are often upset by the sudden crack of a firecracker. If your area is going to have a special public fireworks show, don't take Slugger with you. Some of those rockets can really shake loose the plaster, let alone the disturbing reaction to your dog.

A DOG'S REACTION to these noises is similar to the nervous and fearful behavior many dogs experience just before and during thunderstorms. There is no cure for this and in extreme cases, your veterinarian may suggest a mild tranquilizer.

The best thing to do during a thunderstorm is to let your dog stay where he is most secure. If he hides under a table or clings to your side, let him, and talk to him to reassure him. Never keep a dog that is nervous about storms tied to a dog house outside. It is obvious that the dog would become more terrified if he found himself confined to one spot and not able to move about at will. Many dogs will hide, some just start pacing around, panting for all they are worth.

Just keep in mind that dogs are often like people. If they know what causes the noise, then everything is usually fine, but when they don't know, they become nervous.

Garden time . . .

It's that time of year when folks who own dogs had better keep a little closer watch on the family hound when he goes out of the house. The neighbor may have just planted that garden and relations can become rather touchy if your dog tramps through that garden.

Each area has its own laws on dogs, such as running loose, outside the property of the owner, however, it seems that folks just let their pets roam with little regard for other people, their lawns and gardens. It is up to the dog owner to keep track of his dog and to make sure that he is not causing trouble.

A lot of folks have outdoor swimming pools, and most of them have a fence built around them, but, even so, some dog will wander in for a drink and a quick dip. If your dog does this, you can get into trouble if the owner of the pool does not care for dogs. As a result, keep an eye on the family hound this summer, and don't let him wander throughout the land.

Barks & Bays . . .

Just a passing thought during some rather warm weather. According to Gaines Research, by having a chance to drink water occasionally when hunting or otherwise working hard, a dog's endurance will increase by 75 per cent. Don't know how mine will increase, but a cold glass of water sure helps.

Eisenstein Wins Jaycee Tourney In Buffalo Grove

Alan Eisenstein, 16, of Wheeling High School fired a 79 for a one stroke triumph in the Buffalo Grove Jaycee Junior Golf tournament at Arlington Country Club last week. He recorded nines of 41 and 38 for his nine over par round.

While playing a practice round at Arlington Country Club, Eisenstein shot a hole-in-one on the 190 yard third hole.

Eisenstein, a southpaw, edged out Dick Fontecchio, 17, and Bob Boenig, 16, who fired rounds of 80, to walk off with the top honors.

Eisenstein and Fontecchio, a playoff winner, will represent the Buffalo Grove Jaycees in the Illinois State Jaycee Golf tournament which will be held in Kewanee on July 19, 20, and 21. The State tournament will be a 36 hole medal-play event with the boys expenses being paid by the Jaycees.

Mike Spinello, chairman of the Buffalo Grove Jaycee event, will accompany the boys to the State tournament.

The four state winners will advance to the El Dorado Country Club in Houston, Tex. in August for the week-long National tournament, also all expenses paid.

A special Low Net trophy in the Buffalo Grove meet was won by Rick Johnsen, 15, also of Wheeling High School. Rick shot a 104 and his Peoria system handicap enabled him to finish with a net 68 and first place in Low Net competition. Bob Boenig's 70 captured second low net.

The long drive contest was own by Dick Fontecchio with a poke of 260 yards. Mike Saar's drive of 235 yards placed him second. The long drive competition was held on the 441 yard 10th hole as part of the player's regular round with a trophy awarded for the longest tee shot.

One of the high points of the day's events was a Clinic conducted by Professional Ed Moehling, former two-time Illinois State Amateur Champion and now the Assistant Pro at the Glenview Club in Golf. Moehling demonstrated the basic fundamentals of the game to the tournament entrants and showed some of the finesse that makes him one of the better shotmakers in the area.

Greens fees for the tournament were donated by Dan Taggart Jr., owner of the Arlington Country Club. In addition, Taggart will donate new golf balls to be used in state competition by Eisenstein and Fontecchio.

Attack-Minded

Northern Illinois University quarterback Ron Christian won't play much football during the summer of 1965—but he'll come back to campus in the fall attack-minded. The signal-caller will be on summer duty with the Marine Corps reserves, practicing amphibious attack landings along Virginia beaches.

Area Boy May Earn Berth in Israel Games

Edward Massof of Arlington Heights is one of the eligibilities to date in volleyball for the Seventh World Maccabiah Games to be held in Tel Aviv, Israel, Aug. 23-31, Local Sports for Israel Chairman Joseph S. Gerber said this week.

"Final selections will be made about July 1," Gerber added.

Stags' Ace Also Slams Two Home Runs

Gunnison Is Still In News; Fires 3rd Straight Arlington No-Hitter

The whole town's talking about that Gunnison boy.

Mark Gunnison, who had everyone in the Arlington Heights Boys Baseball league buzzing with two straight no-hitters, registered his third straight hitless gem Saturday.

Gunnison, who does his firing for the Stags in the South White Juniors, set down the Jets without a hit at the South Junior High diamond. Mark also helped his own cause with two home runs.

Gunnison's mound work was the big news in another busy week of summer activity, but two other pitchers chalked up no-hitters and eight fashioned one-hitters in Arlington Heights.

Dave Lundstedt, who's been a stickout all summer, flipped a no-hitter for the Giants in the National League, and Ed Emerich registered one for the Barons in the South White Intermediate.

The Sox and Larks engaged in a double one-hitter in the North Blue Juniors league.

Here's the way it looked last week:

SENIOR LEAGUE

The Lions captured the first half championship in the Senior division with a sparkling 10-0 record. They wrapped it up with three impressive victories last week.

Steve Williams scattered four hits as the Lions ripped the Browns 7-1. Steve picked up his fourth victory in the process with 40 strikeouts and only one walk in those four outings.

A seven-run second inning carried the Lions to a 10-6 victory over the Hawks. John Shartle worked on the hill and Ray blasted a home run. Jim Keany, who was the loser, slapped a triple. Bob Hecht bested Gary Price as the Lions whipped the Bears 6-3.

Bill Schaefer of the Bears had a no-hitter until the fifth when Herb Irlbacker beat out a slow roller. Larry Malcolmson homered over the center fielder's head and Horcher also homered for the third run.

The Redlegs came up with three runs in the sixth inning to pull out a 3-2 victory over the Browns. Gary Hicks got the win.

John Vetter pitched a steady two-hitter as the Indians blanked the Redlegs 5-0. John walked two and struck out 10. Horcher rapped a four-bagger.

Scott Guilfoil of the Hawks fashioned a five-hitter and took a 2-0 decision from the Bears' Gary Price, who yielded only two hits.

Lundstedt walked a man in the sixth inning but didn't allow another base runner in the entire contest as he fashioned a no-hitter. The winning run came home in the final inning as Steve Chase walked, and eventually counted when Ken Ellertson walked Lundstedt with the bases loaded. Ellertson pitched a fine two-hitter in defeat.

Tom Brantner fired a one-hitter, allowing only an infield single by Scott Steingraber, as the Cubs blanked the Cardinals 2-0. Jack Hult was the loser although pitching a sharp three-hitter.

Tenth Place Team Gives Bank Trouble

It was a narrow squeak for the leading Mount Prospect State Bankers led by Captain Dick Piehl in the Friday Night Twilight league at Mount Prospect. They sought to fatten their lead on the field with a big win over the tenth place Keefer Pharmacists only to find they had their hands full sneaking through with a narrow 7.25 to 4.75 win, and Piehl had to watch substitute captain Cass Holda fire a sparkling 37-7-net 30 that included three birds.

Piehl led the league-leading Bankers into Friday night's competition with large plans, but Holda and the Pharmacists had other ideas as Holda turned back Piehl 37 over Mount Prospect's tough back nine with a card of 37 that included birds on the par three 155 yard twelfth, the par four 369 yard fourteenth, and the par three 225 yard sixteenth for his four and three win over the long-hitting Piehl and one of the outstanding playing performances of the season.

Bankers John Burck and George Miscevich like first place and were determined to hold on to it as they scored identical two and one wins over Pharmacists Don Bertrand and Yngve Bloomquist. Val Reising added another win point to the Keefer total with his one up win over Banker Bob Rinehart and it looked like an upset until Ken Arnold insured the narrow win for the Bankers with his two up win over Hank Kaht.

THE BIG CHANGE in the standings took place when Captain Al Gilso, moving his Wille Fuel & Lumber five steadily up in the league, led the Lumbermen into second place with a sound 8.5 to 3.5 trouncing of Don Campbell and his Kruse quintet.

Gilso set the pace for the Wille win with his five and four win over Kruse Captain Don Campbell with a card of net 31 that included birds on the par five 485 yard first hole and the par four 328 yard third.

Kruse's Charles Vojta evened the score with his four and three win over Wille's Joe Kubik, but then the Wille-men fueled up and got moving.

BOB TESMER had to see his bird on the par five 485 yard first hole go to waste as the best he could come up with was a halved match with Kruse's Dick Bindon. But Wille's Dan Lynch, following the flight plan filed by Captain Gilso, fired a net 31 of his own to score a two up win over Jordan Italia, despite Italia's bird on the par four 328 yard third.

Ed. Krause closed out the scoring for the Wille-men with his four and three win over Bob Arko and the Wille five were in second place just 6.3 points back of the leaders.

In second place last week, Captain Ed Berset and his Meeske Super Market five missed their chance to move on the leaders, and instead slipped into third place, as they lost a narrow 6.5 to 5.5 battle with Captain Joe Wylie and his F.B.K. Realtors.

WYLIE GOT THE eighth place Realtors off to their winning start with his close one up win over Berset. Jim Scott and Al Glover reversed the trend for the Meeske-men as they downed Realtors Herman Faildin and Howard Houdek with two and one and three up victories, with Scott scoring birds on the par four 328 yard third and the par four 285 yard ninth holes.

But the Realtor's would not be denied their upset. Bob Carrol countered with his solid five and four win over Meeske's Marnel Veleta and Jim Murphy finished it off with his three and two win over Bill Mottweiler. The loss dropped the Meeske's into third by only half a point, and, only a point and a half out of fourth.

In eleventh place at the start of the season, Captain Dudley Hartman has made the long hard pull up the standings to a point where his Bainbridge Apartment five is now in fourth place and only eight points away from first.

IT WAS ALMOST a total victory as the Bainbridge Apartment quintet swept aside Tony Ramicone's Pro Sport Shop five with a 10.4 to 1.7 to make their big move into contention.

Captain Hartman scored the five of the five Bainbridge wins as he shrugged off Ramicone's bird on the par three 225 yard sixteenth to turn in his two and one win.

Then in quick order the Bainbridgers finished off the remainder of the Pro Sport Shop five. Holmes McLendon registered a three and two win over Augie Bonnuchi with a bird on the par three 155 yard twelfth; Jim Insolia pounded Don Grasse with a four and three win and a bird on the par four 268 yard thirteenth; Ed Deringer downed Dan Carta two and one; and Don Quigley ended the perfect evening for the Bainbridge five with his four and two win over Dean Lee.

FIFTH PLACE was taken over by Ray Felitto's Williams-Gray Co. quintet as they sank the fast falling Doyno Motormen of Dick Haden with their 8.5 to 3.5 win. Doyno's Harold Lins scored Doyno's only win with a two up win card over Dr. Ed Luzwick that included a bird on the par four 328 yard third hole.

Only other bird of the evening was the three turned in by Bob Glader, captain of the George S. May Co. quintet, on the par four 268 yard thirteenth.

Carter Music Holds Tuesday Night Lead

Carter Music Shop continued its hold on first place with a two point margin over the closest challenger, Morton Pontiac, as the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League reached halfway point in its Silver Anniversary season last week with the teams meeting in the first Position Night contest of the year.

Position night calls for the first place team to play the second place team, third meets fourth, and so on through the twelve teams.

In four of the six contests the underdog team was able to gain sufficient points to move ahead of its opponent in league standings, but Carter's, in first place since May 25, managed to withstand the strong challenge of second-place Morton Pontiac, as the teams battled to a 5-5 stand-off, and remained in first place with Morton trailing by the same two points.

WHILE THE TWO top teams battling to a standstill, one of the strongest underdogs of the league at this stage, Kersting Garden Center, put on a tremendous point surge as they topped Thunderbird Bowl 9-1 and moved into third place. The points accumulated not only moved the Gardeners up a place in the standings but put them within shooting distance of the top as Carter's and Morton's marked time in the point department.

Also moving up in the standings was Keefer's Pharmacy who began a comeback from a short slump by defeating Busse-Biermann Hardware Co. 6½-3½.

Most interesting individual sidelight of this contest was the match between Len Johnson of Keefer's and Walt Double of Busse-Biermann, "A" position players for their respective teams. Double fired a 37, one of his best essays in the last two years, only to lose match and medal as Johnson came in with a par-busting 34.

Johnson's one - under - par effort was over the first nine and included four birdies, three pars, a bogey, and one double bogey on the par-3 fourth hole. Johnson and Double, both long hitters and aided by gusty winds that have become the accepted condition on Tuesdays, were in position to chip for pars, if not eagles, on several of the par-4 holes. Johnson's hot putter spelled the difference.

Mount Prospect Electric Construction Co. was the third team to improve its lot on this position night, moving up one length after defeating Licht's Paint Store, 7-3.

Kirchhoff Insurance Co. also turned in a 7-3 victory, theirs at the expense of Wille Lumber and Fuel, but the win failed to move them from ninth place. Instead it dropped Wille's one position which cleared the way for Kruse's Tavern and Restaurant to move up a spot despite a 5-5 tie with cellar-dwelling Moler's Barber Shop.

Low shooters for the night were L. Johnson 34, W. Double 37, Ron Scherer 38, and Glenn Adams 39.

Birdies were reported by W. Kadlec and R. Becker No. 1, L. Johnson Nos. 2, 3, 7 and 9, G. Raasch No. 9, E. Pociask No. 13 and 15, A. Hammerstrom No. 18.

Leaders Battle To Tie; Barbers Hold On to First

The leading Prospect Heights Barber team of the Rob Roy Tuesday League locked horns with second place Webber Paint in a crucial battle Tuesday night and both teams wound up in identically the same position due to a 3½ to 3½ tie match. No. 2 man, Norv Funk, captured team low net with 41-3-38 for the Barber team.

Gunnell's Restaurant jarred third place Stone Perforating 5½ to 1½. John Stearns of the Restaurant gang, playing in the No. 3 spot, had one of his best rounds of the year to capture two team points with 42-7-35.

Sy Rose of Howard Metals playing in the No. 4 spot carded a 43-10-33, good for two team points in their 6 to 1 victory over Rankin Radio & TV.

Irv Rybicki in the No. 2 slot for Rodewald Dairy clubbed his way around the first nine in grand style gaining two points for the dairy boys with a 39-6-33. This fine round of golf gave Irv a tie with Rose for league low net honors among the regulars. Bob Lee of the alternate group took care of low gross and low net in that category as he fired a 37-4-33.

Wally Strack led Joy-Di to a resounding 6 to 1 victory over C. P. Floor & Tile with a torrid round of 38-4-34 to put that team back in the thick of the fight, only seven points back of the leaders.

Bill Stroben won the prize for closest to the pin on 4.

The birdie shooters for the evening were: C. Peterson 2; Rybicki 4, 6; J. Smith 17; W. Strack 2; Stroben 2, 8; R. Johnson 3; W. Rolfs 1; Ackerman 2; Phillips 17.

Meling Fires 33 in Scratch League Play

The back nine at Old Orchard Country Club was the victim of two exceptionally fine rounds of golf in last Friday's Scratch League play. Gordon Meling was the author of the better of the two as he fired a string of four consecutive birdies starting at the fourteenth hole, and ended up with a three under par 33 to tie Frank Kasper's round of the previous week.

The other excellent round was a one under par 35 turned in by the league's leading scorer, Mike Spinello, who continued his unbeaten string of matches through eight rounds.

Peters & Co. Realtors had a very good night by drubbing Bob Burrow Chevrolet 7-1, with Spinello spearheading the attack. Only the consistent play of Bob Harding prevented a complete whitewash for the Chevymen, as he took a win from John St. Germaine. In the last two weeks Peters & Co. has moved from the cellar to fifth place.

BAIRD & WARNER cooled off the boys from Pitzen Cartage who had been making a strong move for the top. Bernie Magneson's 36 took top honors in the 7-1 blitz that moved them up into fourth place, and dropped Pitzen's down to sixth. The lone winner for Pitzen's was reserve, Earl Frebe, who carded a 38.

Busse's Flowers maintained their precarious hold on first place by downing Arlington Realty by a 5-3 score. Dan Musser moved up into his team's No. 1 spot by shooting a 38, but yielded the low ball score to Bill Hugo who had a 37.

Second place Lohr's Pharmacy battled third place Robert L. Nelson Realtors, and as was said and done, they continued to remain just one half point behind the leaders. The final tally was 5-3 with Lohr's winning three matches and Nelsons' two. Frank Matyas had a 38 for Lohr's, and teammates Dick Bokelmann and Kasper had a 38 and 39 respectively, but they found themselves on the short end in match play against reserve Paul Benrud and Ray Raedel who had identical scores.

HAIRE FUNERAL Home picked up ground as they took a 6-2 decision from L-Nor Cleaners. Gordon Meling's 33 was big news in this match and Dave Borgardt gave him some help by shooting a 38 in halving Wayne Rolfs whose 39 represented his team's best.

444 Press gave indications that they are ready to make their move as Bill Schwerin got back in his regular golfing form as he turned in a one over 36, and along with help from Bob Reiland and John Keeley who had 38's, they took the measure of Miles & Miles Inc. by a 5-3 count. Mike Graft and Jim Krueger had 39's in winning for the Miles team.

This week's action finds the two top teams meeting head to head as the schedule calls for a position round, and they will be opposing each other the following week again in a regularly scheduled match. So there should be some interesting developments in the next few weeks to see if the other teams can take advantage of the situation.

Teachers Propose Neighborhood Youth Corps

Idea Is Weighed By School Board

Eight hundred eighty-nine families in High School District 214 earn less than $3,000 per year. Housing units which are dilapidated or lacking one or more plumbing facilities number 408. The dropout rate for the class of 1961 was 10.8 per cent.

Armed with these statistics from the 1960 U.S. Census survey, two Wheeling High School counselors submitted a proposal to the school board. Monday for establishing a neighborhood youths corps program.

Like the other four federal aid proposals submitted to the school board Monday, it was referred to committee.

The youth corps proposal requests $118,162 in funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity to encourage potential dropouts to remain in school. The school district would add $13,129 of its own funds.

Counselors Val Erickson and George Theodore proposed three programs. In one the student would carry a full academic program but receive financial assistance from the federal government for landscaping work and other jobs performed for the school district.

A SECOND PROGRAM would allow the student to carry a modified academic program and leave school early to work in private industry.

A third program would established self-contained classes on a shortened academic schedule and with a supervised work program for students who have quit chool and desire to return.

The proposal envisions establishing counseling, job development, and job referral services. In general, the programs would offer specialized help to the students who quit school for financial reasons. The programs would employ four additional staff members.

Erickson said the propoals are based on previous District 214 experience which shows that are usually ready to leave again dropouts who re-enter school in two weeks.

HE SAID these students come back to high school because industries reject them unless they have a diploma.

According to Erickson, they need basic mathematics, science, and social studies courses, but find it difficult to adjust in classes where most of the students are four or five years younger. Many need to work to remain in school, he said.

Erickon said in some cases principals have had to write off book fees for these students and in other instances townships have used public aid funds to meet their school expenses.

He added that the district has tried to provide specialized help to these students, but cannot do an adequate job without more money and additional staff.

THE BOARD voted 5-2 to submit the tentative proposals to the Office of Economic Opportunity with the understanding that it was not committed. William Griffith and Richard Bachhuber opposed the action.

Bachhuber agreed such a program is needed but suggested that the district could conduct it without federal help.

Eastwood Events

Two weeks ago Pam Meyer had the thrill of travelling by train with her aunt, Sandy Hoepfner, to Peoria to stay nearly two weeks with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hoepfner. On her 10th birthday she returned home to 307 N. Hickory with her other aunt, uncle and cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Mathieson and Marnie, to a happy family birthday celebration June 25.

Two days later Pam again celebrated her birthday, but this time with neighborhood friends, Debbie Hauser, Lynn Schultz, Mary Kay Walters, Mary Jo Jochims and Kathy Hitzeman, as well as with her sisters, Sheryl, Kristin and Rebecca. They first viewed an American Legion baseball game, enjoyed a supper and then tried to slumber during a slumber party.

Next week it will be Kristi's turn to travel to the Hoepfner home in Peoria for a 10-day stay.

DON AND Marietta Derebey, 416 N. Hickory, started camping last summer and so enjoyed themselves that they planned a longer trip this year. Their trailer-tent followed them all the way to Yellowstone Park, where they, Andy and Ginger enjoyed seeing Mt. Rushmore and Old Faithful. Then they drove to the Grand Teton. Now they are home enjoying the memory of the vacation.

The John Rajala home, 703 N. Hickory, seems more normal to mother, Winnifred, now that both daughters, Joan and Sharon, are home for the summer months. John drove to Macomb to bring daughters and all their luggage home recently. He couldn't help but be proud to learn that Sharon will be resident assistant for her dormitory next year. To qualify for this job, she had to maintain a high scholastic average this past year.

Both Joan and Sharon attend Western Illinois University with Joan having completed her sophomore year as an education major and Sharon having finished her freshman year as a medical technological student.

The sisters are busy with summer jobs. Joan works at Randhurst and Sharon works at a store in Park Ridge.

ON JUNE 30, Eleanor Cullison returned home to 511 N. Hickory, after spending a pleasant five-day stay at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis. As president of the Northwest Suburban Alumni Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi, Eleanor represented her chapter at the sorority's biennial international convention. As driving down south can prove extremely warm at this time of the year, Eleanor chose to travel by train.

Having completed his freshman year at Illinois Urbana, Jack Gleeson returned home in time to join his parents, John and Sue, and brother, Bob, for a summer trip. The family drove to Lake Worth, Fla., and spent a few days visiting relatives, Col. and Mrs. Robert Harris. The colonel happens to be the president of the Lake Worth Chamber of Commerce. Then the Gleesons toured all of Florida. They are now sporting lovely tans back home at 412 N. Hickory. (A Delegates representing more than 500 councils in 12 states are expected to attend the convention, whose business sessions will be held at the Sahara Inn, 3939 N. Mannheim Road.

Welcoming delegates at the opening session Friday morning will be Fred Steging, village president of Bensenville, and John G. Woods, village president of Arlington Heights and president of the Northwest Suburban Municipal Conference.

U.S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-13th, will be principal speaker at a Friday noon luncheon, and U.S. Sen. Paul H. Doulgas, D-Ill., will address a convention banquet Saturday night.

THE BENSENVILLE Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a communitywide "Mexican Fiesta" Thursday night for convention delegates and guests. Included will be Latin music and dancing, Mexican foods and refreshment, and other entertainment.

Fiesta hours are 7 to 10 p.m. in a shopping center parking lot at Addison and Main Sts. in Bensenville.

Host unit for the convention is Bensenville LULAC Council 326, headed by Ricardo M. Perez, 41 Greenlawn, Bensenville.

LULAC is a civic and fraternal organization of U.S. citizens of Mexican - American descent "dedicated to good citizenship." The 45-year-old organization has more than 10,000 members in New Mexico, Iowa, Indiana, Arizona, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, New Jersey, Wisconsin, New York, California, and Texas.

Selection of Bensenville as 1965 convention site was cited by national president William D. Bonilla, a Corpus Christi, Tex., attorney, as recognition of LULAC's rapid growth in recent years in the midwest and of the rapid strides made by the local unit since its organization in 1958. The Bensenville council's membership is drawn from throughout the northwest suburban area.

Junior College Support In Final Legislation

Final passage was expected Wednesday in the flurry of late legislation for the Illinois master plan for higher education, which will provide a state-wide junior college system.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D - Arlington Heights), planned to ask a simple House vote concurring with the Senate changes in the bill as the legislature moved to adjournment Wednesday night.

Passed by the House last week, the bill was approved with amendments by the Senate Saturday.

THE SENATE revisions concerned primarily the levels of aid to the two classes of junior colleges, which will benefit heavily from the legislation.

"These compromises were what was necessary to get this help passed for the junior colleges, and all the students and taxpayers affected," Mrs. Chapman commented.

Assistance outlined for the schools will give major financial support to districts such as the new northwest area Community College District 301 and the proposed DuPage County junior college.

The legislation calls for the state to finance 75 per cent of construction costs and about 50 per cent of operating expenses.

"WHAT THIS MEANS is that local taxes will be kept at a minimum," Mrs. Chapman pointed out. "Instead of having to go out for a referendum to provide 100 per cent of building costs, we'll get most of it from the state."

Operating funds will be determined on a per student basis, the level determined by the compromise inserted in the bill by the Senate.

Under the original proposal, the seven existing junior colleges in the state which are part of the regular school system would have continued receiving $7.60 per semester hour per student, the present rate.

The new area-wide community colleges were to receive $11.50 per semester hour per student, with the difference to be used as an incentive for upgrading for the small public school junior colleges.

THESE EXISTING schools, grouped in Class 2, fought the differential, and through several compromises wound up with the Senate's provision, which will give them, with new Class 1 district, the $11.50 rate for one year.

However, after the first year, if the Class 2 schools have not met Class 1 qualifications, they will be dropped back to $9.50 per student per credit hour.

"Not a trace of shabbiness can be found anywhere on the car," says Road & Track magazine.

The people at Road & Track get to drive some pretty exotic cars. So when they come out and say that "the Volkswagen's finish is unbelievable," we take it as quite a compliment.

Mind you, they didn't say, "At the price." Just "unbelievable." Period.

Frankly, the Volkswagen people are not surprised. After 15 years of improving and refining their one basic model, the surprise would be if it weren't as good as it is.

Volkswagen parts fit each other so well, the car is practically airtight.

If you stripped a VW to its skin, you'd find it completely painted, inside and out. (And not with one coat or two. Four.)

Volkswagen puts as much effort into the glove compartment door as the front door. They run in every engine before it's installed, they check every windshield.

Road & Track wound up by saying, "Overall, the VW is so good, it leaves us a bit short of anything to say."

Enough said.

Farewells Said To Rev. Kincheloe

Members of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights met Sunday afternoon, June 27, to bid farewell to their associate pastor, the Rev. Mr. George Kincheloe.

A brief ceremony in the sanctuary was followed by a reception in the church parlors, at which time members conveyed personal greetings and best wishes.

THE REV. MR. Kincheloe has been associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church since November, 1956. His duties have been those of evangelism, with the title of minister of visitation. Now's Time to Start Child in Music

by FRANK HERMES
Staff Writer

With time at a premium during the school year, sandlot football will beat out music every time. But summer is the time of the year when children are looking for new fields to conquer. It's the perfect time for parents to launch their offspring on the path of music.

The secret is to introduce children to music when they have plenty of time. During the school year, there are too many activities vying for a youngster's attention, and they automatically pick those they feel will be the most fun.

If there's one thing that the child lacks, it's patience, so it's important that the child has a quick sense of achievement. Extremely popular now are guitars, which with only a few lessons, most children can play accompaniment to simple tunes.

Although piano and organ have fallen in popularity, they still rank high in the musical mind of the younger set. Drums are gaining popularity.

THE RISE of guitar and drum can be attributed to the rise of rhythm in folk singing, rock-and-roll and jazz. The guitar can be used for accompaniment or for lead, and is an extremely mobile instrument. It can be taken to the beach or to parties for entertainment. Drums, on the other hand, can develop a rhythmic feeling, a sense of timing and a beat.

Both instruments tend to release inner tensions and feelings among our youth through rhythm. It is a stated fact that a happy child with a hobby or other interest is less likely to become a delinquent, than a child without an interest.

El Rey Music Center, 7 W. Eastman, Arlington Heights, specializes in guitar and accordion lessons. The majority of lessons are given in guitar. Roy Baumann Music School, 24 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, estimates that 50 per cent of its lessons are guitar, and the Art Van Damme Music Studios, 960 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, estimates between 35 and 40 per cent guitar.

ALL THREE studios offer instruction for beginners. El Rey and Van Damme offer trial courses, while Baumann music school has a special rental schedule for guitar instruments.

El Rey gives group and individual lessons. They offer an eight-week trial course with book, guitar and instruction included. Lessons can either be taken in groups of six or individually.

The Center recommends group lessons because timing is important and the hardest aspect to teach. When taking lessons individually, the student has the tendency to slow down at a hard combination of notes, whereas, in group lessons, the student is forced to keep pace with the others. The Center thinks it is better to take group lessons in this respect, but individual lessons should be taken to learn to read notes for solo or lead guitar.

Van Damme Music Studio also offers a trial course, but Van Damme indicated he preferred "individual lessons to group lessons." He feels that children advance at different rates, consequently private lessons are better. Therefore, the studio does not set a specific length of time for the trial lesson. The instrument, music and lessons are supplied by the studio.

Baumann Music School which has recently completed an $11,000 remodeling project with nine new air conditioned teaching rooms recommends renting guitars. Then, if a child becomes disinterested, the guitar can be returned. But Baumann puts the responsibility of stimulating the children's interest squarely on the shoulders of his instructors. "A child drops out of a program and loses interest because the teacher does not stimulate the child," says Baumann. "If the child doesn't like the teacher, it doesn't matter how good the youngster is."

PIANO AND organ lessons are given at all three studios. El Rey and Van Damme give trial lessons, while Baumann has a special "Will Suzy stay with it?" program. Baumann offers to sell a piano to a family, and if the student becomes disinterested within 12 months, Baumann will give your money back, less $1.75 per week for rent and moving. His is the only studio in the area to offer such a plan, but indicates that only four have been returned in three years.

Although the three studios do not believe that pushing a child into music lessons is the answer, they do think that once a child has shown an interest, not to hesitate starting a music program.

When lessons have begun, then it is the parents' and teachers' job to get the child to practice and continue his interest.

Once they start to play a musical instrument and find it easy and rewarding, they won't stop. Music is a habit once learned that's hard to abandon.

STUDYING GUITAR from Clifford Stewart at Baumann Music Studio in Arlington Heights, is 11-year-old Roy Genevich. Summer is considered an ideal time to introduce children to music.

Summer Fashion Tips To Help Keep You Crisp

Fun-to-wear colors and the easy look follow the young adult in this summer's fashion sun. Shifts, skimmers, smocks, shirts or sassies are all swinging scene-stealers.

But the color that's bright, the look that's relaxed droops too often by mid-vacation, just when it's most important for a girl to be in the spotlight.

To stay on stage all summer with the look of fashion freshness takes a bit of doing in between sunning, swimming, and a part-time job, but the extra effort pays off in extra attention.

Virginia White, fashion consultant, suggests these steps for summer fashion brightness:

SAVE THE HANG tags from new fashions for reference until you're thoroughly familiar with laundering procedures; too hot water or unnecessary bleach can ruin a fashion at its first tubbing.

—Sort clothes into groups which can be washed together, or a favorite pink smock might easily turn out gray-blue.

—Check for any stains, then pretreat them before washing. Suntan lotion, a dollop of mustard from yesterday's picnic, or even make-up can leave unwelcome marks if not properly pretreated.

—Whether washing by hand or machine, check water temperature, washing action. Particularly important for washing by hand is a thorough rinsing.

OFTEN THE finishing touch is putting the fashion look back in place with spray-on starch. Either spray and iron a portion at a time, (ideal for larger items and heavier fabrics), or spray the article completely, roll up, then unroll and iron (great for smaller articles and lightweight fabrics).

—Use a dry or steam iron, but be sure to check the iron temperature setting for the type of fabric first. Iron in long smooth strokes, moving ironed surfaces away from you to prevent wrinkling. Iron small areas first, then larger ones. Navy blues, blacks, and other dark colors should be both spray-on starched and ironed on the wrong side to avoid shine. (S

Tips for Tanning

'Bottled Tan' Isn't Natural

While most of us are getting our summer tans the natural way, millions of Americans—perhaps too busy to get out in the sun—are resorting to the increasingly popular "bottled tans," reports the Illinois State Medical Society.

What about these so-called bottled suntans? Are they really safe? What, if any problems, do they pose to the user?

Bottled suntans are quite different from natural tans for these preparations merely "tint" the epidermis (outer skin layer) without offering any protection from the sun. However, in a natural tan caused by the sun's ultraviolet rays, the natural pigment in your skin infrom sunburn.

FROM ALL indications, tantinting is harmless. But it's not so easy to get a natural looking tan with these products. Many times the skin takes on an orange-like shade, especially if the skin is oily.

Still another problem lies in application. The solutions are difficult to spread evenly since they're colorless and take from three to five hours to produce a definite shade. Even if they're applied evenly, some parts may absorb more of the tint than others, causing different shades of color.

What can you do if these products make your tan look anything but natural?

Just let nature take its course. It takes five to 15 days for the chemical to wear off. While you can partially remove or lighten the color by stripping with tape, rubbing roughly with a wash cloth, or scraping with a knife, these methods are painful and can make your appearance worse.

IF YOU intend to get that "lifeguard" look with new tantinting mixtures, take these precautions:

—Never use them as a sunburn preventive unless the label clearly states it contains a sunscreen agent.

—Be extra cautious if you're predisposed to allergic reactions. (SF

Furniture Styles, Woods, Mix Freely

Furniture styles and wood colors are mixed more freely today, but the question of what to put together is sometimes puzzling.

"Combine periods; combine wood colors," a decorating authority advised in connection with the summer Chicago Home Furnishings Market.

"Pure period is seldom seen these days," said Margaret Hutchison, director of color styling of the Martin-Senour Paint Company. Most modern rooms require at least one period piece to soften and relieve the severe lines. This piece may be a colorfully painted and glazed accent piece.

"ADD TO Colonial or E[illegible] American the newer Mediterranean styles. They blend very well, as do all Oriental designs. Old New England sea captains brought back furniture and art objects from Spain, Morocco, Turkey and the Far East. These designs became a part of the early New England culture.

"The eclectic school of today is a blending of many styles, Spanish, French, English, 17th and 18th centuries plus some of the best modern."

Mrs. Hutchison is an authority on provincial color glazing of furniture, and advocates mixing wood colors. "The matched set or suite of furniture is fast becoming a thing of the past," she said.

"Many so-called suites today will show more than one wood color. A couple of lighter wood accents in a roomful of dark wood make a pleasant relief as do colorful painted accent pieces.

"A combination of natural and painted glaze on the same piece of furniture, say a dining room table, is quite attractive. Leave the natural wood table top unpainted. Paint and glaze the table base and legs and dining chairs to match. To further the provincial feeling make tie-on cushions for the chairs."

Picture Grouping Can Serve Many Purposes

Picture groupings can serve many purposes. They can focus attention on one specific area of a room, highlight a large piece of furniture, or introduce a needed color accent.

The choice and placement of a grouping of framed pictures should relate to the available wall space, the lines of furniture beneath it, and also follow the rules of good balance.

FIRST STEP in composing a picture grouping is to mark off an area on the floor approximately the same size as the wall space where the grouping will hang.

This is where you will do your initial trial and error work before punching holes in the walls.

For a large grouping begin with one important or key picture and build your rrangement around it. The key picture may be in the middle, top, or bottom of the grouping.

Arrange and rearrange your secondary pictures around the key picture until you get a pleasing over-all effect, suggests the Institute.

Don't spread the pictures too far apart. A narrower space between pictures will tend to give the grouping a cohesive feeling rather than a flyaway effect.

IF POSSIBLE, try to keep the bottom line of the grouping even. Aim for balance so that the eye will flow smoothly from one picture to another. If your vision is continually drawn to to one side of the grouping, rearrange the pictures for better balance.

After you have finalized your floor grouping, cut out a piece of paper large enough to hold the complete grouping. Lay the paper on the floor and draw the outlines of the pictures as arranged on the paper.

Mark the spot where the nail or hook will go. Tape the paper to the wall space, drive the hooks, then remove the paper and hang the pictures.

For a three-D effect, mix and match your framed pictures to create an interesting wall grouping. Use prints, oils, watercolors and drawings. A piece of sculpture or pottery will add a three-dimensional look to the wall grouping.

Canned Foods Add Zip To Holiday Camp-Out

Over the Fourth of July weekend, hundreds of area families take to the fresh outdoors for leisurely camping, boating, hiking or just a simple day's excursion to a nearby beach.

A picnic meal for a day's outing is relatively easy, but packing food for several days becomes somewhat more involved.

A few minutes spent in advance planning and wise shopping can save you much time and trouble later.

MAKE A LIST of the foods and utensils you will need for each meal. You may or may not need a portable grill or camp stove, depending upon what will be available at your camp sites.

Try to keep all equipment at a minimum.

It's best if everything is unbreakable, and make sure containers for such things as salt and pepper have tight lids.

EVEN IF YOU have a toteable cooler, foods that require refrigeration should be kept at a minimum. This is where canned foods, such as meats, vegetables and beverages, come in quite handy.

Now several of the canned meats—chili, corned beef hash, Vienna sausage and several others—are even more convenient for camping because the lids have zip top opening. eliminating the need for a can opener.

QUITE A variety of tasty picnic dishes may be created from canned meats, too. Here are a few suggestions.

Bermuda Burgers: Cut the contents of a can of corned beef hash into 4 slices. Brown hash rounds with 4 slices of Bermuda onion in butter or margarine, or heat in aluminum foil on grill. Serve with mustard on warm buns. Or serve with cheese slices.

Chili Hot Dogs: Grill 8 frankfurters. Combine 1 can chili, 1 can tomato paste and 1 teaspoon mustard. Heat and spoon over franks tucked in buns.

Quick Chili Mac: In heavy saucepan, mix 1 can chili and ½ can water; bring to boil. Add 1 cup uncooked elbow macarone, cover and cook over medium heat 15 minutes or until macaroni is tender.

Easy Kabobs: Place canned Vienna sausages or cubes of canned luncheon meat on metal skewers, along with tomato wedges, onion wedges, pickle slices or squares of green pepper.

Brush with bottled barbecue sauce and grill.

Armour products suggested.

A July 4th Special

Fresh Melon Pond For Elegant Fare

FOR A TOUCH of elegance on July 4, team watermelon balls and cantaloupe "flowers" in a generous melon boat. Your guests will be more than pleased by this summer cooler.

Watermelon — that's what's good about the good old summertime! These big green fruits are the very symbol of summer fun, of watermilon parties on the terrace, of frolicsome evenings on a moonlit beach, of happy feasting in the great outdoors.

The growing and shipping of watermelons is big business these days, with successful operations depending on the production of tempting fruits. Late May through August sees the peak of the watermelon season.

Sometimes whole melons are stacked and bargain-priced. As often as not, they are halved or quartered and then any melon-eater can pick the reddest, crispest fraction on display.

THERE ARE SOME signs of excellence in watermelon: In general, the larger the melon, the more heart or seed-free flesh. Ripe melons of good quality are firm, symmetrical, fresh and attractive in appearance. Color may vary from a deep solid green to a grayish-green, depending on variety.

There will be a "bloom" over the rind to give it a velvety look and the underside, which rested on "Mother Earth," will have a creamy paleness. Avoid as underripe those watermelons which have a white or pale green underside. Overripe melons have a generally dull appearance and feel soft or springy when pressed.

Watermelons are best when well chilled. If you feel like lily-gilding over the holiday try "Flower Pond" from the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

FRESH MELON FLOWER POND

1 watermelon, 16 inches long
4 quarts watermelon balls
3 cantaloupes
Minted Syrup
4 to 8 sprigs fresh mint

Cut melon in half lengthwise. Cut out the pink fruit with a 1-inch melon ball cutter or ½ teaspoon measuring spoon, remove seeds as balls are cut. Scoop out pulp left in the shell and drain well.

Peel one cantaloupe and cut through crosswise in a zig-zag pattern to form petal-like halves. Remove seeds. Cut remaining cantaloupes in half, remove seeds. Make balls using a 1-inch melon ball cutter.

Place cantaloupe petal half at each end of melon boat, fill with watermelon balls. Fill center and ends of boat with melon balls. Pour Minted Syrup over all. Chill. Garnish with mint sprigs and serve.

Minted Syrup:

½ cup sugar
¾ cup water
2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint
1/16 teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan. Bring to a boil and cook 2 minutes. Cover and steep 10 minutes. Cool and chill.

Yield: Approximately 24 servings.

Oh, there's a million uses for ReaLemon lemon juices!

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

APPLE SNAP

Combine 1 quart apple juice and ¾ cup REALEMON. Add ¼ cup sugar and stir until dissolved. Fill 5 or 6 glasses about ⅔ full with apple lemonade; then add enough crushed ice to fill the glasses. Serves 5 to 6.

ALSO USE REALEMON AND WATER AS A MORNING WAKER-UPPER.

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Platter Lickin' Is OK At This Patio Party

By DOLORES HAUGH

Jack Sprat could eat no fat, his wife could eat no lean, so 'twixt them both they licked the platter clean. You, too, can lick the platter (with apologies to Emily Post) if you give a Platter Patio Party.

INVITATIONS

The invitation may be bright construction paper, colored to match your own china platters. Hinge with scotch tape under each item and place on the platter a red chop, green vegetable, baked potato and a roll, all cut from construction paper.

Under each one write the date, time, place and instructions for the guests to bring their own platter. If you want to use this idea for a group, tell them what kind of a dish if it is to be a pitch-in, or the "fee" if the food is provided.

If you plan to have this on your patio a map is not necessary, but often it is fun to trek to a nearby forest preserve. Just be sure if you plan to use the facilities, such as the shelter, that you obtain a permit first. If you are planning this type of party away from home, you will undoubtedly want to make a "dry run" so that you can plan the time and place more accurately.

DECORATIONS

For the at-home party, which we will assume as it is by far the easiest, plan a pretty table even if it is outdoors. Tall candles of various shades and shapes may perk up the color, and coordinate the accessories such as the tablecloth, napkins, etc.

With the fourth of July upon us you may wish to use red, white and blue. Use bright colored terry fingertip towels for napkins and later, if you serve chicken or any finger-lickin' menu, provide a huge "dunk and swab bowl," letting the guests dip one end of the towel in the bowl for after dinner, before dessert cleanups.

For a centerpiece float garden leaves and flowers in a platter.

MENU

Here again you will want to choose something that can be easily toted outside or cooked outside entotal. Uusally the average outdoor fire facilities are such that you will be able to do only the main meat course, or if you wish to do all the cooking outside, select fast cooking items and allow ample time for them to completely cook. You may also have a few friends roll their grills over.

Have at least one unusual dish, but the usual meats are most acceptable.

ENTERTAINMENT

To wind up the evening, dance outside, or if you have asked the Jack Sprats to dress up, which you may wish to do and have them come as other famous large platter-type eaters such as Paul Bunyon, Henry VIII, etc., award prizes and let each tell about their costume, customs, etc.

Award gay paper platters or lap trays, paper accessories, matches, etc., but remind the winners they have been tagged for the next picnic on a platter.

Make a list, send the invites, plan the menu and check the charcoal for a Platter Patio Party. It's a winner of a dinner.

New Soap

Bathtime Is Now Funtime

Is your child so active in the bathtub that he drenches the floor and you, too? Does he try to drink the bath water, or chew (S the washcloth.

If your answer to these questions is a harried "yes," don't worry. You have an active, normal, happy child, who is showing just the right amount of curiosity.

According to Dr. Frances R. Horwich, child psychologist and TV's "Miss Frances," bathtime should be relaxing fun-time for children and for mother, too. It should be a time when children are allowed to indulge in water play which might be too messy or inconvenient elsewhere.

She explains that making bathtime a pleasant experience starts at a young age, perhaps at six months when the child is put in the big tub for the first time.

"GIVE THE CHILD a soap of his own — preferably in a toy shape which he can enjoy," says Dr. Horwich. "Float it for him in the big tub a few times before you put him in. Soon he will be familiar with the tub, will want to join his soap as it floats, and will forget any fears he might have had."

One new product recently introduced is Soaprize, the new children's floating fun soap from Armour Grocery Products Co. It comes in three fun shapes: Willie Whale, Alvin Alligator, and Sylvester Submarine. As an added keep clean incentive, Soaprize contains a toy and a riddle which are enclosed in a plastic capsule that is buried in the center of each bar. The child can obtain this secret prize only when the soap is completely gone.

According to Dr. Horwich, as the child becomes older, he should be encouraged to wash himself. Give him his own washcloth. He will try to wash his arms and legs first.

OF COURSE, you will need to assist him, but scrubbing is usually unnecessary. Harsh scrubbing can be very irritating to a child's skin.

"Some mothers," she said, "have the problem of getting their children to leave the tub. This should not arise, if bathtime is a part of a regular family routine.

"The child should learn to leave his bath so that his sister or brother can use the tub, and also so that he can move on to the next activity, such as dinner or bedtime."

With a soap of his own, and fun encouragement on mother's part, bathtime should be one of the best times during the day for a child. (S

Hairpieces Offer Quick Transition

If you've a passion for fashion and an itch to switch hair styles temporarily, one quick and easy way to achieve both is with a wig or wiglet. For example, if you feel best in a short hairdo for every day why not wear a wig on those more formal occasions when you'd like to be elaborately coiffed? Or, if you have lots of your own hair but long to look the gamin once in a while, a short wig appropriately styled can help you make the transition in a trice.

Wiglets are wonderful, too for a swift change from the ordinary to the "special" hairdo. Curls, chignons, poufs, braids, French twists or an imaginative innovation of your own can be blended with your own hair in moments to create a totally different "you."

ESPECIALLY stunning effects can be had with combinations of wig and wiglet when it's an extravagant hairdo you want and, for an off-beat look, the last word is a hairpiece anchored to hair of a contrasting color.

Whatever your choice, you'll find your coiffure cares cut to a minimum, your fashion horizons widened and an active life made more fun and less complicated when you own a wig, wiglet or both.

When you're ready to buy a wig, Fashion Tress suggests you shop carefully and wisely, relying on an experienced wig stylist for guidance. Custom, handwefted wigs will last longer and look most like your own hair and, if fitted properly (they are measured to five areas of the head) will stay put no matter how active you may be.

IF WORN regularly a wig should be cleaned about once a month and resetting will be required about every sixth or eighth wearing. Restyling is, of course, a matter of individual preference.

Mr. Robert of Paris, Fashion Tress authority, will be at Wieboldt's Randhurst Store Friday and Saturday, July 2 and 3, to advise customers. Mr. Robert was a hair stylist in Europe before he turned his creative genius to wig styling. (S

Juniors Host Area Seniors On June 21st

Eighty members of the Mount Prospect Senior Citizens were entertained by Mount Prospect Junior Woman's Club Monday evening, June 2, in the Chestnut Room of Mount Prospect Country Club. Mrs. William Barnes and Mrs. P. J. Muender, out-going chairmen of the Senior Citizens Department, introduced to the group, Mrs. Robert Petersen who is this year's chairman.

Each person present had brought a potluck dish, and after the long line had moved along the serving table and all the plates were filled, entertainment during the meal began. "The Malibus," a combo of Prospect High School students, Bill Barnes, Roger Willis and Paul Schroeder with guitars and George Andoniadis on the drums entertained the group with a "Change-of-pace" teenage music.

FOLLOWING dinner, as a parting gift, Mrs. Jean Smith presented the program to the group with which she has worked for six years. She brought Ralph Vyletta whose hobby is magic.

This was the final meeting of the senior citizens group for this year. Socials will begin again in September. (S

Many Potential Diabetics Unaware of Their Ailment

While diabetes can be easily controlled, it continues to rank as the eighth leading cause of death in Illinois, advises the Illinois State Medical Society.

Why? Because only about half of the state's estimated 192,000 diabetics are aware of their affliction and are doing something about it. Since the other half — some 87,000 — are unaware of their problem, their condition grows progressively worse, leading to serious complications.

Among these complications are heart disease, hardening of the arteries, kidney disorders and loss of vision. The latter is so common, in fact, that diabetes is recognized as the third leading cause of blindness in the United States.

HOW DOES DIABETES start? It develops when the pancreas can no longer produce enough insulin to convert certain foods — such as sugars and starches — into energy. As a result, these "wasted" sugars accumulate in the blood and are passed through the kidneys into the urine.

Among its most common symptoms are: excessive thirst, frequent urination, extreme hunger, loss of weight, changes in vision, slow healing of cuts and bruises, intense itching, pain in fingers and toes, drowsiness and fatigue.

While anyone may become diabetic, the condition if found primarily in people with a family history of diabetes in their family, those over forty, the over-weight and women.

People with a family history of diabetes. Heredity plays a big role in this disease. In fact, diabetes is five times more common among offsprings of diabetics than others.

Those over forty. Because the likelihood of becoming a diabetic increases with age, diabetes is mostly a disease of the middle aged and elderly.

The overweight. More than 80 per cent of all diabetics are overweight before their condition develops, and most are overweight at the time their condition is discovered.

Women. Two out of every three diabetics are women over 25 years of age. Married women are especially susceptible. Why? No one knows for sure, but it is suspected that strain on the glandular system — due to pregnancy and menopause — affects the body's use of starches and sugars.

Although diabetes cannot be cured, it can be controlled under a doctor's supervision. In fact, one out of every three diabetic conditions can be curbed by diet alone. These are usually in the over forty age group. When the condition sets in earlier, it is more likely to be severe. Thus insulin or specific oral compounds may be needed to correct the deficiency.

With today's methods of treatment, the diabetic can feel well and live a normal well-adjusted life. Without treatment, however, he lives in constant danger.

Are you one of Illinois' 87,000 unknown diabetics?

Only a blood test tells for sure. (S

Jeffrey J. Nolan, the groom's brother, was his best man, while three friends, Tom Sherman of Knoxville, Tenn., Richard Muench of Wilmette and Walter R. Wells of Mount Prospect, seated the guests.

"I REMEMBER" BY The Old Timers

From Robert C. Weppner, Louisville, Ky.: I remember the good old days — old-fashioned ladies sun bonnets, widow caps, bustles, straight-fronted corsets and for men, gaiter shoes. I remember horse drawn sleighs in winter and horse drawn hacks and hearses for funerals. These were drawn by matched white or black horses and the drivers wore a sort of Prince Albert coat and a silk (or stove pipe) hat. They had walking or trotting funerals, and the walking funerals were the most expensive.

I remember that after the first heavy freeze in the fall, slaughter house whistles blew at 5 a.m., calling pork wagons to come after a load of odds and ends of pork — heads, feet, back bones, etc.,—a big load for $5. Deckman's Saloon on Market Street had a large beer for a nickel and all the lunch you could eat. Potato pancakes on Friday was a specialty. Workers from nearby plants brought their own forks and would stab through three or four pancakes at a time. You could have been stabbed in the hand if you reached for one bare-handed.

I remember that men had individual shaving mugs at their barber shops, many with their names printed on them, and most shops had a case to keep the mugs in.

Lantern Safety

Lanps and Japanese lanterns lighten summer's night, but don't let this lumination explode into a fire.

LePage's offers this precaution. Apply plastic electrical tape around all wire, with a special reinforcement on those places joining plugs.

Don't wait for a rain storm to show you that your wiring is frayed. That will be too late.

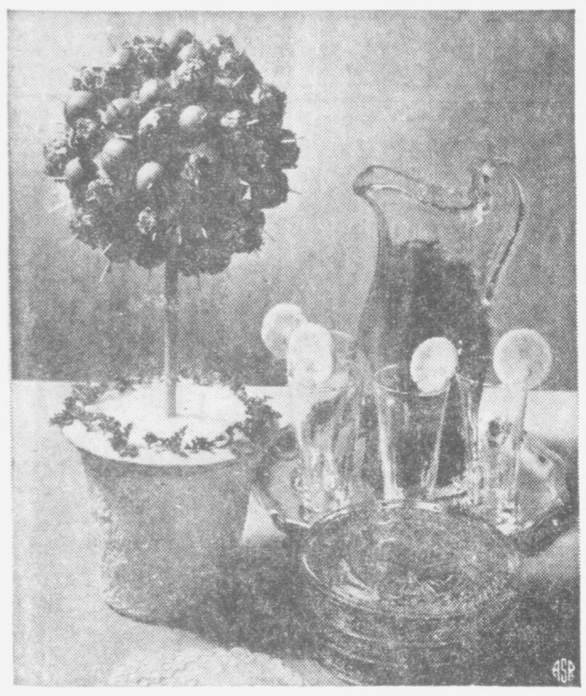
Tuna Tidbit Tree A Tasty Tempter



A TEMPTING Tuna Tidbit Tree will launch your July 4 patio party with a bang! (SF

Tuna tidbits "bloom" on this delightfully edible topiary tree, a perfect snack for the patio buffet planned for July 4.

Popular tuna blends cream cheese and nippy spices for the miniature tuna balls, attached to the tree with picks. Cherry tomatoes add a perky color note.

The tuna tidbits make an ideal first course or hors d' oeuvre, depending on your party requirements. Allowance for extra tidbits is made in the recipe below so the tree will always be in "bloom."

TUNA TOPIARY TREE

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil, well drained
2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese
1 teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 cup finely chopped parsley
Small pickled onions
1 pint cherry tomatoes

In large bowl of electric mixer, combine tuna, cream cheese, dry mustard, and Tabasco. Beat until smooth and well blended. Form into small balls about ¾ inch in diameter; roll in chopped parsley. Chill thoroughly.

On picks, thread first the small onions, then the tuna balls. Place the cherry tomatoes on additional picks and alternate on the tree with the tuna-onion picks.

Arrange any remaining tuna-onion picks and tomatoes on bed of parsley around base of tree.

DIRECTIONS FOR TREE

15-inch dowel
Papier-mache or earthenware pot 5½ to 6 inches in diameter and 5½ inches deep
Plaster of Paris
Medium grapefruit

Anchor dowel in pot with plaster of Paris so dowel extends to bottom of pot. Make small hole in stem end of grapefruit and press grapefruit over end of dowel; there should be about 7 inches of dowel between the grapefruit and the top of pot.

Dill Perks Up Potato Salad

Wilderness dining on the Fourth of July features potato salad in new dress this year.

With the accent on flavor, this recipe combines a well-seasoned corn oil and vinegar dressing, an envelope of golden onion soup and a fillip of dill.

Use fresh dill weed if your garden affords it, or use dry dill from the spice shelf. Both serve equally.

Potatoes, kept warm in the recipe, absorb the flavors, and crisp, Western iceberg lettuce supplies the added greens.

DILL POTATO SALAD

¾ cup water
1 envelope golden onion soup
3 pounds potatoes (about 9 medium or 12 small)
¼ cup corn oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
1 teaspoon dill, fresh or dry
¾ teaspoon celery seed
½ teaspoon salt (about)
¼ teaspoon pepper
Western iceberg lettuce

Pour water over soup mix in bowl. Let stand while preparing other ingredients. Cook potatoes in boiling water until tender.

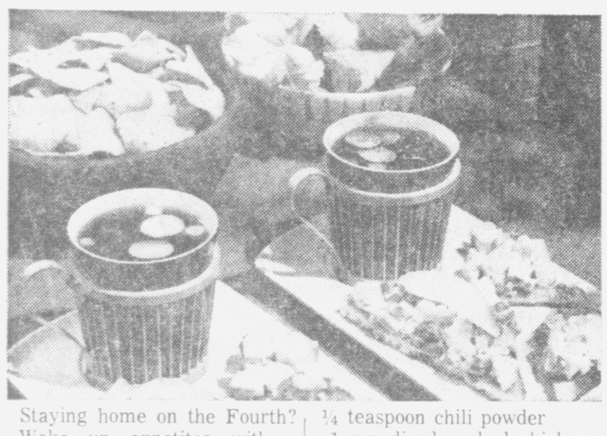
Combine corn oil, vinegar, corn syrup, tarragon, dill, celery seed, salt, pepper and soup mixture. Pare and slice potatoes into large bowl while still warm. Shake dressing well to blend, then pour over warm potatoes. Toss lightly.

Chill at least 3 hours, overnight if possible. Serve on lettuce. Makes 10 servings. Knorr Soup and Mazola Oil used in Recipe.

WIGGLE PLATFORM

A wiggle platform gives small travelers plenty of crawl space. It's easily built by stacking suitcases on the floor up to the level of the back seat and covering both seat and suitcases with a quilt or small mattress. Except for luggage that doubles as the platform foundation, the inside of the car should be kept clear. Sharp-cornered suitcases can cause injury if the car stops suddenly. (S

Chicken Salad Sandwich, Soup



Staying home on the Fourth? Wake up appetites with a tempting soup and sandwich meal. This popular combination keeps the homemaker out of the kitchen and offers family and friends a taste and eye appealing meal.

To add even more zing to the menu, be sure to accompany a hot soup with a cold sandwich and vice versa. Canned condensed soups (those great four minute meal-makers) assume their duties with ease. A colorful variation of hot consomme is one in which shredded romaine, thinly sliced green onion, and sliced radishes all add color and flavor.

The sandwich is a delectable version of the chicken salad variety. Chili powder, chopped cashews, and avocado are the secrets.

SUMMER BEEF CUP

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed consomme
1 soup can water
¼ cup shredded romaine
2 tablespoons thinly sliced green onion
2 tablespoons sliced radishes

In saucepan, combine all ingredients. Heat. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

MEXICAN CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICH

1 medium avocado, peeled
1/3 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons ketchup
½ teaspoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon chili powder
1 cup diced cooked chicken
¼ cup chopped cashews
3 slices buttered toast
Paprika

Cut off 3 thin slices of avocado; chop remainder. Combine mayonnaise, ketchup, lemon juice, and chili powder; add chicken, chopped avocado, and cashews. Spread on toast.

Garnish with avocado slices dipped in additional lemon juice; sprinkle with paprika. Makes three open-face sandwiches. (SH

Bacon for Crowd

Having a crowd for a weekend breakfast over the 4th?

It's easy to cook a large quantity of bacon by placing it on a rack in an open roasting pan, either in a 400 degree oven or on an outdoor grill.

Cook about 10 minutes or until brown, draining fat when necessary. It need not be turned.

Cooler

A refreshing beverage for a hot summer day is lemony fruit cooler.

It's quickly prepared by dissolving 1 tablespoon corn syrup or confectioners'sugar in 2 tablespoons bottled limon juice.

Add 2/3 cup canned or frozen fruit drink and top with a scoop of sherbet. (SF

TRAVEL NECESSITY

Plastic bags are a travel necessity, according to the American Oil company's Women's Representative. "Use the smaller ones," she says, "to carry wet swimwear or a washing not quite dry. Full-length bags, like the kind that comes from the dry cleaner, are good emergency seat protectors. They're valuable in packing, too. Clothes put in plastic bags before they go into garment bags or suitcases will come out fresh and wrinkle-free." (S

Chicken Shines

When it's picnic time, chicken outshines all other meats in providing wholesome, carefree feasting in the outdoors.

And chicken will shine, literally, if glaze during the last 5 minutes of grilling, suggests the National Broiler Council.

To glaze, brush on equal parts molasses and prepared mustard; equal parts orange juice and tomato sauce; or lemon juice with tarragon, dill or chives. (SF

Hein-Bartman Wedding Unites Wheeling Pair

(Jenart

A full day of festivities were planned for the May 29 wedding of Rosemary Hein and John F. Bartman, a Wheeling couple who exchanged vows in St. Mary Church, Buffalo Grove. Their noon wedding was followed by a breakfast for the families and the bridal party at Seven Countries in Wheeling, and an evening reception was held at the Union Hotel. Three hundred guests greeted the couple at the buffet dinner.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hein of 272 Maureen Drive, and the groom's parents, the senior Theodore L. Bartmans, reside at 2066 S. Milwaukee Ave.

A DAISY MOTIF was carried out in the bouquets carried by the bride and her attendants, the bride's of white daisies and the attendants of yellow daisies in a love ball arrangement.

Their dresses were nile green shantastic, floor-length with a scoop neckline and empire bodice edged with a band and bow at the back waistline.

The groom's sister, Carole Bartman, was maid of honor, and there were three bridesmaids, Juanita Hein of Arlington Heights and Patricia Hein of Wheeling, both sisters-in-law of the bride, and Sharon Gehrke of Buffalo Grove.

Best man was Theodore L. Bartman Jr. who came from Ft Leonard Wood, Mo., for his brother's wedding. Ushers were James Clark and Richard Theobald of Wheeling and Lawrence Griffin of Chicago.

THE BRIDE WORE a floor-length, silk organza and peau dress as she entered the sanctuary on the arm of her father. Alencon lace edged the scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves, and the lace frosted the bell skirt which fell from an empire waistline into a chapel train. Her triple veil of French silk illusion cascaded from an open pillbox of lace and seed pearls. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift from the groom.

A light blue silk shantung dress with chiffon jacket and blue accessories were worn by the bride's mother for the day's events. Mrs. Bartman chose an avocado green silk hantung dress with matching accessories, and both mothers had corsages of white glamellias.

AFTER A 12-day honeymoon at Yellowstone National Park, the newlyweds are back in Wheeling living at 170 E. Dundee Road.

The bride, an Arlington High School graduate, works at Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank and the groom works on the family farm. He is a graduate of Notre Dame High School.

Junior Women Pump Gas for Band Fund

Wheeling Junior Woman's Club took over the gas pumps Saturday to help Wheeling High School Band go to the aquatennial in Minneapolis in July. Red Schultz and Rich Harris, owners of the Enco station on Milwaukee Avenue, allowed club members to work the pumps for six hours and donated the profits from each gallon of gas sold during that time.

The women appeared in dark slacks with "hubby's" white shirts to brighten up the scene at the station. Mrs. William Farr, dressed in an old-fashioned costume, "tidied up" during the day, in keeping with the Juniors' village beautification theme.

WHEELING High School Band will march in the parade at the aquatennial celebration and will also exchange flags of the states with the governor of Minnesota in special ceremonies. The band was designated by Governor Kerner as the official Illinois representative at the celebration.

Monday night Mrs. J. Benjamin, art chairman of the Juniors, changed the contents of the permanent art exhibit at Wheeling Library. The club sponsors this exhibit as part of its village beautification program and to spotlight the many talents they have located in Wheeling.

THE NEW exhibit includes a piece of sculpture by William Farr and a painting by Marcy Brower, both of Wheeling. Also being shown is a painting by Melody Peterson, a recent graduate of Jack London Junior High School, whose work won honorable mention in the recent art contest sponsored by Seventh District, Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs. Don't Let Poison Ivy Ruin Your Summer Fun

Poison ivy annually cuts short many otherwise pleasant summer vacations or "lays up" farmers when the work load is at its peak.

Fortunately, with modern weed killers, farmers as well as city dwellers can control this nuisance. Here are some tips on control of poison ivy from University of Illinois week control specialist Ellery Knake.

Identification. Be positive about recognition. Poison ivy can vary greatly in growth habit and in leaf appearance. It can spread along the ground, grow as a vine on fences, walls and trees and even grow as a shrub.

The giveaway is the leaves. Three leaflets make up each leaf. They are usually shiny, but they may also be a dull green. The leaflet edges may be smooth, toothed or lobed. All of these variations may appear on the same plant.

The poison. The skin irritant in the poison is the sap of the roots, stems, leaves and berries. Some people are apparently more immune to it than others. "But don't push your luck," says the agronomist. "People who consider themselves immune may become susceptible after sufficient exposure."

This poison is potent and can cause severe inflammation. It's easily transferred from one object to another. It can get on clothes, garden tools and even pets and then rub off on people. Even smoke from burning poison ivy plants carries the poison.

Amitrole or brush killer, when handled properly, effectively controls poison ivy. But don't let these materials contact desirable plants. To avoid drift to desirable plants, spray on a quiet day when there is no wind. In all cases, read and follow instructions on the container labels, advises Knake.

Amitrole kills poison ivy most effectively. It appears under such trade names as Amino Triazole, Weedazol and Poison Ivy Killer. Aerosol cans contraining amitrole are a convenient way to treat small patches.

FOR TREATING WITH a small hand sprayer, mix three level tablespoons of the commercial preparation containing 50 percent amitrole with one gallon of water. In large areas, mix one pound of the 50 percent amitrole with one gallon of water.

Apply amitrole from the time the plants make their early spring growth and the leaves reach full size until they begin to change color in the fall. Thoroughly wet the entire plant with the spray, but do not let it contact desirable plants. If there's a chance of damaging desirable plants by spraying, use a long-handled brush to apply amitrole to ivy leaves.

BRUSH KILLER contains 2, 4-D and 2, 4, 5-T. The chemical will also kill other undersirable woody plants growing with poison ivy, as well as desirable broad-leaved plants in the area. Be careful of drifting vapor. Most grasses tolerate 2, 4-D and 2,4,5-T better than amitrole.

Apply brush killer when the plants reach the full-leaf stage in the late spring or early summer. If regrowth occurs, repeat the treatment. Don't use a sprayer for brush killer and then for spraying ornamentals or sensitive crops.

FOR BRUSH KILLER containing 4 pounds of acid equivalent per gallon, use 2 tablespoons in 1 gallon of water, 6 tablespoons in 3 gallons of water, 1½ pints in 25 gallons of water or 3 quarts in 100 gallons of water.

For more information on poison ivy identification and control, ask the local county farm adviser for Circular 850, "Controlling Poison Ivy." (S

Joseph Dritleins Married 50 Years

Celebrating their golden anniversary on June 5, the actual date of their wedding 50 years ago, were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dritlein of 2519 E. Oakton, Elk Grove Village. The party was a buffet dinner served to 60 guests in the Park Ridge home of their son, Warren Dritlein, and his family.

Also present to fete the couple were another son and family, the Leroy Dritleins of Chicago, and a daughter and family, the John Pierces of Elmhurst. Seven of the couple's nine grandchildren attended the festivities.

A SPECIAL thrill was seeing their only great-grandchild Michael Dritlein, who came from Novato, Calif., with his mother, Mrs. Dennis Dritlein. Other relatives at the party were Mrs. Emma Huck of Lake Villa, Mrs. Dritlein's sister, and the John Dritleins of McHenry, Mr. Dritlein's brother and wife.

Mt. Prospect Pair Memorizes Vows for June 12th Ceremony

A touch of the unusual was added to the traditional wedding ceremony of a Mount Prospect couple, Miss Linda Kay McClellan and Lt. j.g. Craig Alexander Wilson, when they spoke their marriage vows without prompting from the minister. Memorizing the vows was the idea of the groom, son of the A. Gordon Wilsons, 109 S. Albert St. The bride is the daughter of the Charles McClellans of 517 S. Edward.

Both young people are graduates of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio, the groom of the class of '62 and the bride of the class of'65. Their June 12 marriage followed by six days the bride's graduation.

The double ring service took place at 2 o'clock in Trinity Methodist Church with Rev. Claude Dotson officiating. Pink mums and white glads decorated the altar.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore a white peau floor-lenght gown, fashioned with fitted bodice and elbow-length sleeves trimmed with alencon lace. The square chapel train fell from the shoulders and was also edged with the lace. Her headpiece, a crown of alencon lace and seed pearls, with an elbow-length veil were designed and made by the groom's mother, who also made the headpieces of the bridesmaids.

As a touch of "something old" the bride wore in her shoe a sixpence which she had brought back from a European trip last summer. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift from her bridegroom, and she carried a circle bouquet of white roses with a streamer of the roses.

THE BRIDE'S three attendants were gowned alike in aqua floor-length dresses, with bodices of cotton lace in a daisy pattern and sheath skirts of chiffon. The empire waistlines were edged with aqua satin which formed a flat bow and streamers at the back. Headpieces were flat bows of the aqua satin with short weils.

The girls carried shaded pink daisies to match the lace design of their dresses.

DIANE STRADTMAN of St. Louis, a college roommate of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pat Fogarty of Bath, Ohio, a Delta Delta Delta sorority sister of the bride, and her sister, Gail McClellan.

The groom, who serves in the U. S. Naval Reserve, wore his dress white uniform for the ceremony and was attended by his brother, Byron, as best man. Ushers were Donald Knoepfle of Mount Ptospect, a Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity brother of the groom, and the bride's brother, Tom.

Witnessing the nuptials, the bride's mother wore a pale blue peau dress with matching accessories and a pink glamellia corsage. The groom's mother chose a leaf green dress with matching shoes, a white flowered hat and white orchid corsage.

The couple greeted 150 guests later at Old Orchard Country Club and then left for Florida and a 5-day cruise to the Bahamas. They will live near Key West Naval Base while the groom completes military service.

Bride Fashions Flower Girl Gown for Her Little Sister

During her busy schedule of pre-bridal showers and preparation, Miss Karen Hinze, daughter of the Raymond Hinzes, 620 E. Golf Road, Mount Prospect, took time out to make a dress. It was not her wedding dress or even a going-away ensemble, but a miniature bridesmaid dress for her little sister, 3½-year-old Peggy. Peggy was flower girl at the May 23 wedding of her sister and James Gutzmer, son of the William Gutzmers of Kansasville, Wis.

Immanuel Lutheran Church in Des Plaines was the scene of the 4 p.m. double ring rites during which Mr. Hinze gave his daughter in marriage. Officiating, amid a setting of glads, chrysanthemums and pompons, all in white, was Pastor Allen H. Fedder.

FOR HER MARRIAGE, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza over taffeta fashioned with short capped sleeves and bodice of Belgium lace re-embroidered with seed pearls. The front of the skirt featured two vertical rows of lace and pearls and the chapel train was re-embroidered with the same lace and pearls. A crown of Belgium lace and pearls held her double tiered elbow veil, and she carried a cascade of white glamellias, stephanotis and lily of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Susan Smith of Aurora, Colo. was gowned in deep pink while the bridesmaids, Miss Kathy Davis of Grayslake, niece of the groom, and Miss Toni Fritz, of Melrose Park, cousin of the bride, were in lighter pink. Their floor-length gowns of organza over taffeta were fashioned with bell skirts and narrow trains attached to a back bow. A bow also trimmed the waist in front and bead trim outlined the scooped necklines.

They wore matching bow headpieces and carried crescents of pink rhubrum lilies and Pink Elegance carnations with a touch of white flowers.

Peggy was also in a floor-length pink gown and carried a nosegay of Pink Elegance carnations. The groom's nephew, 4-year-old Rodney Turner of Palatine, was ring bearer for the service.

GARY SHAMBO OF Rolling Meadows was the groom's best man and ushers were the bride's twin brother, Howard Hinze of Mount Prospect, and the groom's nephew, Edward Hinz of Addison.

Following the service, a reception for 325 guests was held in Bensenville Fireman's Hall where Mrs. Hinze received in a blue lace sheath dress with matching accessories and a corsage of blue bachelor buttons and blue phalaenopsis. Mrs. Gutzmer chose a beige and brown suit with corsage of green cymbidium.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Milwaukee for the weekend and are now at home at 108 E. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect. The new Mrs. Gutzmer was graduated from Forest View High School in 1964. Her bridegroom was graduated from Prospect High School in 1961, and after completing three years of active duty with the Navy last September, has been employed with Public Service in Arlington Heights. Parking Lot Designers

By BETTY AINSLIE

Wonder who does the designing of super market parking lots? Probably the same one who plans our grocery store shelves so that we're bound to always end up with the bread on the bottom of our baskets under the canned goods.

You jockey the car into an aisle marked "in" and meet someone coming the wrong way. Or you follow the sign saying "enter" and meet a person esiting at the same spot.

Betty Ainslie

The spaces paced off in yellow paint are usually — almost wide enough for an ordinary car; but that is only if everyone parks smartly in the right lines and doesn't hog a foot or two of bordering space.

HAVEN'T you been cheered by seeing a slot in which to slip in the car fairly close to the store, but once you get there the one parked car has front wheels into your space — so actually is grabbing enough room for two cars to park and one of them could have been yours.

There is something about parking lots that brings out the "me first" attitude in the patrons. Not only are there those who occupy two spaces but some who pull too far ahead thus shortening up the facing parking spot.

There's the hot rod driver who enters on two wheels and takes off from the exit with a wild screech of rubber on pavement and a wild singing of the dual exhausts.

MOST PARKING lots will have "no parking" signs on the choice spots along the streets right in front of the stores. Of course these spots will be filled with all manner of cars, but just let me put my auto in there for a few minutes and the cop will be there issuing me a ticket.

There is generally a super market someplace along the edge of the huge parking lots and a marked section where we can pick up our bags of groceries. Ever notice though that usually these pick up stations are on a curve of the road or at the busiest section of the lot so you're bound to be an annoyance to those coming in or going out? And aren't you always parked on the wrong side of the lot in order to take advantage of the groceries-in-the-car service.

Naturally, I'm not much interested in carting and lifting my own groceries, but seems like a pick up spot could be made at a side entrance away from that busy front door.

And speaking of shopping, what about the carts? They litter and block parking spaces, roll into your path as you drive and cause trouble in any lot.

DID YOU ever try to get into a parking spot edged with a cart or two? Careless shoppers often let their own carts roll into a neighboring car putting assorted scratches on the finish.

Speaking of scratches and bangs of unknown origin you can get all sorts of bumps in the parking lots we use every day. That new, deep gouge in the car side was probably acquired by a careless parking neighbor letting the door bang into yours.

There are always a few people who leave a dog in an almost closed car in the boiling sun of the parking lot. Or there's the unconcerned mother who tells several youngsters to stay put in the car while she disappears into the store. The children, if they remain in the car, hang out the door windows patting the roof top and giving that person who drives in next to them heart failure that one will fall in her path as she edges into the parking spot.

THERE'S the fellow who parks at a different slant than the rest of the line so he throws off any parkers that follow him —or that person who backs into his slot making it harder for the others who park next to him.

True, we couldn't manage without our big shopping center parking lots, but possibly if we're more courteous ourselves, watch the parking lines— return carts — and carefully back out treating the other cars in the lot as we would our own we ourselves can help make our parking centers better places in which to leave our cars. Picnic Salutes United Nations on Anniversary

A local salute to the United Nations on its 20th anniversary preceded the San Francisco festivities at which world leaders, including U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson, commemorated signing of the U.N. charter.

Members of the local League of Women Voters shared a birthday cake in honor of the U.N. during a picnic at Echo Lake Ranch near Lake Zurich.

Hosts for the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Caruso of Prospect Heights, who operate the Ranch day camp. Mrs. Caruso, a former vice president of the Arlington Heights LWV, will be in charge of the League's new civil liberties study during 1965-66.

Mrs. Frank Moore of Arlington Heights, local LWV president, says League of Women Voters support for the principle of international cooperation for peace dates from the LWV's beginnings in 1920. League members, agreeing nationwide on that principle, urged U.S. membership in the League of the Court of International Justice. The LWV worked for ratification of the Kellogg-Briand Pact and the Lend Lease act, the latter because it would enable the U.S. as a non-belligerant to discriminate against aggression and aid the victims.

IN 1945 THE League supported U.S. ratification of the U.N. charter and has worked vigorously since then to strengthen the United Nations through increased use, adequate budgets, improved procedures and more effective provisions for keeping the peace.

"We here in the northwest suburbs," said Mrs. Moore, "are proud to be able to salute the United Nations, imperfect as it is, on its 20th anniversary. And we pledge support of U.S. efforts to strengthen the United Nations during the next 20 years."

Mrs. Moore pointed out that national LWV support of the United Nations stems from the grassroots level, from annual every-member discussion and reaffirmation of the need for international cooperation through the U.N.

Mrs. Hal Cress of Arlington Heights is in charge of local League support project on the United Nation this year. Her committee includes Mrs. Paul Richardson, Mrs. Norman Soderstrom and Mrs. Robert E. Jacks, also of Arlington Heights. (S

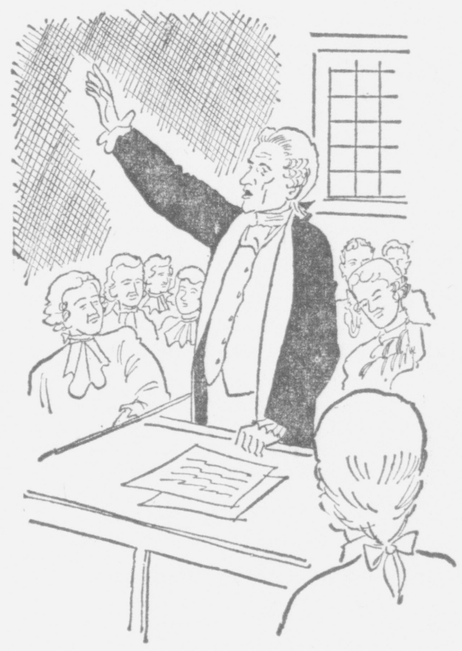
God and Country

"Indeed, I tremble for my country when I reflect that God is just."
—Thomas Jefferson



Thomas Jefferson, like many other great men who helped establish a nation devoted to freedom in all its concepts, expected great things for the new country. Yet, he was not unaware of the weakness of human nature. He knew that the real strength of any nation must lie in the moral fiber of its inhabitants.

Today the United States is the richest nation in the world, a world leader, a world power, looked upon with some measure of awe, if not respect, by men of diverse tongues.

Let us reflect upon these words of Jefferson and ask ourselves if our national moral standards have kept pace with our military might and progress. Let us remember that God is just. God isn't concerned with what we have—only with what we are.

Mount Emblem

"Illinois' Most Beautiful Cemetery"

Site of the OLD DUTCH MILL Built in 1850

The DuPage County Historical Society presented an AWARD OF HONOR to Mount Emblem in 1956 for preserving the Old Dutch Mill as an educational and historic exhibit.

Visitors to the Old Dutch Mill are always welcome.

Mount Emblem is distinctively different.

Here is the expression of an ideal-Nature's eternal loveliness transformed into a memorial of Living Beauty. Natural beauty-unmarred by artificiality or perishable structures. This is the keynote of our landscape policy. Objects of nature are real, their appeal is universal, continuous through time.

When you visit you will be aware of the meticulous maintenance. You will find that our prices are moderate. It costs no more to own the best.

No-Bake Cheese Cake a Specialty for Summer

PINK CHEESE CAKE

13 graham crackers, crushed fine
¾ stick butter or margarine, melted
1 can chilled Milnot
1 package raspberry or strawberry jello
1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup hot water

Mix cracker crumbs with melted butter and press into bottom of a tube pan. Place in the freezer to harden.

Whip Milnot very thick. Dissolve jello in the hot water. When Milnot has whipped, add sugar and the hot jello. Then add cream cheese and vanilla and whip all together.

Remove pan from freezer; pour filling into pan. Chill in the refrigerator for four hours. Serves 8. (Lemon or lime jello may be substituted, if desired.)

CHINESE PEPPER STEAK

½ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 onion, chopped
1 green pepper, cut in strips
1 teaspoon cornstarch
¼ cup water
2 tomatoes, quartered

Marinate the round steak in the salad oil, soy sauce and garlic for one hour. Then place meat and liquid into a frying pan and brown meat well. Add the onion and green pepper, cover and cook over low heat about 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Dissolve cornstarch in water; stir into gravy in pan to thicken it. Then add the tomatoes. Cover again and cook over low heat from 30 to 40 minutes, until meat and vegetables are done. Serve with rice or noodles. Serves 6.

POLISH CABBAGE

1 medium head of cabbage, cut up fine

1½ teaspoons salt
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
½ cup sugar
¾ cup vinegar

Have a kettle of water boiling. Place the cut-up cabbage in the boiling water and immediately remove from heat.

While the cabbage is soaking, fry the bacon. When bacon is crisp, add the onions, celery and green pepper.

Drain cabbage and mix with the bacon and vegetables. Stir in the salt and tomatoes.

Mix together the sugar, vinegar and water; pour over cabbage. Let cook slowly for one hour. Serves 12.

Mrs. J. Adamick's Favorite Dessert

By LOIS SEILER

Pink and pretty as a picture is the delectable cheese cake that is Mrs. John E. Adamick's favorite dessert.

This is strictly a refrigerator cheese cake; there is no baking involved, which should make it especially popular with homemakers during the summer months. And it is so easy to prepare!

Made in a tube pan, the cake has a graham craker crust which is placed in the freezer to harden, rather than in the oven to bake.

The filling simply consists of whipped Milnot, either raspberry or strawberry jello, a little sugar, cream cheese and vanilla. Chilled for four hours, this high and light cheese cake is an appealing dessert for bridge or dinner parties.

Another of Mrs. Adamick's specialties is a savory Chinese Pepper Steak.

Made with strips of round steak which are marinated in salad oil, soy sauce and garlic, the meat is browned and then cooked with onion, green pepper and tomatoes. Mrs. Adamick suggests serving the tender and flavorful steak with rice or noodles and a tossed salad.

A recipe which was handed down to Melba Adamick from her huband's family is another of her favorites.

"Once you've prepared cabbage with this Polish recipe, you'll never make it any other way," said Mrs. Adamick, speaking from experience.

SOAKED FIRST in boiling water, the cabbage is combined with crisply-fried bacon, onion, celery, green pepper and tomatoes. Cooked in a sweet-sour mixture of sugar, vinegar and water, the cabbage is simmered for one hour.

Full of flavor and zest, this delicious cabbage makes an excellent accompaniment for ham, pork or beef.

Mr. and Mrs. Adamick moved from Chicago five years ago to their home at 1536 N. Ridge in Arlington Heights. They have a married daughter Mrs. Raymond Salazar of Schiller Park, and two grandchildren.

JOHN E. ADAMICK points with pride to his wife's elegant pink cheese cake which is high and light-textured with an attractive pink color. Mrs. Adamick especially likes to make this dessert during the summer months as there is no baking involved. (SH

Early American Foods Piqued with Molasses

Whether you're a hostess at home on July 4 or planning to bring a dish to a neighborhood potluck, here are two typically American dishes — baked beans and gingerbread pudding.

The sweetly mellow, aromatic flavoring of old-fashioned molasses has made these two recipes classics since Colonial days.

Baked beans can be made the modern way by using canned beans and seasoning them with unsulphured molasses, mustard and vinegar. The dessert is a variation of a pudding long known on the eastern seacoast—Plantation Pudding.

MOLASSES HAS BEEN a sweetener and flavoring agent in American foods since early sailing vessels brought it from the West Indies to the colonies.

George Washington frequently placed orders for molasses to be used as a sweetener in much of the cooking at Mount Vernon. Molasses even became one of the major causes of the American Revolution when England levied heavy import restrictions on products of the West Indies.

So what a better way to celebrate any American holiday — than with dishes made with mellow molasses!

FRANK 'N BEAN BAKE

¼ cup unsulphured molasses
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
3 cans (1 pound each) baked beans in tomato sauce
1 medium onion, sliced
16 frankfurters

Combine unsulphured molasses, vinegar and prepared mustard; mix well. Turn beans into casserole or baking pan; stir in molasses mixture. Arrange onion slices and frankfurters on top of beans, or layer with beans. Simmer on top of range 15 to 20 minutes, or bake in a 375 degree F. oven 35 minutes. YIELD: 8 servings.

MOLASSES PUDDING A LA MODE

2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup sugar
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup unsulphured molasses
1 cup water
1 teaspoon baking soda
Vanilla ice cream

Sift together flour, sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt. Add butter; cut with two knives or pastry blender to resemble coarse meal. Combine unsulphured molasses, water and soda.

Alternate crumbs and liquid in a greased 8 by 8 by 2-inch square pan, beginning and ending with crumbs. Stir gently only 2 or 3 times with a fork. Bake ina350degr eeF.oven1etee Bake in a 350 degree F. oven 1 hour. When ready to serve, cut cake into squares; place a scoop of ice cream on top of each square.

If desired, top each serving with Lemon Sauce*.
YIELD: Nine servings; Grandma's Molasses suggested.

*LEMON SAUCE

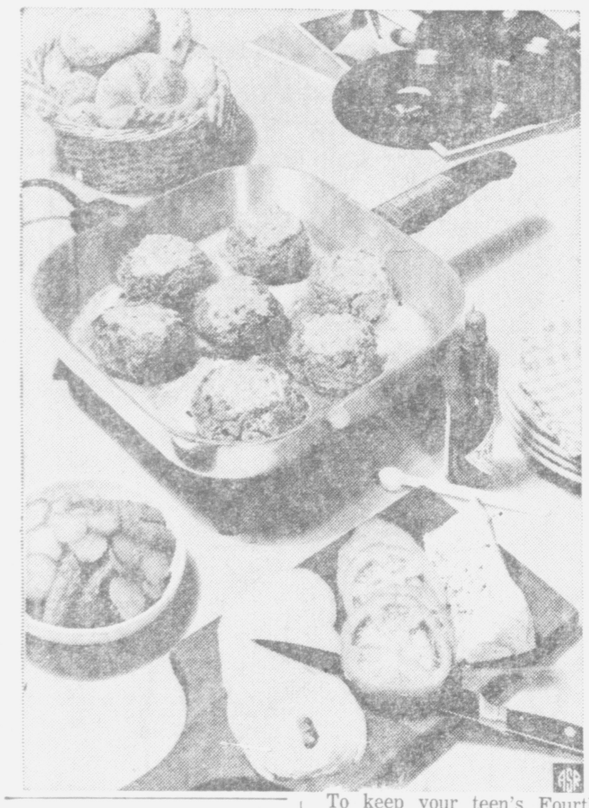
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
[illegible] water
3 tablespoons lemon juice
[illegible] grated lemon rind
[illegible] butter or margarine

Mix together cornstarch, sugar and salt in saucepan. Gradually stir in boiling water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and is thickened and clear. Remove from heat; stir in remaining ingredients. Serve warm. YIELD: 2¼ cups.

Q. May two sons, both in their twenties and married, announce the marriage of their widowed mother?

A. It would be much better for the mother and her new husband together to announce their marriage.

Rocket Burgers Launch A Teen Cookout Party



To keep your teen's Fourth of July cook-out party spinning in orbit the fuel must be solid, and that means good food and plenty of it.

For example, Rocket Burgers, tastier than ever hamburgers spicily seasoned with a liquid red pepper sauce, mustard and Roquefort cheese.

Serve them on crisp poppy seed rolls, and the crew will say your hamburgers are way out—way, way out!

ROCKET BURGERS

2 pounds ground beef
¾ teaspoon Tabasco, divided
2 teaspoons salt
2 ounces Roquefort cheese
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Combine ground beef, ½ teaspoon Tabasco and salt. Shape into 7 or 8 patties. Melt butter in electric frying pan or large skillet; all patties.

While browning, crumble Roquefort cheese with a fork and blend in remaining ¼ teaspoon Tabasco and mustard; mix to a smooth paste. When patties are brown on one side, turn over and spread browned side with cheese mixture; continue cooking until meat is of desired doneness.

Serve on poppy seed rolls with sliced onion, tomato and pickles. Yield: 7 or 8 burgers.

Barbecue Fare

Barbecuing, a favorite pastime of Americans, doesn't have to be limited to the standard "weenie" roast.

For a welcome change, try a rotisserie roast, a kabob cookout, a steak broil or spararib feast to delight family and guests this Fourth of July.

Lamb Chops Zested in Herb Gravy

Lamb chops aren't just for company! If a homemaker will learn to cook lamb shoulder chops with flair, she can use them for variety.

These are two kinds of chops from the lamb shoulder. One of these has a long slender bone (blade chops) while another has a small round bone (arm chops)

Both of these usually cost less than rib or loin chops which are more demanded.

SAGE AND thyme with tomato juice as a cooking liquid pay proper court to lamb chops. When braised as suggested in this recipe, they add versatility to dinner menus.

LAMB CHOPS, HERB GRAVY

6 lamb shoulder chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
¼ teaspoon thyme
1/8 teaspoon sage
½ cup tomato juice
Flour for gravy if desired.

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge chops in seasoned flour. Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add thyme, sage and tomato juice.

Air Cooling Terms Defined

Definitions of 10 words and phrases for those who own or wish to own an air conditioner were recently released by General Electric Co.

All the words or phrases, said GE, are used now or have been used to describe various parts or functions of air conditioning system. The terms apply to conditioners used in over eight million homes throughout the country.

The words or phrases and their definitions, as provided by GE, are:

Ton — An old-fashioned rating of an air conditioner's capacity. One ton originally meant that the refrigeration created by an air conditioner in twenty-four hours equalled a ton of melting ice. This ratio is not valid for air conditioners.

British Thermal Unit — A way of measuring the amount of heat in a substance. One BTU is the amount of heat needed to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree. It has become the standard rating of cooling capacity throughout the room air conditioning industry.

Evaporator — These are cooling coils through which cold Freon passes removing heat from the indoor air.

Spine Fin Coils — Thousands of tiny spines, spun around the cooling coil, allowing more air to be in contact with the cold metallic surface creating colder and drier air.

Condenser —A system of coils used to transfer room heat outdoors. After the cold Freon picks up heat from the room, it passes through condenser coils where it loses its heat to the relatively cooler air outdoors. Once this heat is lost the Freon condenses back to a liquid.

Compressor — A pump which moves Freon through the evaporator, compresses it and sends it into the condenser.

Filter Blower — An aluminum wheel with one thousand tiny blades. A filter is fitted to its inside perimeter and spins with it. The filter doubles as sound absorber while the blades take smaller "bites" of air and tend to prevent any standing sound wave build-up.

Split System — A method of air conditioning the whole house in which the condenser is located outdoors and the cooling coils indoors.

Horsepower — The rating of the compressor motor which is sometimes mistakenly used to rate the capacity of the air conditioner; it has no relationship to capacity.

Now's Time For Heating Unit Check

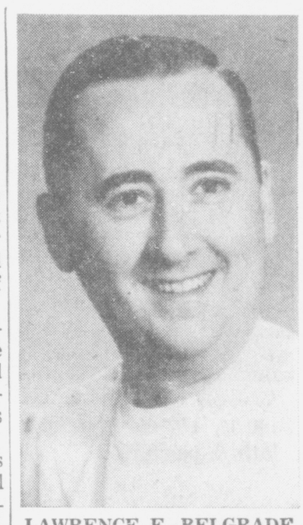
Were you a spy when you came in from the cold last winter? Did you examine your heating system with the skill and ruthless determination of a heat detective?

Maybe you should have — especially if you're among those Chicagoans who suffered through drafts, noise, and exceptionally high fuel bills this past winter.

Now that warm weather has set in, it's time to make all necessary repairs on your heating system, suggests the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council. Do it before winter comes again and especially before the last-minute rush for service begins this fall.

IT IS A good practice to clean and check your heating system before the start of each winter season. Even if you are fortunate enough to have a modern hydronic (hot water or steam) system, it's to your advantage to have your boiler thoroughly cleaned.

Your heating contractor can, at the same time, also adjust all controls and replace any worn parts. This will ensure even greater efficiency and smaller fuel bills for you next winter. In this way, you can rest assured that the "heart of your house" is in perfect condition to "pump" heat for another 3,000 winter hours.



LAWRENCE E. BELGRADE, registered pharmacist and assistant manager of the Walgreen Drug Store at Mount Prospect Plaza, has been honored as Walgreens' "most courteous employee of the month." Belgrade, who received a gold cup as his award, was cited for courtesy in the Walgreens 21-store north suburban district. He joined Walgreens in 1962 after graduating from the University of Illinois with a Bachelor of Science degree in pharmacy. (10BB

At Meeting On Illinois Beauty

The committee, sponsored by private business and endorsed by the state government, strives to promote conservation in Illinois and step up the tempo of anti-litter campaigns. Membership is open to all state businesses. (10BB

Landscaping Nearly Done at Plum Grove

Landscaping and planting of trees and shrubbery for the first group of homes in Plum Grove Village is now nearing completion, according to a recent progress report by the builders of the newly-opened community.

Entranec to the Village is on Kirchoff Road, about a half-mile west of Rt. 53.

Builder Albert Riley said, "There are a number of unusual features about the landscaping and over-all planning of Plum Grove Village. Every tree, plant, and shrub is carefully plotted, and is placed to help achieve a balanced, attractive over-all effect. But we avoid uniformity by using a great variety of plant species."

THERE ARE MANY contour variations among the homes' front yard and terrace areas. Very few are flat. Most terraces are sloped, or utilize small mounds for variety in landscaping. The trees and shrubs are placed so as to further accent these variations.

There are no sidewalks anywhere in the Village, which is completely residential. This permits terraces and parkways of unbroken greenery and flowering plants.

Approximately $120,000 is being spent for landscaping in the Village. This includes special purchases of seasonal shrubs and plants, so that the area is provided with foliage the year 'round.

Now well-advanced in construction is a large lagoon with surrounding park, near the center of the Village. Plans also call for a specially-designed fountain in the lagoon, which will be lighted at night.

ALL STREETS, courtways, grounds, parkways, lawns and terraces, trees, shrubs and plants, all exterior features and facilities in Plum Grove Village, are maintained by professional caretakers. Cost of this year 'round, all-season service is covered by a small monthly fee paid by each owner.

Additional services provided through the association include home exterior repairs, painting, tuckpointing and roof maintenance; care of all exterior lights, entrances, driveways, streets, street lights, etc; removal of snow and leaves, and ice control; maintenance of sewer, water and electrical lines to individual homes; and liability, fire and casualty insurance on common land. ONE HOME in Plum Grove Village displays the variey of landscaping, trees and shrubbery common in the newly opened community. Many terraces utilize an irregular mound as shown above. There are no public sidewalks in the development which provides an unbroken expanse of lawn area. Approximately $120,000 is being spent for landscaping in the village. Plum Grove, located on Kirchoff Road, is open to visitors daily from 10 a.m. (15BB

Tells Treatment For Poison Ivy

Ways to treat poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac infections were described recently in a statement issued by Richard DeLano, Assistant Cook County Farm Adviser.

Poison ivy and its close kin, poison oak are three leafed climbing plants said DeLano. On occasion however, poison ivy may look like a low growing shrub. Both can be found almost anywhere. Poison sumac is a small shrub with small white berries.

The only way to completely eliminate infection from these plants is to avoid them DeLano cautioned. If you are exposed to poison ivy or the other two, a few simple steps should be taken.

START BY washing the exposed area thoroughly with warm water and soap. Apply a lotion or ointment to the area or see your doctor who may prescribe some of the new cortisone-like drugs which can stop any pain or discomfort before it starts.

Remember, warned DeLano, clothing worn during exposure should be washed or dry-cleaned before being worn again. The infection can also be contracted from dogs and cats or through the air if poison ivy is burned.

A free leaflet containing further information and pictures of all three poisonous plants can be obtained at the Farm Advisors office, 201 N. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. (15bb

Pick Theme of Flower-Garden Show for 1966

"America the Beautiful" has been selected as the theme around which Chicago's World Flower and Garden Show, 1966, will be developed.

That announcement was made recently by Frank Dubinsky, managing director of the show, before a meeting of the Chicago Flower and Garden Show Corporation.

The theme was chosen to add emphasis to the "Beautify America" program of President Johnson. A letter from the White House has commended the Chicago Flower Show for its theme.

The 1966 show will be in McCormick Place from March 19 to 27. (15BB

30 New Homes in Fairview

Thirty additional homesites have been opened to public purchase in Fairview Gardens, located on Wolf Road, two blocks north of Central in the Mount Prospect area.

The new group of sites are of varied sizes and include corner and oversized lots.

According to builder Bob Bluett, the present average frontage of 75 feet will be maintained, with a number of lots shaped to increase that figure. A minimum of 20 feet between homes will also be maintained.

BLUETT ALSO SAID all Fairview Gardens homes offer many special features of improved construction. Individual attention is given each foundation's roof and wall section.

Newest model now on display in Fairview Gardens is the "Challenger," a tri-level structure with three bedrooms and two-and-a-half baths. Another popular design, said Bluett, is the "Ultimate" which features four bedrooms, and family room with fireplace.

Fairview Gardens homes are open for visitors inspection every day from 10 a.m. to sunset. (15BB

Tax Cut Brings Ford Price Cut

Ford Motor Co. announced last week that prices on its passenger cars had been reduced to reflect the cut in federal excise taxes.

Already in effect are cost reductions ranging from $42.67 on the standard Falcon two-door sedan to $139.85 on the Lincoln Continental convertible.

IN ADDITION TO those price changes, Ford will make rebates totaling approximately $16 million to persons who accepted delivery on a Ford passenger car after May 14 but before the effective date of the law.

Shortly after that effective date Ford will begin mailing a federal excise tax refund claim form to each eligible buyer. The average rebate is expected to be about $67.50.

Customers who placed their order before the effective date of the tax cut, but who take delivery after that date will receive from their dealers any benefits of the reduced taxes. (15BB

Area Real Estate Trends Match National Patterns

Trends in the residential real estate market of the northwest suburbs closely resemble the national pattern, announced Ralph H. Martin, rpesident of the Northwest Board of Realtors, last Wednesday.

Martin explained he had recently received results of a nationwide survey conducted by the department of research of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to which it was possible to compare local market conditions.

"While it is well known that real estate markets vary from city to city, and even within sub-areas of a city, there are often generalizations and comparable trends," said Martin.

"Thus we find," continued Martin, "that the northwest suburbs, like many other communities of the nation, have a strong demand for single family homes a demand that is greater than was predictable a year ago."

Martin stated that while interest in both existing and new homes in the northwest suburbs is strong, existing homes continue to attract more inquiries. This is also a national trend, he reported. Buyer demand for existing homes is "up substantially" in 11 per cent of the market areas.

The northwest suburbs are in the 11 per cent category.

"Prices nationwide are about the same as last year. For houses built in 1950 or later and selling in the $15,000 to $25,000 range, prices are unchanged in 49 per cent of the areas, higher in 30 per cent, and lower in 21 per cent. The northwest suburbs rank generally in the 49 per cent category."

Neglect is costly, Martin said, as reflected in the current market. Prices for the houses in poorly maintained areas are down in 66 per cent of the communities taking part in the survey, while for older dwellings in well - maintained neighborhoods values are strong. (15BB

VA Reminds Of Benefits

The Veterans Administration recently issued statements reminding veterans and their families of benefits due them for child pensions, nursing home care, and life insurance.

Unmarried minor children of deceased veterans remain eligible for pension payments even though their mother loses her eligibility by remarriage, the VA reminded. If a mother isn't eligible bedause her income exceeds the limit for pensioners, payments are still continued to her children.

A NEW program, started June 1, provides for nursing care for Illinois veterans at the West Side Hospital and in non-VA facilities, announced Dr. John Dee, Director of VA's West Side Hospital. To be eligible, a veteran must be a patient in a VA hospital which determines that he no longer needs hospital treatment but does require general medical, nursing, or supportive health care.

Insurance, said John B. Naser, VA administrative manager for Illinois, can be obtained by veterans for as little as $.75 per week, if less than $10,000 of original GI insurance is left in effect. Under this plan the cost of a $2,000 policy could be as little as $3.06 a month.

Further information an all plans can be obtained at the VA regional office, 2030 W. Taylor St., Chicago. (WUS

Detweiler Article In Medical Journal

Dr. John A. Detweiler, president of the medical staff at Northwest Community Hospital, is the author of an article published in the June 21 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Entitled "Thyroiditis," the article deals with the incidence of thyroiditis in patients seen in the author's private practice (internal medicine) as compared with patients in two area hospitals.

HE FOUND that "thyroiditis is not symptomatic enough to induce the individual to seek professional attention."

With his research he concluded that "thyroiditis in private practice patients was found to be more common than realized and would appear to be more frequently encountered in office patients than in hospital patients." (B-10

"Our objective is to train every able-bodied relief recipient who could not otherwise find a job. We have found the direction—the only direction—in public assistance. Punishing the poor will not solve the problem of poverty. Jobs will."

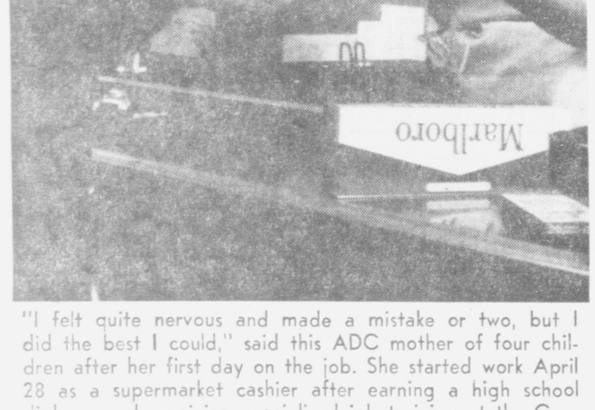
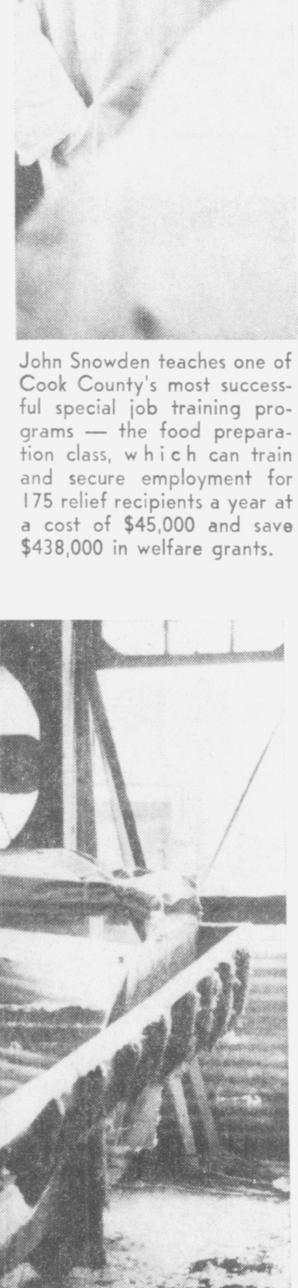
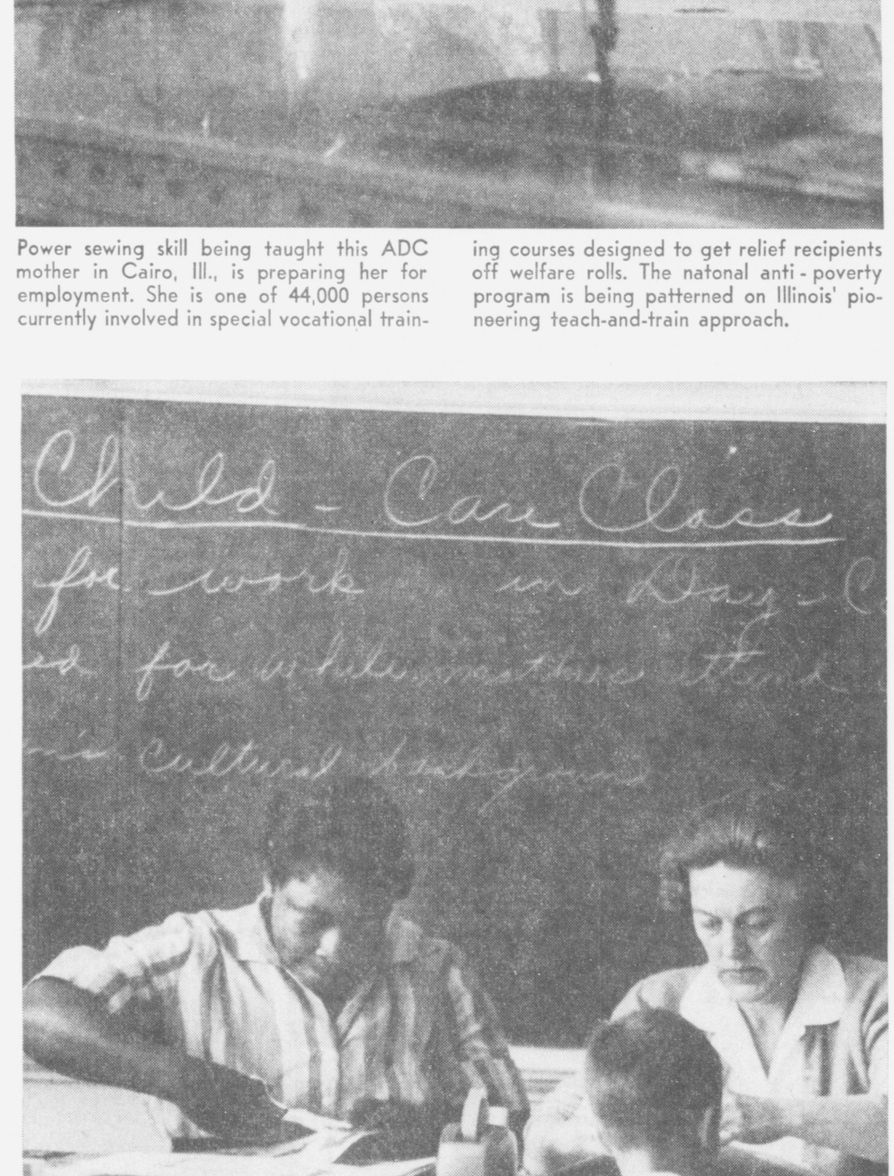
Out of work and on relief since 1962, this 38-year-old father is grateful for the chance to complete his schooling and acquire a job skill at the Continuation Center for Adult Education in Eldorado. "I feel if I could keep with this and learn the printing trade, I could go out, along with my education and get a job and use what I've learned. If you're not going to use it, there's no use people wasting their money to give it to you!"



"I felt quite nervous and made a mistake or two, but I did the best I could," said this ADC mother of four children after her first day on the job. She started work April 28 as a supermarket cashier after earning a high school diploma and receiving specialized job training at the Continuation Center in Eldorado.



John Snowden teaches one of Cook County's most successful special job training programs — the food preparation class, which can train and secure employment for 175 relief recipients a year at a cost of $45,000 and save $438,000 in welfare grants.



Power sewing skill being taught this ADC mother in Cairo, Ill., is preparing her for employment. She is one of 44,000 persons currently involved in special vocational training courses designed to get relief recipients off welfare rolls. The natonal anti-poverty program is being patterned on Illinois' pioneering teach-and-train approach.

From ADC relief rolls in April to company payroll in May, these two women workers at a Cairo fiberglass boat firm are products of the adult education and job training program for welfare recipients in Alexander County. Declares their employer, Arnold O'Hare, president of Crownline, Inc.: "We're glad the school is here; it's going to be a big help to our business and to the growth of Cairo."

The child care center is a key factor in freeing adult aid recipients, particularly ADC mothers, for employment or education and training programs. In addition to upgrading the cultural background of deprived children, the program provides training for women recipients, such as these two ADC mothers, for eventual work in other nursery or day care facilities.

"Three years ago, I was supporting my wife and 12 kids with a relief check," recalls George W. French, one of 18 men enrolled in the first cab driver training class to be sponsored by Cook County Dept. of Public Aid and Yellow Cab Co. "Today I'm making a fairly good living and saving a little besides." Of 1,400 cab drivers trained since November 1962, 78% have remained off relief rolls.

Bent over work benches inside the sprawling, one-story building are 13 men, Macon County relief recipients learning the skills of electrical motor service and appliance repair at the Decatur Job Training Center.

"This is an investment in tomorrow," explains Jerry Still, director. "We are taking men and turning them into wage earners and taxpayers."

A weather-worn complex of buildings on the Cairo riverfront contains a high-ceiling room in which nine women — mothers on relief — busily operate power sewing machines.

Declares Mrs. Jo Elma Carter, their instructor in the Cairo Adult Education and Vocational School: "I feel like walking on air whenever I'm able to help someone get a job."

In Eldorado, a 38-year-old father scrubs his brushes at the close of a class in painting and wallpaper hanging. He is one of 150 welfare recipients enrolled in special training at the Continuation Center for Adult Education.

"I figure this program is to learn you something so you can get a job," he explains. "My instructor has learned me a lot. I feel if I could keep with this and learn the trade, I could go out and get a job and use what I've learned."

In the basement kitchen of a church on Chicago's Southside, a 35-year-old ex-janitor slides a tray of bread dough into the oven. Father of five children, he's on relief — but not for long. Soon he'll graduate from the food preparation training class and be hired as a kitchen worker for one of the Chicago area's 15,000 food service operations.

He tells how he feels about the class: "It builds you up and makes you feel like you can do something for yourself and your family."

A few years ago, these Illinois citizens were trapped behind closed doors of illiteracy, dependency, poverty. Haunted by a specter of worthlessness, these were men and women without education, without jobs, without any place to go.

Photographer Larry H. Cameron and I recently traveled 3,800 miles throughout the state to determine what Illinois was doing in 1965 to solve the problems of poverty we first reported in 1960.

Where there was despair, bitterness and frustration five years ago we found new hope, enthusiasm and promise today. We found that Illinois has begun to open the door to a new life, new opportunity for its half-million poor.

Illinois is leading the nation's assault on proverty with pioneering programs in basic education, vocational training, job placement.

Every able-bodied man or woman on relief rolls today is either working or on the path to a payroll.

A massive "teach-and-train" campaign is being focused on the helpless victims of a new technology — the idle miners, marginal farmers, elevator operators, assembly line workers, cotton choppers. stockroom clerks, berry pickers, displaced service personnel, the uneducated and the unskilled.

Illinois is developing vocational training and rehabilitation courses involving more than 44,000 recipients.

"While on relief, the recipient is now required to upgrade himself, acquiring the training which will restore him to a productive and respectful place in the community — and ultimately, trim welfare costs," explains Harold O. Swank, director of Illinois Department of Public Aid.

"Teach-and-train" involves providing literacy training and basic schooling for the illiterate or undereducated; classes in specific vocational skills; and guaranteed job placement.

"Training programs are futile unless jobs are available," stresses Swank. "We are very careful to make certain we don't train anyone unless there is a job waiting for him at the end."

The scope and variety of job training programs are adapted to the changing demands of the job market and existing labor needs of each community. Currently under way in 54 counties are classes ranging from welding and concrete finishing to office training, upholstery, painting, and drapery making.

Integral parts of the vocational training effort are work relief projects for able-bodied recipients and child-care centers for youngsters of parents enrolled in education or training classes.

During peak months, Illinois assigns nearly 9,000 persons to 600 public works projects throughout the state. These tasks enable the recipient to earn part of his relief grant, develop job experience, and refresh work habits and attitudes grown rusty from disuse.

Still in the developmental stage are day centers for preschool children of recipient-students. Facilities already launched in Eldorado, Cairo, East St. Louis, and Chicago provide youngsters with meals, supervised rest, and special activities designed to upgrade their cultural background and prepare them for school. The centers are staffed by recipient mothers who receive training to qualify for eventual employment in nurseries and child care facilities.

The vocational training programs throughout Illinois follow the pace and pattern established some years ago by Cook County, whose Industrial Training Center at 1327 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, is the largest of its kind in the nation.

On-the-job training in 20 different vocations is provided by 100 instructors.

Last year a total of 47,935 men and women were involved in programs which included work relief, job conditioning and training, medical examinations, psychological and social evaluations, counseling and placement.

Of 1,900 recipients trained during 1964, jobs were found for 1,500. Their employment means a savings to Cook County taxpayers of $500,000 a year in welfare costs; most important, it means that many persons have attained the satisfaction of being self-supporting.

One such person is George W. French, 45, of Chicago, an ex-relief recipient who graduated to a company payroll as a result of a special training class initiated in 1962 by Yellow Cab Co. and the public aid department.

The Yellow Cab driver training class is the oldest and best known of the special programs operated by the county in conjunction with private industry; other classes now offered include training for food service workers, wood finishers, building custodians, nurses aides, and service station attendants.

The program's success is shown in the record of 1,600 persons graduated between November 1962 and February 1965: 76.5 per cent have remained off relief altogether, and another 7.2 per cent receive only small, supplemental aid.

George French speaks for hundreds of former recipients when he declares: "Being on welfare is like something you can't express; it's not being able to hold your head up, not being independent, knowing you can't support your family. I'm thankful I had this chance. Now I'm making a fairly good living and saving a little besides."

(NEXT WEEK: A frank appraisal and a report card for Illinois' education and training programs.)

The Way We See It

Lindsay Campaign Crucial for GOP

Elections in the biggest American cities are usually nationwide news. Such is the case in New York City this year.

A few months ago Mayor Robert F. Wagner looked like a shoo-in for another term. It appeared doubtful the Republicans would offer serious resistance. The only names mentioned as possible Republican candidates were virtually unknown.

Now all that is changed. Mayor Wagner has revealed his decision not to run again. And the Republican candidate is one of the party's best vote-getters, U.S. Rep. John V. Lindsay.

Rep. Lindsay is the Manhattan Congressman who won re-election by a huge margin last fall in the face of the Johnson landslide.

Lindsay's campaign is important to metropolitan areas other than New York because it represents a determined effort by Republicans to challenge Democrats in the city.

The disturbing tendency in recent years — in New York, Cook County, and other metropolitan centers — has been for the Republicans to virtually concede defeat in the cities.

Sometimes this has been accomplished by failing to run strong candidates.

In other cases, it has been the result of espousing platforms that not only failed to attract votes among city dwellers, but actually alienated many of them.

Sometimes, the money and manpower required for a serious effort have not been provided.

After a few defeats, the tendency has been for Republicans to retreat their artillery and ammunition to suburban strongholds, sallying back to the city only for occasional $100-a-plate dinners.

This retreat has contributed to chronic political antagonism between city and suburbs which does not have its counterpart in the economic, cultural or religious life of the metropolitan area and therefore seems to be unnecessary.

Certainly, the two-party system in Cook County has been withering on the vine. The public good has suffered as a result.

Lindsay believes Republican principles must be broad enough to appeal to the majority, even in a big city. To some of the Old Guard this makes him a heretic or a liberal and it is hard to say which is worse in their eyes.

However, the Lindsay path, which is parallel to the Chuck Percy path in Illinois, is the only one the Republican Party can follow if it hopes to keep pace in the two-party system. If it chooses leadership incapable of giving serious answers to metropolitan problems and making serious efforts to win big city elections, it will surely relinquish its role to some other party. The day of rural and small-town domination is past.

Lindsay's campaign will be followed with interest in all suburbs. His success will encourage forward-looking elements in the GOP everywhere and contribute to a more mature party leadership, responsive to the problems of the 1960's.

The Catholic Dialogue

When research was initiated by Paddock Publications on its series (concluding this week) "Contraception: The Catholic Dialogue" the aim was merely to explain the Catholic position on contraception. This would only have involved telling of the church's condemnation of contraception and the historical, philosophical and theological reasons behind this position.

But we were surprised. We found conflicting views on this subject amongst loyal Catholic thinkers and theologians. A large dialogue does exist.

It then became our aim to highlight, particularly for our Catholic readers, this Catholic dialogue and in some small way acquaint non-Catholics with the Catholic position.

If we have been successful in achieving our aim, a large measure of the success must go to the full cooperation we received from the Rev. Walter Ombiorski, head of the Catholic Cana Conference for the Chicago archdiocese. It was through him that the full scope of the Catholic dialogue was made known to us. He also cooperated in editing the series to insure against technical inaccuracies regarding the Catholic Church.

Our series in no way was meant to be a fully developed dissertation on all aspects of the Catholic dialogue. Catholics, especially those critically interested in this subject, should consult the many books and articles available on the varying viewpoints within the church. These works are readily available at St. Benet's Book Shop in Chicago. It is the main Catholic bookstore in the city.

The controversy on contraception within the Catholic Church is certainly a serious problem. The church stands as the last major bastion against contraception and as a result has incurred impatience, enmity and dissatisfaction from within and without church ranks.

The Catholic Church is attempting to work out a solution — a solution which may or may not please people. Whatever its solution, whether it reaffirms its present position or liberalizes it, we know that it will be the result of much reflective thought and study.

Well-Earned Welcome

League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) will hold its 36th annual national convention this weekend in Bensenville.

The village is sponsoring a community-wide Mexican Fiesta July 1-4 to welcome delegates from more than 500 councils in 12 states.

Selection of Bensenville as 1965 national convention site is not only evidence of LULAC's rapid expansion in the Midwest; it is also recognition of the growth and achievement recorded by the LULAC council serving the northwest suburbs.

We are particularly proud to join with Bensenville in welcoming LULAC delegates because our newspapers were instrumental in the formation of both Bensenville Council 326 in 1958 and the Junior LULAC Council in 1963. Working side-by-side with LULAC leaders on numerous organization and service projects, we have been privileged to share in the Council's "growing pains" as well as its many successes.

LULAC efforts to encourage responsible citizenship, to advance and preserve family and community life, to provide an important social outlet as well as the only organized voice of Latin Americans in the northwest area have earned the respect, admiration, and support of all suburbanites.

'Organized' Fun Favored

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

Parents in the northwest suburbs seem to strongly favor organized activities for children during the summer such as Little League and park district recreation programs.

In a random survey this week, no parent expressed a fear that youngsters may suffer from over-organization that would leave the child little time to sit and dream.

Support for organized activities, in fact, was enthusiastically endorsed by almost every person contacted.

"I'm definitely for them," said Mrs. John E. Bowen, 727 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights. "After the kids are out of school two or three weeks, they don't know what to do. This gives them someplace to go for awhile and they don't get as bored as they would otherwise."

Harmening

Mother of three, Mrs. Bowen added that her seven-year-old son, Johnny, seems to support her feelings by taking swimming lessons. "The children use the pool almost every day, and Johnny can hardly wait until he gets into Little League next year."

WALTER P. DAHL, 416 S. Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights, shared Mrs. Bowen's support for organized activities. "I'm all in favor of them as a parent," he said. "My children are through the Little League stage now, though."

Dahl went on to say he was "familiar with the over-organization argument, but I think you have to look at this in terms of the over-all good and bad."

"Having the children organized," said Mrs. Peter K. Fack, 209 N. School, Mount Prospect, "a parent knows they're being supervised in their activities. If everything is planned correctly, I think the children still have time to do other things."

Mrs. Gordon J. Popp, 4887 Wilke, Rolling Meadows, shared the others' support of organized activities, but added she thought there were some problems.

"The only thing I have against Little League is that so many kids get hurt," she said. "There's also a problem with parents getting so excited over rules that they spoil it for the children."

MRS. POPP WENT on to point out she doesn't have any children, but that she was basing her feelings on her sister's experiences. However, said she was "a firm believer in organized activities."

"I think it's good for the kids," she explained, "because they would waste too much time otherwise. It's just like a woman around the house. If she doesn't have a schedule, she gets lazy."

"If you don't organize them," she added, "they're not kept busy enough and don't learn anything. I think the children should be allowed to use their own judgment, though, on such things as whether or not somebody was out or safe on base."

"I think children need to be supervised on some of the things they do," echoed Mrs. W. C. Griffiths Jr., 277 Milton Lane, Roselle. "They learn to become better persons when an older person is watching and learn things like sportsmanship and the ability to get along with others."

Mrs. Griffiths said she thought there was little danger from over-organization "because they still have a chance to dream and think. Park supervision isn't a continuous type of thing."

"CHILDREN GET bored very easily and this keeps them occupied for a couple of hours," said Mrs. Donald J. Krause, 524 Holly Court, Streamwood.

Mrs. Krause added she thought planned activities "teach children how to organize, share things and respect their teachers and elders through adult supervision."

Streamwood has no park district, but a civic-minded group backs the Summer Recreation Program, which provides organized recreational opportunities for children in the community.

Critic's Corner

'Pure' Patriotism

By DON HEINE
Staff Writer

July Fourth is a big day in Statesville.

Our local Society of Modern Patriots is elated with this year's celebration.

The speaker of the day is the distinguished elder statesman Jeff R. Thomson.

HERE A COMMITTEE interviews Thomson to preview his address to be sure it projects pure patriotism:

Jeff, let's see your opening:

"All men are created equal. . ."

No, Jeff! Not that. All men includes everybody — which means over three billion people, good ones and bad ones, smart ones and illiterates.

HEINE

You could say "Men and women are created equal." That's a nice feminine angle. How about "Some men are equal." No good, uh?

I've got it, "All men are created equal, but some are more equal than others."

"That they are endowed by their Creator. . ."

Good, Jeff! Let the audience know whose side you are on.

"With certain unalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

Life and liberty are fine, Jeff. But cut "pursuit of happiness." It's too broad. Pretty soon agitators will start thinking they can live wherever they can afford it, vote in every election and travel around the country without getting beaten up. Then their children will want the same schooling and job opportunities as everybody else.

Why don't you say "Life, Liberty and a Reduction in Taxes"?

Jeff, this whole next page will have to go. You're talking about how it's sometimes necessary for a people to rebel against their government. Do you really believe this belongs in a Fourth of July speech?

THE COMMITTEE is aware that you once said a country should have a Revolution every 20 years. You were kidding, weren't you?

On your advice, Russia would have had a second revolution in 1937. China would be overthrowing its present rulers. Cuba would have booted out Batista years sooner, while Castro was too young to grow a beard. Santa Domingo would have refused to bear its long oppression, which created its present troubles. Spain and Portugal would be housecleaned.

Jeff, be practical. There are good dictators, and there are bad dictators. What's the difference? Why the good ones are on our side, of course?

No! Jeff! This next page. You're tearing down our Way of Life. You say that a democratic society should be based on small independent farmers. If large business organizations and manufacturers get the upper hand the nation will be ruined.

JEFF, THESE IDEAS were okay when you were a young man. But we've grown up now. You probably never heard the phrase "The business of this country is business."

In this age of bigness, what worth does an individual have except as he relates to a larger organization? Where is the junior executive without his corporation, the politician without his party, the teacher without the National Education Association, the veteran without the American Legion, the butcher without the meatcutters union?

Could White and McDivitt have gone into space without 10,000 men standing behind them?

Jeff, here's another point to be trimmed. You advise each generation to do its own thinking rather than relying on paper documents, like the constitution. Our committee likes to talk about the constitution, even if we don't know what we are talking about.

EDUCATION — NOW you are on something worthwhile. Everyone nowadays is for it. You more than any one else did help to establish a system of free public education. You did found a state university, even though the directors later did oust some of the teachers for having wild-eyed ideas too much like your own.

Oh! I see you offer a solution for the unemployed—let them cultivate the public land and pay a small rent. Is this an alternative to the War on Poverty?

"Let a man's religious convictions be a concern of his conscience and of no one else."

Jeff, this idea is out of place. Some people might be-

How to Be a Good Cook

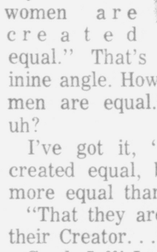
By BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

It is marvelous how becoming a grandmother makes one a good cook.

Women can be either good cooks or bad ones or something in between. But grandmothers are always good cooks.

TAKE MY acquaintance, Cynthia Snethkamp, for example. During her cooking career, Cynthia committed countless barbarisms in the kitchen. Some of her methods were taken right out of the Stone Age.

She would put a roast in the oven, wait until the house was full of smoke, then take the charred meat out and serve it with mashed rutabaga on the side.



CUMMINS

Then Cynthia's daughter gave birth to a son and Cynthia immediately began preparing luscious blueberry pies, tender roasts with rich brown gravies, tempting sauces to go with her vegetables, and even light souffles.

When her little grandson came to visit her, she would provide him with banana tapioca pudding and homemade chocolate chip cookies. And her Thanksgiving dinners became fabulous.

The little boy would happily sing the song beginning "Over the river and through the woods" on his way to grandmother's Thanksgiving dinner.

It is quite a mystery to me just why becoming a grandmother makes one a good cook. There doesn't seem to be any physical or psychological explanation for this metamorphosis.

Furthermore, it doesn't work with grandfathers at all. Take Hugh Snethkamp, Cynthia's husband.

Hugh Snethkamp was quite a loafer and beer drinker. Also, he liked to go out to the track and play the horses. Cynthia had been after him for weeks to fix the faucets.

WHAT HAPPENED to Hugh after their grandson was born? He kept on loafing and drinking beer and lost $22 at the races on Saturday afternoon when he should have been fixing the leaky faucets. There was no metamorphosis at all.

I told a friend how puzzled I was about this phenomenon of grandmothers. He replied that his aunt was a fine old lady who was also a grandmother and a poor cook. I expressed amazement and disbelief, so he arranged for us to be invited to dinner one Sunday afternoon.

"This is likely to be pretty rough," he warned me on our way to her home. "I hope she doesn't serve one of her boiled dinners."

We were greeted at the door by a motherly woman with a warm smile. As we sat chatting before the fireplace, where the logs were crackling cozily, the grandmother served us two of the smoothest and driest martinis I have ever tasted.

Soon dinner was served. We began with a fresh shrimp cocktail topped with a fine zesty sauce. Then came a clear soup seasoned in the most subtle way possible.

THE ENTREE was a crown roast of lamb. The glazed carrot-and-onion casserole was a marvel. For dessert we had mint sherbet and a wonderfully light and airy angel food cake.

Since that day, no one has tried to tell me he knows of a grandmother who isn't a good cook.

Points Out Inaccuracies in Letter on Anti-Bias Meeting

In Mr. Kudalis' letter in the Fence Post on June 24 he refers to a meeting held in Hoffman Estates in which a lady, after telling of her experiences in Selma, told of how her friends have disowned her, and that she had been receiving nasty letters and phone calls. Since I must be the lady referred to, I would like to correct the misinformation Mr. Kudalis has given to readers of the Fence Post.

At no time have my friends "disowned" me for my work in the civil rights movement. My friends, even those who do not share my convictions, respect my right to hold them and to act on them in what I feel are appropriate ways.

Only two of the families in my neighborhood have ever expressed to me personally their dissatisfaction with my views on civil rights, and this was in regard to fair housing rather than my trip to Montgomery—not Selma.

As for the nasty letters and phone calls—they have occurred and have been unpleasant—but the fact that they have been anonymous should be ample evidence that their source has been both irrational and irresponsible.

Mr. Kudalis mentioned a Negro who spoke to the group. There was no Negro speaker.

Mr. Kudalis said there was some talk of a car-caravan of Negroes that would go touring through some suburbs. At no time during the meeting was this discussed.

Mr. Kudalis implied that the meeting at Beth Tikvah was sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Human Relations Committee. Actually, it was a meeting of the Northwest Suburban Council on Human Relations.

Mr. Kudalis seems to have confused the NAACP (who had permission to make literature regarding the NAACP available to those present) with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of which Dr. King, recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize, is the leader.

It would seem from Mr. Kudalis' letter that the efforts of the good citizens of Mount Prospect to establish a Human Relations Committee have not been lessed with harmony, There will always be room for legitimate areas of disagreement concerning ways of promoting equal rights for all in our communities—which should, of course, be the aim of a Human Relations Committee.

But let us hope that the "sane" Human Relations Committee that Mr. Kudalis hopes to be instrumental in establishing in Mount Prospect will not be willing to sacrifice justice in the interests of harmony and that it will not be characterized by the type of biased thinking and disregard for facts illustrated in Mr. Kudalis' letter.

Critic's Corner

lieve that you agree with the U. S. Supreme Court when it said schools shouldn't force children to accept ideas of the state.

LISTEN, JEFF! You seem to have some difficulty getting the right approach to Independence Day. Why don't we just drop the speech idea. Everyone is too busy shooting firecrackers to listen to talk about "Life and Liberty."

You are a good musician. Why don't you bring your violin and play a few numbers for us. Then you won't offend any one except the Beatle fans.

'Ring the Bells" Effort Backed By Jr. Women

We come once again to the day of commemorating one of our country's most important events—Independence Day. In this year 1965, it seems a long way from Valley Forge to Viet Nam but the fight for freedom knows no limitations of generation or geographical boundaries. Our generation is giving its blood to protect and share that freedom gained by our forefathers.

The Elk Grove Village Junior Woman's Club, as a member of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and the General Federation of Women's Clubs, joins with other Junior Clubs in Illinois in urging support of the "Ring the Bells" campaign as officially proclaimed by Governor Otto Kerner.

At 1 p.m. on July 4, bells in every part of our nation will ring. Even though Elk Grove Village is not equipped to take part in the actual ringing of bells, it is hoped all Americans will pause to give a moment of serious thought to those freedoms we enjoy which were so dearly won. May we take this moment to resolve that governments "of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

Sees Possibility Of Controlled Referendum

Are the citizens of Wheeling stupid and uninformed? This is what the village board of Wheeling infers. Not only do they infer it, they accentuate it to the tune of $2,000.

Three referendums are planned at a cost of about $1,000 each. We may be partially uninformed but we're not totally stupid. We know that if the three (3) questions are posed at one (1) time we would save $2,000.

Is this the cost of a controlled referendum? Perhaps the Village board intends to control the referendum through exhaustion from the citizens running back and forth to the polls.

Thanks All Who Helped With Bake Sale

As the president of the Buffalo Grove Police Auxiliary, I would like to thank all the women who helped us with our bake sale on June 12.

Our friends, neighbors and relatives as well as the Buffalo Grove Firemen's Auxiliary and Alcott School room mothers all donated their home made pastries so that we might purchase emergency and rescue equipment with the profits from the sale.

I would also like to thank all the merchants at the Ranch Mart Shopping Center for their help during the sale. Even one of our Cub Scouts brought us some of his home made fudge! Thanks to all.

Headlines on Itasca Story Called Distorted, Sensational

In the Itasca Register issue dated June 17, 1965, there appeared headlines "Squabble over I-90 Plan" with the subtitle on the article "Nottke Tangles with Jordan."

This in itself would lead readers to believe that heated arguments took place and harsh words were spoken, that there is dissension among the Itasca Village Board members. This sensationalism, this distortion of the facts and misconception by the writer in my opinion is detrimental writing.

The Board of Trustees of the Village of Itasca are dedicated men serving a community that they love and are proud of. The writer of the articles for the newspaper should get the facts and present them to the people in a true and undistorted manner.

I believe in a small town such as Itasca, where no corruption in politics exists, that newspapers can give the residents of the area the present happenings and the coming events, etc. that are of interest, and this in itself will sell papers.

It is my belief that the newspapers in our area is the only practical way to communicate with the residents and get them the story. When stories and headlines such as mentioned appear, it does not take long to spread the truth by word of mouth and eventually all respect and regard for the publication is lost.

The headlines stated "Squabble over I-90" this was entirely wrong, there was discussion on the matter, and in several areas of non-agreement, but certainly no squabble.

Many times the Itasca Board of Trustees discuss and do not agree entirely on different propositions, this is a healthy situation and shows that the different trustees have a mind of their own, and are not afraid to express an idea or opinion.

The second distorted statement was "Nottke Tangles with Jordan." This dramatic statement could indicate a boxing or wrestling match, and again no such action was there. A discussion and friendly non-agreement were present, but here it stopped. Robert Jordan is a personal friend of mine, and has been for years, I appointed him to the Village Board of Trustees some 2½ years ago. I respect him as an individual, I was impressed by his good attitude toward the Village of Itasca, and I knew he was a person and we would enjoy working and being with. My opinion to this day has not changed and I consider him one of my closest friends in the Village.

Statements like mentioned do not help further the relationship. Many, many more parts of the story were not correct and misleading. I do not believe sensationalism is necessary in small town papers, I believe that reporters get over-enthusiastic and try for this. The residents of Itasca would be satisfied with the true picture and factual story on a subject, so as to be an informed populace.

Trustees are sworn to do the job to the best of their ability, and all facts in each proposition must be presented and weighed, so that the best possible solution can be derived at for the benefit or betterment of the entire community and not for the advantage of the few. I do not carry too much hope that we can change the writing form or style, but we will keep trying.

Will Nottke

Backs Judges' Right to Speak On Legislation

For a newspaper which apparently advocates equal rights for all citizens including the individual right to petition, it certainly seems incongruous how quickly you advocate 2nd class citizenship for judges who although elected officials are also private citizens, see your editorial of June 24, 1965 "Partisan Judges," when they exercise these rights to oppose legislation which seems to have gained your favor.

Flag Display Urged July 4th

Where is our patriotism? I was shocked and ashamed this Flag Day! Only one block in the Arlington Heights business district displayed their flags and only a small percentage of our homes displayed flags.

At our recent Memorial Day Parade, I saw very few stand up when our flag went by. Patriotism is to love our country and one very good way to show this is to display our flag.

Let us all proudly display our flags July 4th and show everyone that we are proud to be Americans.

Publicity Important to Geological Club

Our club has come a long way since its beginning. The Des Plaines Valley Geological Society is composed of beginner enthusiasts to the more advanced craftsman.

The club within itself has small groups or classes working on various projects to suit their own interests, such as mineral identification, wire jewelry, hand lapidary, fossil identification, micro photography to name a few.

Obviously to be able to do these things, and be interested in rocks and minerals enough to go out in this great big beautiful country of ours, and look for these objects is not enough. One must share the joys of finding the unusual and rare, and also share the experience and hazards of collecting.

This is where you have helped tremendously by printing our club notices in your newspaper. You have helped our club to grow, (our membership has increased every year) and more people are enjoying this hobby and wanting to learn more about it, because there are more folks to share it with.

Thank you doesn't seem to be enough for your cooperation, but if there is any satisfaction in knowing that you have enriched many lives because of a new interest and new friends, young and old alike, then you and I are experiencing the same pleasure.

As retiring publicity chairman, I hopefully ask that the same good coverage you have allowed me, will also be given to the new chairman, Bob Markus.

Lyric Opera Publicity Was Effective

I should have written this before but I hope you understand the kind of end-of-the-year turmoil that every mother gets into, and forgive me.

As publicity chairman for the Lyric Opera Guild, I want you to know how much we appreciated the coverage you gave us during the spring season but most specifically or the big benefit performance.

It was effective as is evidenced by the fact that all but a handful of seats were sold, and we did make a very generous profit to contribute to Lyric of Chicago. And so, in a round about way, you and I have helped to contribute to the cultural life of the area!

Union Leader Disagrees with Custodian Story

Our organization wishes to protest the news article appearing in your newspaper June 17.

In the first place, you state "not one union member attended the meeting" (of the District 211 Board of Education). If your reporter had consulted the board's agenda, he might have concluded that no appearance had been planned for that night.

It is true that the point of wage for Palatine custodians union is, as you state, "the type of salary scale used by the district." (including the low overtime rate). Local No. 11 has attempted to negotiate a living wage for Palatine ustodians for many months. In their extremity, members have urged the organization to resort to drastic actions in the school district.

Local No. 11 was even urged to picket the commencement exercises, as well as conduct a "March on the Board of Education." Neither of these drastic steps was approved by our executive board. We are a respected and responsible organization that has been growing in numbers since 1921. We did not get this way by hasty and ill-advised actions.

It is true that a letter was submitted to several union members in District 211 (not to ALL members of C.O.P.E. as your article stated). This letter suggested that union representatives attend board meetings, beginning with Thursday's. It further stated "These meetings are open to the public . . . The public is always welcome to attend these meetings because THIS IS THE PUBLIC'S BUSINESS."

The letter also said "It seems like the only time that we call upon taxpayers like yourself is when we ask you to vote for a referendum to build new schools."

Your headline that "Custodians 'Bat Zero'" holds our organization up to public ridicule. Since we began our activities a short time ago in District 211, the workweek was reduced from 44 to 40 hours, and a token increase given custodians. This is not a Mickey Mantle performance, but neither is it "batting zero." And besides, we haven't been up to bat yet.

Soldier Asks Readers Help Korea Orphans

I would like to appeal for help from you and your readers. I am serving in the U. S. Army in Seoul, Korea. My parents reside at 621 N. Wilke Road, Arlington Heights. We thoroughly enjoy reading your paper, the "Arlington Heights Herald."

The 502nd M. I. Bn. supports an orphanage. The orphanage is run strictly on contributions from the members of the battalion.

I am sending an appeal to the readers of your fine paper to help us support this worthy cause.

As your readers well know, children use quite a bit of clothing. Therefore I would like to ask the readers to donate any usable clothing that they can.

The orphanage has children and young people up to 18 years of age.

Korea is in the midst of a serious drought. If this condition exists much longer, there will be many more orphans. The people here are starving to death.

Any help that you can give me for this worthy project of mine will be greatly appreciated.

I sincerely hope that the people who read your paper, the "Arlington Heights Herald," will help me to help the poor unfortunates here in Seoul, Korea.

Denies Charges on Flooding, Offers Solution to Problem

In view of charges made against me by three of my neighbors, I wish to deny these vicious charges and to briefly state the facts, which I am prepared to prove.

In the first place, the pipes from my downspouts do not go to, nor even toward, the alley, but are merely extensions to direct the water away from my foundation, and end some 30 inches from my south property line in sunken splash blocks, which is allowable procedure.

It is true that I am piping the water from my sump pump toward, but not to, the alley. This pipe ends about six feet from the alley in an earthern sump which I have dug in an effort to contain the water on my own property.

It is regrettable, but true, that, during the spring thaw and run-off, this does overflow slightly for a few days, following a natural drainage contour down the alley to the lowest point, where it runs off onto a vacant lot. This lot, being the lowest point on the alley, does flood somewhat every spring, and does occasionally, trickle across the alley, where it is drained off by a tile put in by the property owner across the alley.

At no time has there been any standing water in the alley at this, the lowest point. The only standing water in the alley is directly back of the northeast corner of the W. K. Brown property.

This is caused by the Browns themselves by their filling up of not only the approach to the alley entrance to their garage, but also the natural drainage on the west side of the alley, causing the natural flow of the water from a point near Second Ave. to the north to be blocked off. At this point a mud-hole forms, and, in case of heavy run-off, overflows and floods my back yard.

This was called to the attention of Mr. Doty, at that time the village engineer. Upon an on-the-spot inspection, he immediately said that the Browns would have to install a tile, or culvert, to restore proper drainage, and that he would so inform them. Personally, I doubt if he ever did, as no action was ever taken.

It is interesting, and somewhat amusing, to note that Mr. Cecchi, after he "verified" the false charge of 2 feet to 2½ feet of standing water in the alley, is now parking his car out in front, instead of in the rear, where he had always parked previous to June 10, the night of the council meeting when these silly charges were made.

Also, both the front and the rear parking areas were filled with crushed rock some time ago by one of many previous tenants in this re-converted duplex.

We do have a water problem in this neighborhood, and I'm sitting right smack in the middle of it. The water from the north runs down onto my lot, the water from the South runs down Judson to the Brown's driveway, then down their drive, where it is added to by the water from their roof and down to the apron approach to their west garage entrance, where it is deflected over onto the rear of my lot.

The water from the west, north and south collects in a deep gutter directly across the street, where it seeps into an old field tile which apparently dead ends at, or close to, my foundation, and under the slab of my basement floor and to my sump pump.

The only permanent solution to this problem is storm sewers, but as long as these people are allowed to dump their water off on me, and, by so doing, avoid the expense of same, they will not even talk about it.

Three years ago, and again now, I have offered the village, through Mrs. Richter, member of the village Council, and Mr. Grabowski, who is now serving as engineer to the Village, an alternate and much less expensive solution. This would require my giving the village a permanent easement for a tile to run from Judson to the alley, across the northern edge of my property, then down the alley and across Third Avenue.

Until now I have done everything possible to cooperate with the Village and my neighbors, and will continue to do so for a reasonable period of time, but, unless I, in turn, get some concrete assurance of some action soon, I will take what-ever steps are necessary to stop the dumping of all run-off waters onto my property.

In closing, I wish to state that I am still willing, as I have always been, to meet with my neighbors and the village officials. I'm sure that a peaceful meeting, by the heads of the households, would at least pave the way to an amicable solution to all our problems, and I do mean ALL.

Anti-Smoking Psychology Recommended

Your recent article by Mr. Swinford on teen smoking was timely and encouraging, despite its garbled quotations.

I have always believed that the best way to fight this dirty and dangerous habit of smoking is to use some reverse psychology. Knowing that children emulate adults and want to appear "grown up," the logical attack would be to denounce smoking as "kid stuff," as well as to prohibit smoking in public. To one who has never smoked, there is nothing attractive about smoking, in itself, and no one will take up the habit if it is considered juvenile, or if he will not be seen practicing it.

Adults, like children, are subject to the need for group acceptance, and it would therefore be reasonable to expect that many adults, as well, would thus be pressured into conforming to the new turnabout standard of recognition of adulthood.

As one observant teenager has remarked, it is adults who by their example introduce the vices to children; yet it is the teens who are blamed for their own false steps.

As long as cigarettes, booze, dope, etc. are available to adults, they will be available to children, and the children will certainly be the least at fault, for they cannot understand why they should be expected to conform to a more rigorous moral standard than that practiced by their elders. Nor can we logically expect them to possess greater resistance and restraint than those to whom they look for guidance.

As you read this, ask yourself: How much of your child's allowance is spent on cigarettes? If you don't know, try making spot checks of his current expenditures (without explaining why). Assuming that you care, you may be surprised.

Fair-Minded People Sought For Committee

I read Mr. Kudalis' letter in todays' Herald (June 24) with surprise. As Chairman of the Northwest Suburban Council on Human Relations, a member of the Statewide Advisory Committee of the Illinois Commission, and a member of the now defunct Stering Committee of Interested Citizens, I am well aware of the confusion in the public mind about the proper function of a human relations group. This letter does absolutely nothing to clarify this situation. I suggest that this should be the first duty of this new committee.

Human Relations Committees do not promote demonstrations, block-busting or think of themselves as self-appointed 'Gestapo Agents' or any such ridiculous thing. I am sure he will realize, with some embarrassment, just how extravagant his interpretations of Mrs. McSweeney's remarks are, when he comes to know her better through their work together on this committee. If she is unhappy, why does this not concern him as a fellow member of this committee?

The meeting Mr. Kudalis describes as a meeting of a "Hoffman Estates Committee" seems somewhat like the May 18 meeting of the Northwest Suburban Council on Human Relations held at Beth Tikvah Congregation in that town. I chaired this meeting.

The program was entitled 'The Spirit of Selma in Suburbia' and featured three local residents who participated in the civil rights activities in Alabama in March of this year. Two members of the Elgin Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were introduced as they had requested permission to display informational literature about their organization some days prior to this meeting (I might note here that a Mr. Grosche did not ask permission to display literature at the meeting on May 27 at the Community Center, but stood outside the building passing it out.)

I am sure all fair-minded people are distressed to hear of Mrs. Dossett's harassment since her return from Alabama. No Negro spoke at this meeting. No announcement of any such "car-caravan" of Negroes touring neighborhoods was made. It was announced that a meeting would be held in Mount Prospect on May 27 to discuss a human relations committee as this had been announced in the newspapers.

I strongly suggest Mr. Kudalis get the facts straight and set about to correct resentment towards his committee which he feels will cause it to fail.

I agree wholeheartedly that our community needs a sane Human Relations Committee. Such a committee would not contribute to the wealth of misunderstanding about its proper function by spreading misinformation. It would not seek to disrupt community life by some rash act. Nor plan move-ins of some minority group.

It would seek fair-minded people who would be unwilling to jump to hasty conclusions. It would help people who are fearful and misinformed by rationally discussing the facts and finding appropriate actions and words to create harmony and tranquillity. It would welcome discussion and debate and listen with respect to all opinions. Above all, it would practice what it preaches within its own organizational life.

Submits Three Indian Names For Jr. College

I believe that it is fitting that an Indian name be given to the new junior college.

The first inhabitants of Northern Illinois were Indians belonging to the Pottawattamie tribe. In contrast to many tribes in the area about the Great Lakes they were a peace loving group and lived amicably with the early settlers. Two of their number, known as "Sauganash" and "Shabbona," did a great service in keeping relations friendly. Being of mixed white and Indian blood they knew both languages and so were invaluable in promoting understanding.

The Illinois - Michigan Canal was made possible in 1816 when the Indians relinquished title to a strip of land 20 miles wide along a route connecting the Chicago, Des Plaines and Illinois Rivers. Thus was started the event which made this region a great metropolitan area.

No Canal — No Chicago — No Community College.

I submit three names:

1. Fottawattomie
2. Sauganash
3. Shabbona (preferably No. 3).

Charges Birchers Invaded, Took Over Anti-Bias Group

I read with interest (and a fair amount of nausea) the attempts in last week's "Fence Post" to convince your readers that the 40 people who invaded and took over a Human Relations Council meeting in Mount Prospect were sincerely interested in the civil rights of minority groups. D. Neukranz even went so far as to picture the infiltrators as the moderates and to depict those interested in a true Human Relations Council as the disrupters!

The unvarnished truth is this: The local John Birch Society leadership, aided and abetted by their fellow-travelers and a few innocent dupes, invaded a meeting in which they had no sincere interest and temporarily captured it to frustrate its purposes and use it as a front for Birchist propaganda!

Edwin Kudalis who wrote the letter professing friendship for civil rights but whose every word showed his true antagonism, has identified himself with many extreme right-wing positions. He regularly attends local meetings to defend the Birchite point of view. His distorted comments on Martin Luther King indicates his true position on civil rights.

The Rev. Lindstrom, referred to by Mr. Kudalis, is the same minister serving as a part-time "pastor" of the "Church of Christian Liberty" meeting Sunday afternoons in the Thiensville school. This so-called "church" is another John Birch front sponsoring far - right speakers, films and programs with an occasional prayer thrown in to mislead the innocents who really think they are attending "church."

The Young Americans for Freedom, another front of the extreme rightists, recently gave me the name of the person to contact in this area if I were interested in their radical-right organization. The name given—Mrs. C. Jerome Sullivan — is that of the person who acted as chairman of the group which invaded the HRC meeting in Mt. Prospect. Coincidence? Hardly.

When I answered a Birch ad in the Chicago Tribune last fall to see what response would be forthcoming, my nquiry was followed up in person by Wallace W. Grosche who resides at 146 W. Golf Road, Arlington Heights. Mr. Grosche regularly passes out Birch Society literature at meetings and in a letter I received from him, he referred to the John Birch headquarters in Waukegan as "our headquarters."

This same gang of extremists narrowly missed electing their slate to the Board of Directors of the new Junior College in the May election, this despite the fact that at least half of them opposed even the establishment of such a junior college. Filing their slate was Atty. Rolland Franzen of Arlington Heights, sometime chairman of Americans for Constitutional Action, another high-sounding front for the radical-right.

No one disputes the right of these people to conduct their activities. However, let them fly their true colors — that of a fanatical minority whose positions on public questions have time after time been repudiated by the American people at the polls, a minority that dares not stand up and state their true beliefs but must, like the communists, establish fronts to hide behind.

The Birchers have been attempting, on the orders of Mr. Welch, to infiltrate and take over the leadership of local PTA groups. Once they succeed, they immediately disaffiliate the local PTA from the national PTA. They have succeeded in doing this in well over one hundred local PTA chapters. If you are a member or officer of such local groups, let the Mount Prospect "raid" be a warning. Your organization could be next.

No one can retaliate against the Birchers by invading THEIR meeting. When you join THEIR organization, you sign an agreement that you can be expelled at any time with no reason being given for such action! No elections are held by Birch chapters. All officers are appointed by Fuehrer Welch, who has often reiterated his absolute contempt for democracy. And these are the self-righteous people who lecture the rest of us on freedom!

Within days, you will no doubt be flooded with outraged and anguished howls from our brethern of the far-right. As Harry Truman was fond of saying, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen." Our fanatical friends are good at dishing it out. Now let's see if they can take it when they have to stand up in the sunlight instead of operating in the shadows which they so much prefer!

Libertyville's Frontier Days

Parades, shows, contests, and colorful old characters will highlight Libertyville's annual Frontier Days celebration July 8, 9 and 10.

Last year the three day celebration, featuring a "wild west" atmosphere, drew more than 150,000 people from Cook, Lake and McHenry Counties. A similiar crowd is expected this year.

FOR PARADE fanciers there will be four marching events. Costume and pet parades especially for children will be followed by the Queen's Parade. Milwaukee Ave. will host the bands, floats, music, clowns, and drill teams in the Frontier Days Parade.

The Queen's Parade will be followed by the queen's contest held in Cook Park. The contest, Thursday evening, will be emceed by Jackie Bingert, the former Miss Illinois.

Cook Park will also be the location for three free shows.

The Pee Wee King Show will last two hours on Thursday. On Friday, Libertyville resident Hank McCormick, known as the world's fastest guitar player, will be featured at a western variety show. An amatuer and variety show will be held Saturday.

OTHER Frontier Days events will be: a push ball contest, a fast draw exhibition, a butterfly boat regatta on Butler Lake, a Civil War infantry demonstration, a watershow by the Sitzmark Ski Club, and a rock and roll dance.

In addition, there will be rides, booths, and refreshment stands open throughout the festivities. Also, Libertyville merchants will set up sidewalk sales areas offering special Frontier Days bargains. (Bill

Curtain Time Nears For 'Angel Street'

"Angel Street" will be the next production at Country Club Theatre in Mount Prospect. Opening night is next Wednesday (July 7).

'First' and 'Last' Top Next Week at Ravinia

A "first" and "last" will take place during the coming weeks concerts presented as part of the 30th Ravinia Festival in Highland Park.

The "last" will come first, taking place on Friday night. On that diminutive tenor Chad Mitchell makes his final appearance with the trio which bears his name. Thereafter he embarks on a career as a solo performer.

The "first," which comes second, takes place on Sunday, July 4. At that time conductor Seiji Ozawa and soloist Yoicki Hiraoka give the world premiere performance of "Fantasy on Japanese Wood Prints, Opus 211," by Havhaness.

THE MITCHELL Trio performance begins at 8:30 p.m. while "Fantasy" will be presented as part of a program beginning at 4 p.m.

In between and after the "first" and "last" there will be performances of everything from Mozart to jazz.

On Saturday at 8:30 p.m. soloists Leonard Rose and Isaac Stern will perform concertos by Mozart, Brahms, and Beethoven. On Tuesday, Aaron Copland, starting at 8:30 p.m., will conduct a varied program of compositions including his own Suite from "The Tender Land."

ON THURSDAY evening, also at 8:30, Igor Stravinsky conducts a concerto by Handel-Schonberg and two of his own compositions, "Symphony on Three Movements" and "The Fairy's Kiss 'Le Baiser de la Fee.'" Friday night, July 9 brings young composer-pianist-TV performer Peter Nero. Nero's selections cover the musical spectrum including classic modern and jazz compositions.

Coupon books allowing a 25 per cent saving over gate admission at Ravinia may be purchased at The Bank of Arlington Heights, Arlington Market, Kensington and Dryden. Each book of 24 tickets, worth $1 each, may be bought for $18.

Shady Lane Comedy Nears Last Curtain

Only five more performances of "Beekman Place" will be presented at the Shady Lane Playhouse, near Marengo.

The Samuel Taylor comedy, starring Curtis Wheeler, the third production of the season at Shady Lane, will be played tonight (Thursday) and tomorrow (Friday) at 8:45 p.m., Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m. and Sunday at 8:15 p.m.

"BEEKMAN PLACE" is the sophisticated tale of the trials and tribulations of Emil Bach-Nielson, played by Wheeler. Wheeler, as Bach-Nielson, is a famous concert artist who wishes the world would pass him by. But, he's out of luck.

Old friends and new pressures force Wheeler Bach-Nielson from seclusion and into many humorous situations. Wheeler's on-stage wife fails to appreciate any humor in the unwanted intrusions but that just adds to the enjoyment.

CURTIS WHEELER

In the past, Wheeler has had road tours in such shows as "Three Men On a Horse," "Tender Trap," "Let Us Be Gay," with Gloria Swanson, and "Harvey" with Edward Everett Horton. His television credits include the Kraft Theatre and Phil Silvers Show. (Bill

'Cinderella' Plus Pair of TV Stars At Pheasant Run

A children's playhouse production and the scheduled appearance of two nationally known actors were announced this week by the Pheasant Run Playhouse in St. Charles.

The children's playhouse presentation is "Cinderella," an upbeat, modern version of the old classic. The child's offering has been specially written and adapted for the playhouse by Bill Cox.

THE ACTORS signed were motion picture and television stars Don DeFore and Tab Hunter. Each will appear in future Pheasant Run Playhouse productions according to Darl Stohn Jr., the theatre's producer.

"Cinderella" will be presented this Saturday and on the next four Saturdays. Each presentation begins at 2 p.m. Tickets, $.50 for children and $1.00 for adults, will be sold at the door.

Reservations for "Cinderella" are necessary only for parties of 20 or more.

FOR AN OLDER audience, DeFore will appear in "Never Too Late," a comedy by Sumner Arthur Long which opens Aug. 3. Hunter follows, beginning on Aug. 24, in "The Tender Trap" written by Max Shulman and Robert Paul Smith.

The plays of DeFore and Hunter will follow the current Pheasant Run attraction "Jenny Kissed Me," starring Rudy Vallee, which runs through July 11, and "Late Love" with Virginia Graham which begins July 13. (Bill

Instruction In Wife Killing Opens Tomorrow

Instructions for killing your wife will be given during the next week. But not really!

It's just a new technicolor movie comedy starring Jack Lemmon and Virna Lisi entitled "How to Murder Your Wife" which opens at Golf Mill Theatre tomorrow (Friday).

Lemmon plays an enormously wealthy newspaper comic strip artist who wants to remain single. Leading lady Lisi upsets Lemmon's plans by appearing in his bed one morning as his lawfully wedded wife. Then the spoof on all murder plots begins.

The cameras follow wild-eyed Jack and green-eyed Virna through the heart of New York's night life center. Aiding in the madness is Terry-Thomas, playing Lemmon's manservant who also loves the life of a carefree bachelor. (Bill

Modern Etiquette

Q. Would it be all right, when having guests for dinner, to bring in filled plates from the kitchen and put one down in front of each guest? This would save a hostess lots of serving dishes.

A. While not incorrect, this seems an unpractical system. Unless the hostess knows the taste of each guest, it is certainly much better to let the guests help themselves to whatever and as much as they want.

Q. Is a bride required to write a thank-you note for a check given to her as a wedding gift, just as she does for other gifts?

A. Indeed yes, and if possible she tells the donor just what she intends to do with the money.
